The Village Board met Tuesday night to confer with some of the land owners south of the village in regard to the sewer question. No agreement could be reached between them, and the farmers threaten suit against the village. President Oims and the trustees are now attempting to obtain signers for a drainage system which will settle the controversy for all time. If over one-third of the property owners will sign a drainage system can be established.

Mosser-Knigge Wedding.
Mr. Will Mosser and Miss Lydia Knigge were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Knigge—Wednesday afternoon, June 17, 1903.

At the hour of 3 o'clock the contracting parties entered the parlor while the wedding march was rendered by Miss Selma Torgler. Here, amid a profusion of roses and ferns, Rev. J. C. Hoffmeister, performed the ceremony which united the happy couple for life. The bridesmaids were Misses Lydia Heidemann of Elmhurst and Cora Herschberger of Chicago, and the groomsmen were Robert Mosser and Frank Krigge. After congratulations were tendered the bride and groom the company repaired to Knigge hall, where a grand wedding feast was temptingly spread upon tables beautifully decorated with ferns and carnations.

The handsome couple left on the 9 o'clock train for Kansas City, and after a short visit with friends will return to Palatine to reside with the parents, where they will be home to their friends after July 6.

The bride is the oldest daughter of the home and a young lady who is esteemed by all who have the fortune of her acquaintance. She is a graduate of the Palatine high school and possesses a good musical education. Of a sweet disposition and lovable traits, she will make an ideal helpmate.

The groom is in the photography business in this place and a young man who has a host of friends. He has lived here most of his life, and is an industrious and earnest worker at his profession.

Their many friends will wish Will and his bride all the happiness they anticipate in their wedded life.

Alumni Banquet and Reception.

The fourteenth annual banquet and reception of the Palatine High School Alumni was held last Friday night.

The banquet was held in the village hall, where old schoolmates and friends feasted round a sumptuous board and listened to toasts by several present. It was a happy gathering and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The room was tastefully decorated with the class of '03 colors and the tables were neatly arranged.

After the banquet the company enjoyed a dance in Battermann hall, where splendid music was furnished for the occasion.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Miss Ada Filbert, president.
Carl Starch, vice president.
Miss Clara Taylor, secretary.
P. H. Matthei, treasurer.

Changed His Mind.

West Dundee has a village board, but is not able to hold a meeting as the result of the excellent services of a recent evangelist in that town. It should not be inferred that the minister has interfered with the gavel of the president or gotten out an injunction restraining the members from attending a session, but it did happen during the recent revival meetings held in the northern suburb that the president had a change of heart on the proposition of a saloon for West Dundee.

When the election was held this spring the advocates of a saloon license for Ike Montague, on the west side of the river, voted for the present president of the board on the understanding that he was in favor of the license. There are six members. Three of the men favor the license and the others are as hotly opposed to the destruction of the present temperance sentiment on the west side of the river by the establishment of a drink shop. In order to prevent a quorum the anti-license men staid away from the meetings of the board, while the others tried every means to secure a voting majority. This was the case several weeks when the evangelist came to town. The president heard him, had a change of heart, and is now opposed to a saloon license. Now the anti-license men are seeking a meeting of the board and the pros stay away, so as not to have a quorum present. Several times the president has tried every means in his power to secure enough members to transact business, but has been unsuccessful. There seems to be no immediate prospect of a break in the deadlock.

ROBBED THE CARY BANK

Currency to Amount of $3,400 is Carried Away by Safe Blowers.

Surrounding Country Scoured in Search of Cracksmen.

Near the hour of 2 o'clock Wednesday morning cracksmen entered the little frame building at Cary Station, occupied by L. E. Mentch as a private bank. The men took into the building dynamite or nitro glycerine, applied it to the "burglar proof" safe, and soon after left the building, carrying with them over $3,000.

The story of the robbery has been told in so many different ways that it is difficult to get at the truth of it. The explosion which wrecked the safe was a terrific one and shook the buildings in that section of the village and aroused the people who were so terrified that they dared not venture out to learn the cause of the explosion.

It remained for a woman, Mrs. Jno. Wolf, to sound the first warning, but she was too late. Before she fired a rifle shot the bandits had completed their work and disappeared into the woods skirting Fox river, taking with them all the money in the Cary bank, except $4.00 in small change.

Mrs. Wolf occupied a room in a building in the rear of the bank and says she saw the robbers conversing under the back window of the bank. She warned her husband who loaded a rifle and determined to shoot, but she persuaded him not to do so, fearing the robbers would return the fire. Within a few moments Mrs. Wolf got over being timid and clad only in her nightgown, she climbed out the window of her room, rifle in hand.

Just then came the explosion. Before the detonation had ceased to rock the buildings Mrs. Wolf aimed at one robber who seemed to be on guard. The bullet went wide of the mark. A moment later three men rushed from the building and were lost in the darkness. Then the village was in an uproar, a posse was soon organized and search in the immediate vicinity was begun.

The men who did the job knew how to use the powerful explosive. The safe was a good sized one, double outside and inner doors of heavy steel. The doors were blown ten feet from the safe, demolishing the interior of the building. The inside lock to the money chest was completely twisted off.

The safe contained an unusual large amount of money, Mr. Mentch having drawn the same to cash checks for workmen employed at the C. & N. W. gravel pits. Two thousand dollars of the $3,400 taken was in unopened packages of $1,000 each.

Chicago detectives were at the scene of the robbery early Wednesday forenoon and sent advices to every town and hamlet in this section. It is the general opinion that the robbers crossed Fox river in a skiff and went across the country to Chicago.

SEEKS HIGH HONORS.

Lieutenant Governor Northcott Announces His Candidacy for Vice-President of U. S.

The following Associated Press report appeared in the metropolitan papers of the country Monday. Our lieutenant governor is certainly after large game. Having controlled the M. W. A. for a number of years, and as he admits, "used the organization in state politics," he proposes to use that big fraternal order to roll him into national politics.

Now it remains to be seen whether the 700,000 Woodmen will support Mr. Northcott in his campaign to become the running mate of President Roosevelt on the republican ticket to be nominated next year.

Indianapolis, June 22.—Lieutenant Governor William A. Northcott of Illinois, past head consul of the Modern Woodmen of America, will be a candidate for vice president of the United States before the national republican convention next year.

Mr. Northcott allowed this announcement to be made quietly by his closest friends in the head camp of the Modern Woodmen. The vice presidential chair has been the goal of Mr. Northcott's ambition for more than a year, and he has been quietly laying his wires in this direction for some time, but not until he came to Indianapolis had it been definitely announced that he would be a candidate.

Why Don't He Stop It.

The Zion Banner, Dowie's organ, comments on violations of the law by Lake county saloon keepers and lauds the states attorney for his position in the matter. Mr. Talcott appeared before the board of supervisors lately and discussed the liquor question. It is said that Mr. Talcott made the astounding statement that almost every saloon in Lake county was violating the law in a most flagrant manner. He referred to dram shops licensed by the county board. If the states attorney has knowledge that the law is being violated in a flagrant manner why don't he remedy the evil? There may be trouble in securing evidence.

Enough to Make Him Snort.

At the name of Lorimer it is said that a fine charger belonging to Col. Lowden reared and snorted. The correspondent does not tell us whether it was the result of instinct or training, but we are inclined to believe the latter. Colonel Lowden is right when he says no factional politician can be elected governor of Illinois next year, says the Elgin News. Mr. Yates, whom the colored element of Chicago calls "the little governor," may build a machine with the crank in his own hands, but he will be disappointed at both the quality and quantity of the stuff ground out. Colonel Lowden would make a capable governor and so would Mr. Deneen.

SENATOR MASON'S GIRLS

Purchase a Section of Land in Western Kansas and Hay Farm It.

A section of land in Kansas has more than a figurative meaning for Rose, Winifred and Ethel Mason, daughters of ex-Senator William Mason. Each of them has secured 160 acres of Grove county, Kansas land which they may utilize for farm purposes or hold it for speculation. The girls have never seen the land which they control. It was purchased after the senator had received information from a friend that the land was sure to advance in value and would prove an extremely profitable investment.

The girls had about $800 each and looking about for investment, so Papa Mason was asked to find a paying investment for the $2,400. Papa was in a position to find something good. He was on the inside of the Kansas land business. That the deal will result in the girls cleaning up a nice little roll of the necessary there is no doubt.

Senator Mason said in relation to the purchase: "Whatever happened, I wanted my girls to have a home of their own."

J. I. Sears' Annual Recitals.

The annual recitals given by pupils of the Sears School of Music are always looked forward to with pleasure by the music-loving people of Barrington and vicinity, because of the high grade of selections given.

The recitals given at the M. E. church Monday afternoon and evening closed the fourteenth year of Prof. Sears' work here, and the citizens showed their appreciation of the institution by crowding the church auditorium to its fullest capacity.

There was not a number on the program of either afternoon or evening entertainment that was not deserving of the high praise accorded.

The excellent execution of difficult numbers on violin, piano, cornet and other instruments showed how thorough is the method of instruction given by Prof. Sears. The readings by Miss Clara Hooker were exceptionally fine, and the vocal solos by Miss Esther Sargent most excellent.

Sears' Barrington band, a new organization, gave the closing number in a manner which showed rapid advancement. The program throughout was the best ever given by pupils of that well-known school.

The papers published in the northern part of the county are patting Elijah the Two Times on the back because they see in him "an important factor in Lake county politics." The Libertyville Independent says: "It is conceded Dowie is to be an important factor in Lake county politics, and we believe one that will have a wholesome influence in the right direction." It is amusing to see the political leaders of Lake county passing bouquets to Elijah. Zion City and the country town will control the political affairs of Lake in the future. Waukegan slate makers have noticed the handwriting on the wall and are greatly disturbed.

It will cost about $1 to give the home farm a name of its own and have a batch of note heads and envelopes printed with name of the farm and its owner on them. It is fast becoming popular with farmers to thus name their farms and use printed stationery just the same as in other lines of business.

ALABAMA PRESS HIDES PEONAGE

Newspapers of the State Maintain an Attitude of Indifference.

JUDGE'S OPINION IS IGNORED

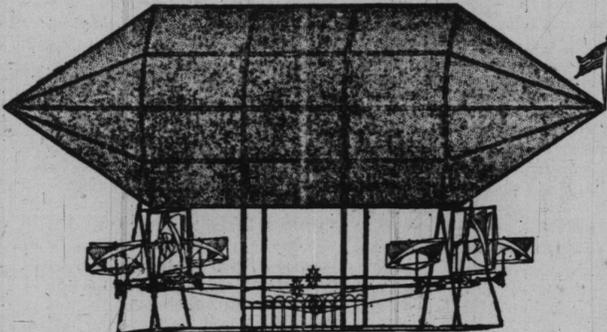

Editors of State Appear to Fear Public Sentiment, Which Favors Maintenance of the Leasing System as Applied to Negro Convicts.

Montgomery, Ala., dispatch: The opinion which United States District Judge Thomas Goode Jones rendered to the federal grand jury for the enlightenment of the jury in connection with its investigation of peonage is a remarkable judicial pronouncement. It has not been accorded the publicity in Alabama which it deserves. One Montgomery newspaper published the full text of the opinion. The press of the state generally, however, dismissed it with the publication of a few excerpts selected with little intelligence.

Press is indifferent. The indifference of the press is hard to understand in view of the fact that Judge Jones declares as criminal a system that has been fostered until it has grown to enormous proportions, and which certain elements in the state regard as one of the fundamentals of their prosperity. He says without equivocation that the contract labor law and the equally infamous statute which renders it a felony for a farm tenant or renter to throw up his lease are not only unconstitutional, but that they are conducive to the creation of peonage.

AIRSHIP DESIGNED BY ILLINOIS INVENTOR.

At Springfield, Ill., recently a meeting was held attended by 300 citizens to give public expression of approval to the ideas of Mr. Reiferscheid, who believes confidently that he has solved the problem of aerial navigation. Mr. Reiferscheid has been at work the past three years upon these plans, has built at different times five different balloons and at every test has given to the public just what he promised. The people therefore have confidence in him and when he insists that he has an airship that will lift

Without those laws to give a color of legality to the slave deals which are being consummated in various sections of the state almost daily, there could be no peonage.

Judge is Antagonistic. Judge Jones possesses the advantage, as a native of Alabama, of understanding the motives underlying the passage of the iniquitous laws. Many years ago, as speaker of the house of representatives in Alabama, he was instrumental in defeating a bill which was a counterpart of the present law. He believed then that it was unconstitutional, and perhaps he believed also that the purpose of it was to re-establish slavery in the guise of peonage. On a later occasion, when a similar bill became the principal issue of a gubernatorial candidate, Judge Jones took the stump against it and was nominated for governor. Again was its enactment into law prevented.

But the advocates of the measure were persistent and in time were successful in having it incorporated among the revised statutes of Alabama. Since that happened Alabama has been cursed by a form of slavery more repugnant in most of its aspects than the slavery which was abolished by the emancipation proclamation of President Lincoln.

Expect Legislature to Act. The law-abiding citizens of the State recognize that Judge Jones has rendered Alabama a conspicuous service in pointing out the constitutional defects of the laws under which peonage has been practiced and are preparing to make his words the slogan of a campaign for their repeal. The legislature will meet in September. It will be urged to pass a repealer without loss of time and also to enact laws which will bring within the jurisdic-

MOTHER AND CHILDREN STARVE

Woman, Well Off a Year Ago, Hungers With Her Family.

La Crosse, Wis., special: Mrs. Jane Mireau, with eight young children, was found by officers in a starving condition in a woodshed. A year ago the woman's husband was adjudged insane, and on his detention Mrs. Mireau came into possession of his property, valued at several thousand dollars and $3,000 in money. What has become of the money is not known.

tion of the State courts of Alabama criminals of the type who are now under indictment before the federal court for fostering peonage. The legislature will undoubtedly act with promptness, for by so doing it can save hundreds of land owners from prosecution by the federal authorities. Situation is Serious.

There can be no reasonable doubt that every planter and employer who has accepted the services of renters and laborers as penalties for violation of leases and contracts is guilty of forcing the persons concerned into involuntary servitude. Neither is there any doubt that they are amenable to the federal law and liable to immediate arrest and conviction.

The situation is very serious. The dockets of justices of the peace throughout the State could disclose to the federal authorities the extent to which the peonage statute has been violated. Every planter and employer who has taken advantage of the State laws is aware of this fact and fearful that, under Judge Jones' interpretation of those acts, he may be called to account.

Many May Be Indicted. Certainly the grand jury, which is still in session in Montgomery and may not adjourn until September, has been given the widest possible latitude in dealing with offenders. With such assistance from Chief Wilkie's secret service as that official is capable of rendering, the jury can indict hundreds and perhaps thousands of farm owners who believed that they were protected by the laws of Alabama. Prompt repeal of the statutes would force abrogation of all existing contracts, free the peons and perhaps limit the future efforts of the federal authorities to the detection of barbarous slave drivers of the type already under indictment.

KILLS HIS SISTER BY ACCIDENT

Six-Year-Old Boy of St. Louis Then Tries to Cut His Throat. St. Louis, Mo., dispatch: Johnnie Kenzer, aged 6 years, shot and instantly killed his 12-year-old sister, Gladys Kenzer, while the little girl was endeavoring to take a rifle away from her brother. Lottie Lindsay, a playmate, was present and saw the tragedy. According to the child's statement Johnnie Kenzer came upstairs with a rifle belonging to his father. Gladys Kenzer told him to put it down and then attempted to take it away from him and in the scuffle the rifle was discharged, the bullet penetrating the girl's heart. When Johnnie realized what he had done he fell upon her, crying as if his heart would break. When the mother arrived upon the scene she secured a butcher knife and tried to cut his throat, but was saved by his father after the boy had inflicted several wounds. His condition is not serious.

ENFORCE DRASTIC SUNDAY LAW

Sabbath Closing is Strictly Observed at Hot Springs, Ark.

Hot Springs, Ark., special: A drastic Sunday closing law has gone into effect here. Not even a newspaper was sold. Shops and stores were closed and milk and ice wagons were not allowed to deliver their goods. All places of amusement were void of music. One man was arrested for selling chewing gum, and an older man who conducts a grocery was arrested for having his door open.

LASSOS DROWNING MAN.

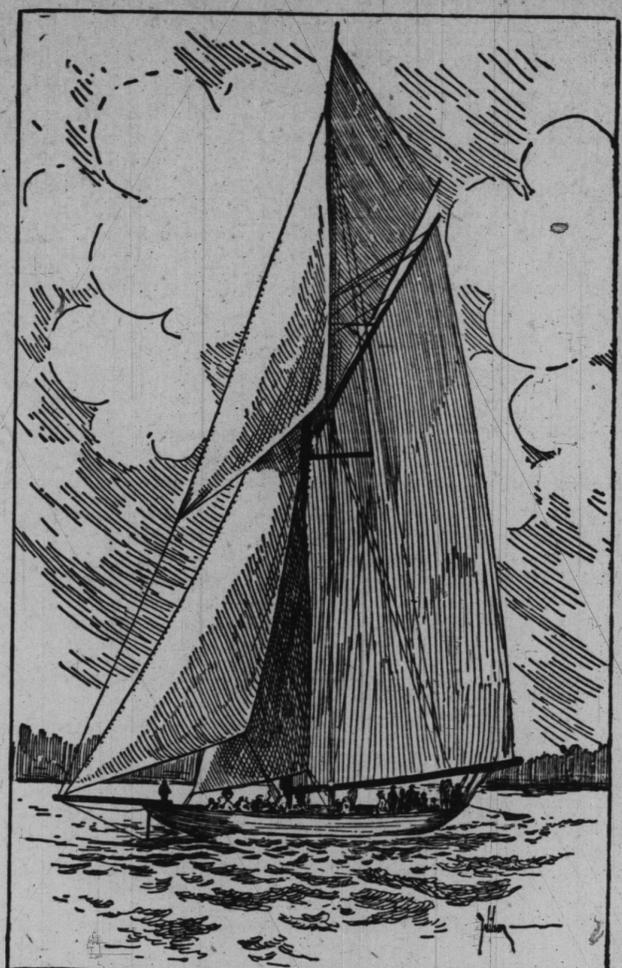

El Paso, Tex., dispatch: Mounted Officer Greet, formerly a cowboy, lassoed a drowning man, Juan Granada, in the Rio Grande, which is turbulent and swollen as a result of the floods. Granada had made a wager that he could swim the river.

WIRE CAUSE FIRE ON A SHIP

Damage Done to Anchor Line Steamer Astoria is Unknown.

Glasgow cable: Capt. Wilson of the Anchor line steamer Astoria, which has arrived here from New York, reports that on June 7, the day after leaving port, fire was discovered aboard the vessel in the coal bunkers between decks, caused by the fusing of the main electric wire. The damage to the vessel is as yet unknown. The cargo was damaged by water.

DUNCAN CURRY THINKS WELL OF LIPTON'S NEW SHAMROCK

Writing in the Chicago American, Duncan Curry, the yachting expert, says:

Sir Thomas Lipton's new challenger for the America cup, Shamrock III, the hope of Britain and the apple of Designer Fife's eye, was dry docked at the Erie basin June 10. For the first time her graceful hull and powerful lines were revealed to American yachtsmen in all their strength and beauty.

The new challenger made a favorable impression to everyone, and the more you look at her the more certain becomes the conviction that she is going to be a hard boat to beat under any and almost all conditions.

When the waters of Gowanus Bay fell away from her snow white enameled steel hull, it was as though someone had pulled a dirty brown curtain in an art gallery and revealed some ancient Grecian marble statue. As the dock slowly emptied its foul water through the sluiceways, exposing her beautiful lines to view, there was a general murmur of admiration, and, as one designer put it, "she is a wonderfully modeled boat of absolutely fair lines and beautifully finished."

This does not mean that the cup is lost by any means, but that our yachtsmen will have to be up and doing to beat this new challenger is certain; and if the Reliance can beat this boat very much in going to windward, the writer and several other people will be surprised. But to get back to the boat.

Shamrock III is a beautiful creation and is well put together. She shows beautiful deck lines, looking from her taffrail forward. She has a nice sheer and a view of her sheer plan would probably bear a strong resemblance to that of Shamrock II, although her lateral plane has not been cut away so much. Her lateral plane appears to be cut away to about the same extent as the Reliance's, but its area is greater.

The beam of the challenger is much farther forward than in Shamrock I, and her run has been carried out to a wider taffrail than was shown in Shamrock II.

She has a well-turned bow, fairly sharp, although there is an outward curve all the way down. Her entrance must be good and she is not likely to be stopped up by a head sea in a light air. This curving of her sides is carried clear to the end of the counter. Her bilges are very easy and at the midship section the curve seems very moderate.

The depth to the rabbet is greater than in any challenger since Valkyrie III, giving considerable more dead rise than might be expected in a modern cup challenger. With this quick rise there is flatness of floor, a soft curve being carried to the turn of the bilge. In all she is a yacht to be greatly admired, even more so, perhaps than our modern American racers, with their bodies constantly approaching the out-and-out scow form.

ROMANCE OF A GOLD CAMP

Original of Bret Harte's Famous Story Placed in Sanitarium.

J. A. Chaffee, famous as the original of Bret Harte's pathetic story, "Tennessee's Pardner," has been placed in a sanitarium at Oakland, Cal. Chaffee has lived since 1849 in a small Tuolumne county mining camp with his partner, Chamberlain. In the early days he saved Chamberlain from the vigilance committee by a plea to Judge Lynch when the vigilantes had a rope around the victim's throat. It was the only case on record in the county where the vigilantes gave way in such a case. Chamberlain was accused of stealing the miners' gold, but Chaffee cleared him, as everyone believed Chaffee. The two men then settled down to live where they have remained ever since, washing enough placer gold to maintain them. Both are over 60.

Friend of Dumb Animals.

Few members of the Society of Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are as energetic and faithful to the cause as Mrs. Florence C. Bethune, a society woman and wife of the well-known New York lawyer. Mrs. Bethune has within a few months caused the arrest of eight men for cruelty to horses and in each case appeared in court to testify against the accused. After securing the conviction of a driver recently Mrs. Bethune announced that she will now direct her energies against mail delivery contractors for inhuman treatment of horses. In the last year Mrs. Bethune has turned over thirty-six sick and homeless dogs to the society.

HIS SANITY OF VALUE NOW

St. Louis Man Has Reason to Want Ban Removed.

An unusual procedure is being taken by Siegfried Pariser, of St. Louis, to have people know he is not crazy, as he was adjudged twelve years ago by the German court of Berlin. He, through his attorney, Sig. C. Gelbart, makes application to be judged sane by law, so he can carry on his affairs according to American laws and customs.

Back of this phase of the case there sleeps a story which is told of how Pariser had trouble with a young woman of Berlin, and to escape punishment for an indiscretion, had himself declared of unsound mind.

Now he wishes to be restored—legally—to the right senses that never left him at all, it appears.

Still another motive seems to be an important factor in the suppliant's argument, but which is not made public in the petition. It is said that a portion of an estate belongs to Pariser, but the $5,000 or more that may come to him is tied up because the German edict as to his sanity still stands.

Politicians and Children.

When Senator Arthur Pue Gorman was at the Fifth Avenue hotel, New York, just before sailing for Europe recently, a newspaper man, presuming upon long acquaintance, pressed the political sphinx insistently for an interview. "Can't do it, my boy," replied the senator. "Politicians, you know, are like children." "How so?" "They should be seen, not heard." And the senator resumed his promenade up and down the hotel corridor.

THE LION'S WHELP

A Story of Cromwell's Time

"And talking of going across seas," she continued, "reminds me of Cluny; neither of you seem to care about him, yet our Jane is fretting herself sick, and you might both of you see it."

"Tell Jane to be patient," said Dr. Verity. "If Cluny is not back by the New Year, I will go myself and bring him back. But remember all is to arrange and rearrange, order and reorder, men to put out of office, and men to put into office. The work before the Protector is stupendous."

This opinion proved to be correct. Day after day passed, and no word concerning Cluny was possible.

One crisp, sunny morning in January Jane suddenly resolved to make some inquiries herself.

"Have you heard anything about Lord Neville, Sir Thomas?" she asked. "I am very, very unhappy at his long delay."

"So am I," answered Sir Thomas. "I sent a trusty man to The Hague, and it seems Lord Neville collected the money due there, six weeks ago. He refused a note on the Leather Merchants' Guild of this city, and insisted on being paid in gold, and was so paid. Now, Jane, a thousand sovereigns are not easily carried—and—"

"Well, sir? Please go on."

"But Lord Neville did not go to America. Oh, no, sir! That is an impossible thought."

"Why did he insist on the gold? This is the thing that troubles me."

"Who says he insisted on gold?"

"The widow of the man who paid it."

"She may have been mistaken. She may herself be dishonest. The money may never have been paid at all. I do not believe it has been paid. Did your trusty man see Lord Neville's quittance?"

"I have not thought of that, Jane. I will send again to The Hague."

"Yes, sir, and let your messenger ask to see Lord Neville's quittance."

more directly than myself I send you a last word from this place. My thoughts outreach all written words. I am with you, my own dear one, in all my best moments, and my unchangeable love salutes you. Graciously remember me in your love and prayers.

"Cluny Neville."
"A good letter, Jane. I do think the man that wrote it is beyond gullie, beyond dishonor of any kind. I will not hear a doubt of him. He touched a bell, and when it was answered said, 'Mr. Tasburgh to my presence—without delay.' Mr. Tasburgh came without delay, and Cromwell turned to him in some passion."

"Mark Tasburgh," he said scornfully, "I have not once heard from you in the matter of Lord Neville's delay. The commission for your search is more than a month old; it is, sir, and I like not such delays."

"My Lord Protector, I reported to Mr. Thurloe and Mr. Milton that my search had been of no avail."

"What date does Lord Neville's last letter bear?"

"It was written at Paris on the 11th day of November."

"The same date as your last letter, Mistress Swaffham. Four months ago. This is serious." The turning to Tasburgh he said, "Find Col. Ayrton and send him here, to me, without delay."

During the interval between Tasburgh's departure and Ayrton's arrival, Cromwell was occupied in writing a letter, and when it was finished, Col. Ayrton entered.

steps as closely as it may be in your "Colonel," he said, "I think you know Lord Cluny Neville? He has disappeared, I do fear, in some unfortunate way. On the 11th of last November he left Paris, after dispatching the business he was sent on with Cardinal Mazarin. No one has heard of him since. I have written to his Eminence, the Cardinal; here is the letter, and if his reply be not to the point, go next to the lodging of Lord Neville, and from there follow his

"Prince Rupert is her lover. She will do anything he desires her to do."

"If he truly loves her he would not permit her to be put in danger."

"Then Mrs. Swaffham went out of the room, and soon afterwards Dr. Verity came in, asking cheerily as he entered, "How is it with you to-day, Jane?"

"I live as best I can, doctor. I watch from the morning to the midnight for a footstep that does not come."

"There is a desire that fulfills itself by its own energy, but this desire is born of unfeeling Hope, and of that unfeeling Faith that can move mountains. Have you got it, Jane?"

"I am so weak, Doctor John. Pray for me."

"Pray for yourself. Why should any one pray for you? Pray for yourself, though it be only to say, with the old Acadians, 'Hold Thou my hands!' Go to God, Jane; you are only a little babe in His sight; a little babe crying in the vast void and darkness, and trying to catch hold of something to which you may cling. Say to the Father of your spirit, 'Hold my hands!'"

And she rose and kissed him for his sweet counsel, and that night, and many a night afterwards, she fell asleep whispering, "Hold Thou my hands!"

It was evident that he was not a city man, for he looked at the cab long and doubtfully before deciding to hire it.

"Funny lookin' thing," he muttered, "with the driver's seat out over the tail of it; but I got to play all the games there is, so here goes."

He moved up to the waiting cabby. "I want to hire the go-cart fer awhile," he announced.

"All right, sir," said the cabby. "Where do you want to go?"

"Say!" was the indignant response, "seems to me you're gittin' pretty gay. What is it to you where I want to go so long as I pay the price? Think I'm goin' to run away with the two-wheeled box?"

"No, sir, certainly not," returned the cabby. "Pleasure ride, I suppose; want to see the sights. Get right in, and—"

"Git in!" exclaimed the stranger. "Well, I guess not. Think I want to ride in that caboose! No, sir, I'll git on top."

"But that's my place," protested the cabby. "How can I drive—"

"Drive! Who's askin' you to drive? D'you think I'm hirin' this hearse so's I kin play the part of the late lamented? Not any. I'm a live man, I am. I'm payin' fer a live man's fun. Git in yourself."

"Why not? You're smaller'n I am."

"I mean I must drive."

discovered to the people; Cromwell himself had been aware of its first inception, and had watched it grow to its shameful maturity. But to the city of London the arrest of forty conspirators in their midst was a shock that suspended for a time all their business.

Israel Swaffham was the first person called into the Protector's presence. He found him in great sorrow, sorrow mingled with a just indignation. With his clenched hand he pointed out to Israel the personalities of the conspirators. At one name he paused, and with his finger upon it, looked into Israel's face.

"It is a burning shame," Israel said, angrily. "You have pardoned and warned and protected him for years."

"I must even now do what I can; I must, Israel, for his father's sake. A warrant will be issued to-night, and I cannot stay that, and personally I can not warn him of it. What am I to do?"

"My dear lord, do nothing. I can do all you wish. There needs no more words between us. In two hours Abel Dewey—you know Abel—will be on the road. Give him a good horse and he will so manage himself and the beast as to reach his journey's end in twenty-four hours."

Israel then went quickly home. He called Jane and explained to her in a few words what she was to do, and by the time her letter to Matilda was ready, Abel Dewey was at the door waiting for it. Its beginning and ending was in the ordinary strain of girls' letters, but in the center there were some ominous words, rendered remarkable by the large script used, and by the line beneath them—"I must tell you there has been a great plot against the Protector discovered. Charles Stuart and Prince Rupert are the head and front of the same, but there is a report that Stephen de Wick is not behindhand and my father did hear that a warrant was out for Stephen, and hoped he would reach French soil, ere it reached him." She hastened to sign her name and close the letter. Abel Dewey was ready for it, and as she watched him ride away her thoughts turned to de Wick, and she wondered in what mood Matilda might be, and how she would receive the information sent her. Would it be a surprise?

"Not it," answered Mrs. Swaffham. "Matilda knows all about the plot; that is most certain; but its discovery may be news to her, and if so, she will not thank you for it, Jane. Why will she burn herself with fire not on her hearthstone?"

"Prince Rupert is her lover. She will do anything he desires her to do."

"If he truly loves her he would not permit her to be put in danger."

"Then Mrs. Swaffham went out of the room, and soon afterwards Dr. Verity came in, asking cheerily as he entered, "How is it with you to-day, Jane?"

FREE TEXTBOOKS ARE ILLEGAL

Trustees Cannot Use School Funds for That Purpose.

The German Federation of Catholic Societies of Chicago scored a big victory in its fight against free textbooks in the public schools when the Appellate court announced its decision in the case of Peter Kill vs. the board of education and city of Chicago. The Appellate court affirmed the decision of Judge Neely, who enjoined the board of education from purchasing free textbooks with funds of the public schools, on the ground that it was illegal to do so. The federation, through Peter Kill, one of its members, brought the action before Judge Neely, and continued to fight the case when the board of education appealed it. In handing down the opinion of the Appellate court, Judge Burke said: "We are of the opinion that the powers granted for general management of schools do not authorize the board to distribute school books for the free use of pupils. Such power to expend school moneys in ways new and untried in this state should first be clearly granted by the legislature, and not assumed by the zeal of boards of education or by the construction of courts."

BOILING WATER BURNS TWO MEN

Fall into Engine Pit at Alton and Are Severely Injured.

Nicholas Schwab of Alton was dangerously burned by falling into a pit full of boiling water in the engine room of the Stanard Milling company. The pit is occupied by a big condensing engine, and during the flood was filled with water. In order to get the pumps into operation to drain the pit the engine was filled with steam and this heated to the boiling point. Schwab stumbled into the pit, but in falling managed to catch hold of the side and clung there until he could gather strength to draw himself out of the hot water. A surgeon was summoned and it was found that the skin was burned off Schwab from his waist down. It is believed that he will recover. The chief engineer of the Standard milling company met with a similar accident. He stepped into another hole near the main engine room and was scalded on one leg up to the hip.

Rev. S. D. McKenny, pastor of the Cherry Street Baptist church, Alton, fell from a portico at his home, a distance of 15 feet, to the ground. He sustained a fracture of one rib and several bruises.

Railroad to Build Dike.

Officers of the Chicago and Alton railway say that a strong dike of stone and earth will be built from Alton through the American bottoms, to guard against future flooding of the railway tracks.

"A good letter, Jane."

"I will send a man to The Hague to-day. Why do you not see the Protector? He was fond of the young man. He believed in him."

She only answered, "Yes, sir," and then adding, "Good-morning, sir," she turned to go. Her whole appearance was so wretched Sir Thomas could not rid himself of her unhappy atmosphere. His walk was spoiled; he went into his private room and smoked a pipe of Virginia, but all his thoughts set themselves to one text: "There are many sorrowful things in life, but the hardest of all is loving."

CHAPTER XII.

Hold Thou My Hands.

This day was followed by a week of wretched weather. Jane could do nothing but wait. She fully resolved when she visited Cromwell to show him the heart of a fearless woman—brave, because she doubted neither God nor man.

It was, however, the month of March before this visit could be made. One exquisite morning in March she heard Gen. Swaffham say that the Cromwell ladies were going to Hampton Court. The Protector would then be alone in Whitehall, and she might see him without having to share her confidences with the family. She prepared a note asking for an interview, and then called on Mr. Milton and induced him to go with her to the palace and deliver it into Cromwell's hand. In her simplicity she considered this little plan to be a very wise one, and so it proved. Her fear left her as soon as the door closed, and she was alone with her old friend.

"Jane," he said kindly, "Jane, what is the trouble?"

"It is Lord Neville, sir. Nothing has been heard of him."

"When did you hear last from him?"

Jane offered Cromwell Cluny's last letter, and asked him to read it. He read it aloud, letting his voice become sweet and tender as he did so.

"My dearest and most honored mistress, I am just on the moment of leaving Paris; my horse is at the door, but by a messenger that will come power. The treasurer will honor this order for your expenses. Farewell, and God go with you."

He waited until the door closed, and then he said: "I owe you this and more, Jane; and I like the youth—a dear, religious youth, of a manly spirit and a true heart."

"It is four months, sir. 'Tis beyond my hope, and I fear Cluny is now beyond human help."

"Well, then, Jane

Colombia and the Panama Canal.

The opposition on the part of Colombia to the ratification of the Hay-Herran treaty for the construction of the Panama canal seems to have taken a new form. It is now reported from Bogota that the antiratification party will claim that the French canal company had no rights and consequently nothing to sell to the United States.

When the original concession to the French company expired in 1898 it was renewed by President Saclamaire for seven years for a consideration of $1,000,000. It is now claimed that this bargain was never ratified by the Colombian congress, and hence there was no sale, although the money was paid and the goods delivered. An emergency clause of the constitution gives the president the right in time of war to do what he deems best for the general welfare. Colombia was at that time at peace with all foreign nations, though a revolution was in full blast within her own borders.

Even if it should be held that this latter condition was a state of war and that the president was thus acting within his legal rights, it is further urged by the antiratification party that, according to the constitution, all emergency acts of the president must be ratified at the next session of congress. There has been no session since the renewal of the French concession, and this is taken as another ground for asserting that the French title is not valid and that all French rights and property revert to the Colombian government under the terms of the original concession.

Apparently certain Colombians think they see a chance for their government to pocket the $40,000,000 which this country has agreed to pay for the French franchise instead of the smaller sum agreed upon in the pending treaty. According to the terms of the extension, the canal must be completed in 1905. Failing that, Colombia would succeed to the French company's rights and privileges and be at liberty to dispose of them as she saw fit.

To a country whose normal condition is bankruptcy this sort of argument appeals with much force, and it remains to be seen whether it will be effective in preventing the ratification of the Hay-Herran agreement.

It is well, however, that Uncle Sam has two strings to his isthmian canal bow. If the negotiations with Colombia fall through, the deal can be made for the Nicaragua route, as that country would welcome rather than obstruct the construction of the waterway through its territory.

Plans to Prevent Forest Fires.

It is gratifying to note in connection with the recent destructive forest fires in the Adirondacks and in Maine that the bureau of forestry of the department of agriculture has been making a careful study of such fires and the methods of fighting them. This investigation differed from former efforts in this direction in that the fire data were obtained during the progress of the conflagrations instead of after they had run their course. Special agents were in the field in various parts of the country watching the movement of the fires and the methods of fighting them by state employees, the employees of corporations and the people living in the affected districts. Attention was also given to the causes, the rapidity of the fire, what natural conditions favor or hinder the progress of the flames and what damage is done to the soil and the tree growth.

Undoubtedly a vast amount of useful information has been thus acquired, the publication of which will serve an important end. It is hoped that it may be the means of preventing the recurrence of such great destruction as has lately occurred in the forests of Maine and northern New York.

How to prevent forest fires is a difficult problem, but it should be possible to stop in considerable measure the annual destruction of the forests by fire, which is estimated at from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year in the country at large. The total loss this year will probably greatly exceed the latter figures.

An attorney representing stockholders owning 400 shares of Amalgamated Copper put a motion at the recent annual meeting held in Jersey City asking for information regarding the affairs of the company and the alleged scandals of the Montana litigation. His motion was lost. The person who presided at the meeting said no report would be submitted to the stockholders. It is to be hoped that the attorney can find some legal way for obtaining the information he seeks, as the answer of the company would be interesting to the public.

Breathitt county, Ky., seems to have so completely eclipsed Bluefields, W. Va., as a feudist center that the latter has practically dropped out of the competition. An ice cream social was pulled off at Bluefields the other evening with but two jobs for the coroner and only a limited practice for the surgeons.

Senator Dewey insists that the lives of men are at their best after they are fifty years old. It is intimated that he regards the same proposition as holding true in the matter of jokes.

Growth of Republicanism in Spain.

The student of old world politics will do well to keep an eye upon current events in Spain. In a letter to the London Times an evidently well informed writer directs attention to the rapid development of an independent public opinion in that country which has already deprived the government of the power of manipulating elections to suit its own purpose.

The recent elections, when Madrid was swept by the Republicans and thirty-four deputies were elected in the country districts, who are frankly hostile not only to the government and the Opposition, but to the monarchy itself, have caused something like a panic among the responsible ministers. Ever since the death of Sagasta the Liberals have been hopelessly disorganized by internal jealousies and are therefore incapable of deciding upon a programme or giving it effective support.

Meanwhile the government, headed by Senor Silvela, seems to have decided upon a violent reactionary and repressive policy. The Official Gazette recently published a circular which has caused no small amount of public agitation. It forbids in the name of "public tranquillity, which cannot be troubled with impunity by cries and provocations," the cry of "Viva la republica" or the exhibition of republican emblems or flags under pain of severe punishment.

On the theory that "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church" such repressive and oppressive measures as those adopted by the Spanish government are likely to accelerate rather than retard the growing republican movement. The spirit of liberty when it once finds lodgment cannot thus be crushed out.

Science of Forestry Made Easy.

A unique law of dealing with forest problems is to illustrate and solve them by means of diagrams, as has been done by Henry S. Graves and R. T. Fisher in a bulletin entitled "The Woodlet," issued by the bureau of forestry of the department of agriculture. The bulletin is intended for the guidance of farmers and owners of small timber holdings in southern New England who desire to improve the condition of their timber, but is of interest and value to other sections of the country.

In this bulletin forestry has been reduced to a series of pictures—outline drawings of trees of various sorts in different relations to one another. The simplicity of the idea is such that the reader, even without any technical knowledge of forestry, can get from the pictures just the information he needs in order to practice forestry on his lands.

Naturally this bulletin cannot make offhand an expert forester out of a farmer, but it does give him specific information, that he will know how to go about the task of handling his own forest problem, and that is just the sort of information the farmer has been asking for. "The Woodlet" was prepared in order to supply such men with the information of which they were most in need.

The bulletin contains also suggestions for pruning, protection of the woods from fire, grazing, insects and wind, and a general discussion of the character of woodlands of southern New England and of the practicability of forestry.

A novel house cleaning machine in operation in England is attracting much attention and approval from the London Lancet and other medical journals. Consul Mahin of Nottingham describes it in a report to the state department. The apparatus consists of a two to four horse power motor—oil or electric—and an air pump, and is portable. A small tightly closed metallic vessel with hose attached is another part of the apparatus. At the end of the hose is the renovator, which is rubbed over the carpet, curtains, upholstered furniture, etc., extracting all dust and dirt, which is deposited in the metallic vessel. No dust is raised, and the cleaning is said to be perfect. This machine will rob the "annual cleaning day" of its disagreeable features. Hose 700 feet long can be used to reach different floors. It looks as though it might be a very desirable article for large houses and hotels. Anything that does away with the annoyance of dust would be a blessing to mankind.

TRUCK DRIVER AND HORSE.

How a Friendly Understanding Developed Between Them.

The friendly relations which often exist between truck drivers and their horses is shown in the story of Chieftain, one of the tales in "Horses Nine," by Sewell Ford. Tim Doyle, the driver, having been left alone in the world, takes up lodgings in the stable. The story runs thus: So for three years or more Chieftain had always had a good night pat on the flank from Tim, and in the morning, after the currying and rubbing, they had a little friendly banter in the way of love slaps from Tim and good natured nosings from Chieftain. Perhaps many of Tim's confidences were given half in jest, and perhaps Chieftain sometimes thought that Tim was a bit slow in perception; but, all in all, each understood the other even better than either realized.

Of course Chieftain could not tell Tim of all those vague longings which had to do with new grass and springy turf, nor could he know that Tim had similar longings. These thoughts each kept to himself. But if Chieftain was of Norman blood, a horse whose noble sires had ranged pasture and paddock free from rein or trace, Tim was a Doyle whose father and grandfather had lived close to the good green sod and had done their toll in the open, with the cool and calm of the country to soothe and revive them.

Of such delights as these both Chieftain and Tim had tasted scantily, hurriedly, in youth, and for them in the lapses of the daily grind both yearned each after his own fashion.

And, each in his way, Tim and Chieftain were philosophers. As the years had come and gone, toll filled and uneventful, the character of the man had ripened and mellowed, the disposition of the horse had settled and sweetened.

In his earlier days Tim had been ready to smash a wheel or lose one, to demand right of way with profane uncton and to back his word with whip, fist or bale hook. But he had learned to yield an inch on occasion and to use the soft word.

Chieftain, too, in his first years between the poles had sometimes been impatient with the untrained mates who from time to time joined the team. He had taken part in mane biting and trace kicking, especially on days when the loads were heavy and the flies thick, conditions which try the best of horse tempers. But he had steadied down into a pole horse who could set an example that was worth more than all the six foot lashes ever tied to a whipstock.

EGG LORE.

Eggs constitute the most universal human food of animal origin.

Plover eggs are esteemed a great delicacy in England and Germany.

The flavor of eggs may be influenced by the food eaten by laying hens.

Hens' eggs have a white or brown color, but ducks' eggs are bluish white.

Hens' and ducks' eggs are commonly offered in our market, but turkey eggs are seldom eaten.

In Virginia gulls' eggs are commonly eaten, and in Texas the eggs of terns and herons are gathered along the coast.

Turtle eggs are highly prized in countries where they are abundant and, though once commonly eaten in America, are now seldom offered.

On an average a hen's egg is two and a quarter inches long and one and three-quarter inches wide at the broadest point and weighs two ounces.

Recent official government figures show that eggs and poultry in the eastern states constitute from one-twelfth to one-sixth of the total value of all farm products.

Baldness Caused by Fear.

Several carefully observed cases of falling hair from emotion have been recorded, but the following is probably one of the most curious: A normally healthy farmer, thirty-eight years of age, saw his child thrown out of a cart and trampled upon by a mule. He supposed it killed and experienced in his fright and tension a sensation of chilliness and tension in the head and face. The child escaped with a few bruises, but the father's hair, beard and eyebrows commenced to drop out the next day, and by the end of the week he was entirely bald. A new growth of hair appeared in time, but much finer.—London Answers.

Curing a Snake Bite.

This is how the Indians of Central America cure a snake bite: They pin the unlucky patient to the ground and wind strong creepers above and below the bite until they cut into the vein. Then they apply a live coal to the wound to cauterize it and follow that up by rubbing in a mixture of chewed tobacco and crushed garlic. By this time the victim is nearly mad with pain and ready to kill everybody in sight, especially when he finds, as he often does, that the snake was not venomous.

Pleased Him.

"I think we might give Bridget a dollar more a week," said the family man.

"What?" exclaimed his wife. "I set her to work cleaning the parlor today, and you should see the way she left it."

"I did. That's what influenced me. I noticed she fixed the piano with the keyboard close up against the wall."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Dividing the Deck.

"Now, Johnny," said the teacher, who had been describing a war ship to the class, "how is the deck divided?" "A deck is divided," replied the bright boy, "into spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs."—Philadelphia Press.

It is a sign you are growing old when you read the obituary before the marriage notices.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Sympathy.

"Oh, let me like a soldier die!" exclaimed the leading man of the barnstormers.

"Oh, if I only had a gun!" exclaimed some one in the gallery in a tone that savored of genuine sympathy.—Chicago News.

THE AVERAGE BRAIN.

What It Weighs and the Number of Cells It Contains.

Whether it be the brain cell of a glowworm or one trembling with the harmonies of "Tristan und Isolde" the stuff it is made of is much the same. It is a difference of structure apparently rather than of material. And the chemical difference between a brain or nerve cell and that of the muscles or the skin seems reducible mainly to a difference in the proportion of two substances—water and phosphorus. Lean brain, for example, is from 70 to 80 per cent water; the brain is from 90 to 95 per cent water. And a brain or nerve cell may contain from five to ten times as much phosphorus as, let us say, the cells of the liver or the heart. The actual quantity is of course extremely small—by weight but a fraction of 1 per cent.

About three pounds avoirdupois of this very complex phosphorized stuff make up an average human brain. There is a lot more of it, distributed down one's spinal column, and little plumes all over the body wherever a group of muscles are to be moved, and others still, the sensory or feeling nerves, which are everywhere. It is hard to find a cubical half inch outside the bones where they are not.

All told, the nervous substance, which for the sake of making its functions clear I have called the matter which "thinks, forms a not inconsiderable portion of the body outside of the bony skeleton. It is made up of distinct and separated units, for the most part extremely minute, though some attain a length of two or three feet. These units, for lack of a more misleading name, are called cells. The "cells" which run from the snail of your back down into your legs and wiggle the same or inform you when a member of the family is stubbed, are the longest. Those of the brain are mostly so small as to tax the powers of the microscope. Their average length would be measured in thousandths of an inch. There have been many attempts to get at their actual number. It is certainly large. Computations for the brain alone range from 600,000,000 upward. One, due, I think, to Waldeyer, sets the total number of brain cells (average) at 1,600,000,000,000. This would mean a brain population exceeding the known population of the earth.—Carl Snyder in Harper's Magazine.

FACTS ABOUT FOLKS.

Boys grow more regularly than girls. The memory which acts quickest acts best.

Urban life decreases stature from five years of age on.

Firstborn children exceed later born in stature and weight.

Children born in summer are taller than those born in winter.

Red and yellow are visible at greater distances than green and blue.

Traunt boys are inferior in weight, height and chest girth to boys in general.

Dull children are lighter and precocious children heavier than the average child.

Great men, though often absentminded, have strong memories on the lines of their interests.

Healthy men ought to weigh an additional five pounds for every inch in height beyond sixty-one inches, at which height they ought to weigh 126 pounds.

In this year's June bride one may frequently recognize last June's sweet girl graduate.

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Great Preparations on the Pacific Coast for the Visit of the Veterans This Fall.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM IN G. A. R. CIRCLES

The Railroads Have Announced Low Rates

A great deal of enthusiasm is being evidenced in G. A. R. circles concerning the National Encampment at San Francisco in August, and thousands of veterans who have never visited the coast will take advantage of the low railroad rates to the encampment.

The Pacific Coast has always been noted for its hospitality and San Francisco is making preparations for this occasion on a gorgeous scale. The accommodations for guests will be most complete and the railroads have announced low excursion rates to all points in the state to give the veterans a chance to visit the various points of interest.

The passenger department of Chicago & North-Western Railway announces a rate of $50.00 for the round trip from Chicago to San Francisco and Los Angeles, and correspondingly low rates will be made by all lines from other points.

THE DRAUGHT'S BLACK-DRAUGHT FOR CONSTIPATION

Constipation is nothing more than a clogging of the bowels and nothing less than vital stagnation or death if not relieved. If every constipated sufferer could realize that he is allowing poisonous filth to remain in his system, he would soon get relief. Constipation invites all kind of contagion. Headaches, biliousness, colds and many other ailments disappear when constipated bowels are relieved. The Draught's Black-Draught thoroughly cleans out the bowels in an easy and natural manner without the purging of calomel or other violent cathartics.

Be sure that you get the original Draught's Black-Draught, made by The Chattanooga Medicine Co. Sold by all druggists in 25 cent and $1.00 packages.

Morgan, Ark., May 25, 1901. I cannot recommend The Draught's Black-Draught too highly. I keep it in my house all the time and have used it for the last ten years. I never gave my children any other laxative. I think I could never be able to work without it on account of being troubled with constipation. Your medicine is all that keeps me up.

C. B. McFARLAND.

It may be that the recent financial disturbance in Toronto and the stock panic in Montreal will cause Canadians to revise their opinion of Andrew Carnegie's comment on the Dominion steel industry. Possibly, too, the people of Sydney, N. S., will reconsider their refusal and take that library which they turned down because Mr. Carnegie spoke disrespectfully of their iron industry.

MEN PROMINENT IN MURDER OF SERVIA'S KING AND QUEEN

Colonels Alexander Mashin and Milutin Mitsuitch, officers in the Serbian army, who are said to be now the real rulers of that country, representing the army, were foremost among the conspirators to rid Serbia of the hated Alexander and his still more unpopular queen. Col. Mashin is credited personally with the death of the king. Col. Mitsuitch had been known as a brave officer for many years and to have had advanced ideas for a freer Serbia under a better ruler. He had lived in the shadow of the king's displeasure for the past two years, because of alleged revolutionary utterances. Both these officers have been promoted in rank.

THREATEN TO LYNCH INDIANA TEACHER

Mob Is Enraged at Story of Girl Pupil, Who Charges Instructor With Paternity.

Brazil, Ind., special: Wild excitement followed the hearing in the case of Gus White, held on a paternity charge filed by Miss Mabel Sanders, a pretty 16-year-old girl, and his pupil. The friends and relatives of the girl had closed about the prisoner, and Justice Couch hastily bound him over to the circuit court and ordered him taken to jail. As the officer was descending the stairway the cries of "Lynch him" came from the angry crowd that had been frenzied by the girl's pathetic story. Prompt action of cooler heads prevented serious trouble, and White was hustled off to jail. White has taught in the public schools for years, and last season held the principalship at Deeridge school. He has for years been an active church worker.

WHEAT IN GERMANY IMPROVES OVER MAY

Heavy Northeast Winds Prevailing in June Lower the Temperature and Retard Crops.

Berlin cablegram: Sunshine during the latter part of May improved crop conditions in Germany, which would have been even more favorable at the beginning of June had heavy northeast winds not prevailed, lowering the temperature. The present conditions are:

Winter wheat rather scant, but improved over last month. There are very favorable reports regarding winter rye, which shows excellent growth. The summer crop, owing to the temperature, is not well developed. Only summer wheat has retained the condition of the previous month.

The report regarding rye, barley and oats shows their condition to have declined. The prospects of the potato crop are unfavorable. The tubers have developed irregularly and last month's rotting has made necessary much new planting.

WOMAN'S ABSENCE PUZZLES THE POLICE

Mystery Surrounds the Disappearance of Angeline Brown From Her Sister's Home.

Carbondale, Ill., special: The mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance of Angeline Brown from her home near Centerville deepens as the days pass and no clue is secured. Mrs. Brown for years has been a member of the family of her sister, Mrs. Hutchcraft. Their relations are supposed to have been pleasant. It is believed by some that an old abandoned cellar partly filled with debris may solve the mystery and the place will be thoroughly cleared. An odd coincidence in the affair is found in the fact that a brother of the missing woman left home under peculiar circumstances forty years ago and after eight years as suddenly as he disappeared he walked again into his home. The authorities believe the present case is anomalous and that the woman is alive.

TAKE BACK THEIR BREWERIES

Eastern Capitalists Pay $4,000,000 to English Syndicate.

New York special: Announcement has been made in this city that for $4,000,000 Gottfried Krueger of Newark, N. J., and Peter Hauck of Harrison, N. J., and Adolph Hupfel of this city, who sold their breweries to an English syndicate several years ago, have now bought them back. In 1889 the three men mentioned, together with others, sold their breweries to English capitalists. It is said that the price just paid for the breweries, five in number, was $78 on preferred and $35 on common stock.

FIVE DIE IN WRECKED MINE

Explosion at Blossburg, N. M., Charged to a "Windy Shot."

Raton, N. M., special: Five men were killed by an explosion which completely wrecked mine No. 3 of the Raton Coal and Coke company at Blossburg, N. M. The dead are: Joe Fresnic, Tony Nation, Jack Stoim, Tom Polaner, Alfonso Deme. Jack Bell, fire boss, was badly burned, and Harry Mussell had several ribs broken. The explosion is believed to have been caused by a "windy shot." The mine was inspected less than two weeks before.

VARIETY ACTRESS IS WOUNDED

Victim of a New York Youth, Who Attempts to Kill Himself.

New York special: Ollie Foster, a variety actress, was shot and fatally wounded as she sat in a balcony box of the Imperial Musical hall, Coney Island, by a well-dressed young man who says he is Edward Geets, 21 years old, of New York. He refused to say why he tried to kill her. Immediately after shooting the woman he tried to kill himself, but the revolver missed fire and he was disarmed before he could pull the trigger again.

Clew in Umbria Plot.

New York special: A clew to the placing of the dynamite bomb on the steamship Umbria was found when detectives arrested Joseph Figliaro and George Bruno of West Hoboken. On one of them was a paper relating to the Cunard pier dynamite mystery.

ELEVEN JURORS AGAINST JETT

One Man Saves Feudist From Being Convicted of Murder.

CHANGE OF VENUE IS GRANTED

Judge Redwine Removes the Case to Harrison County, Where Gen. John Morgan Recruited His Celebrated Raiders During the Civil War.

Jackson, Ky., special: But for one juror Curtis Jett would have been convicted here for the murder of Marcus and a majority of the jury favored the conviction of Thomas White also. Both of the accused men are almost 100 miles from home in jail at Lexington, and their next trial will be at Cynthiana, over 100 miles from Jackson, away from the mountains and in the Blue Grass region, under different conditions from those existing in Breathitt county.

Cynthiana is four times as large as Jackson, and it is not likely that newspaper men and other visitors will have to camp out at the next hearing.

Harrison county, in which the prisoners are to have their next trial, is the old home of Gen. John Morgan, who recruited there his celebrated raiders during the civil war.

Change of Venue.

The interest in the change of venue was second only to the verdict. When Judge Redwine refused to hear arguments on the change or the location it was stated by many in the courtroom that the presiding judge had heard from Gov. Beckham, who is generally believed to have had something to do with the change of venue to Harrison county, which is the Eighteenth judicial district of Kentucky. There J. J. Osborne is the Circuit judge, L. P. Fryer is the commonwealth's attorney, and the sheriff and other court officers are also favorably known.

To Retain Troops.

It is thought now that after the trials of Jett and White in Harrison county the cases of others who have never been arrested will be taken up on a change of venue. Among the cases cited is that of the late Dr. Cox, whose friends refused to secure witnesses for any jury in Breathitt county that was selected under the present regime.

The next case on the docket here was that of Curtis Jett for killing the town marshal, James Cockrill, but it will be postponed until after the trials at Cynthiana.

Col. Williams is at Frankfort conferring with the governor regarding the withdrawal of the troops. It is understood that he advised the governor that at least one company should be retained in Jackson as long as Provost Marshal Longmire was kept in charge of the town.

Woman Dies Aged 101.

Waverly, Iowa, dispatch: Mrs. Locky Perry, 101 years old, died at the home of her son. She was born May 8, 1802, at George, Vt. The events of the war of 1812 were especially vivid in her memory. Her husband, who died twenty-five years ago, was a first cousin of Commodore Perry, hero of Lake Erie.

Illinois Association Chooses Galesburg Man for President.

Hannah, Chicago. The next meeting will be held at Danville June 16, 1904. Allen Perkins of Chicago was chosen delegate to the national convention in Nashville, Tenn.

TRIES TO SACRIFICE CHILDREN ON ALTAR

Georgia Mother, Crazy by Religion, Is Prevented From Killing Her Four Little Ones.

Augusta, Ga., special: Crazy with emotional religion, Mrs. Gussie Lott, a widow who lives in West Enis, bound her four small children before an altar which she had improvised in one of the rooms of her home and with a knife in her hand was about to sacrifice the eldest, a boy barely 7 years old, when relatives rushed in and interposed.

The boy said his mother had prayed and sung all night and ranged them on the east side of the house to greet the rising sun. It was her intention to sacrifice the children just as the sun rose.

Mrs. Lott has been an enthusiastic member of one of the local churches and has often indulged in extreme demonstrations during revivals and visits of traveling evangelists, but no suspicion as to her sanity was entertained until recently, when on account of her strange actions she was taken to the country by relatives. It was thought she had entirely recovered and she returned home. A charge of lunacy was entered against Mrs. Lott, and she will be taken to the state asylum at Milledgeville.

CLARK IS TO BUILD A PALACE

Montana Senator Will Eclipse Rivals With Washington Residence.

Washington dispatch: Senator W. A. Clark of Montana is planning the construction of a palace in Washington. The house will far exceed in splendor the senator's New York residence, recently completed, which surpasses the palaces of the Vanderbilts and other millionaires. The Washington residence will be located upon the site of the famous Stewart castle, which property is now owned by the copper king. Several world-famous firms of architects in Europe and America are competing in drawing the plans, the finest of which will be chosen by Senator Clark. The structure will cost several million dollars and two or three years will be occupied in erecting it.

WOODMEN RAISE THEIR RATES

Iowa Plan Is Adopted by Indianapolis Convention by Fair Majority.

Indianapolis, Ind., dispatch: The Modern Woodmen's convention adopted the Iowa plan for readjustment of rates by a vote of 215 1/2 to 166, after defeating the Young amendment by 171 to 280 1/2. The committee appointed to submit a readjustment plan failed to agree and the session was thrown open to individual plans. The session was exciting and the various plans were earnestly contested. The convention will be held next year at Milwaukee.

DEWEYS TO STAY AT GOODLAND

Troops Will Be Withdrawn and Sheriff Left in Control.

Topeka, Kan., dispatch: Chauncey Dewey and his cowboys will remain in the county jail at Goodland and the governor will withdraw the troops now stationed there. The governor believes the sheriff is making a mistake by keeping the prisoners in northwest Kansas, but as the sheriff's authority in that matter is supreme, he alone will be responsible should any trouble occur.

DREAM CAUSES MAN'S DEATH

John Edelstein Dies From Effects of Peculiar Accident.

New York dispatch: John Edelstein, a wealthy manufacturer and politician of Jersey, is dead from a peculiar accident. About three weeks ago he dreamed that burglars had entered his home and that one was attacking him with a knife. He sprang out of bed and struck his head on a projection. The shock caused a clot of blood to settle on his brain, resulting in meningitis, which caused death.

IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE.

People in every walk of life have bad backs. Kidneys go wrong and the back begins to ache. Cure sick kidneys and backache quickly disappears. Read this testimony and learn how it can be done.

A. A. Boyce, a farmer living three and a half miles from Trenton, Mo., says: "A severe cold settled in my kidneys and developed so quickly that I was obliged to lay off work on account of the aching in my back and sides. For a time I was unable to walk at all, and every makeshift I tried and all the medicine I took had not the slightest effect. My back continued to grow weaker until I was unfit for anything. Mrs. Boyce noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a sure cure for just such conditions, and one day when in Trenton she brought a box home from Chas. A. Foster's drug store. I followed the directions carefully when taking them and I must say I was more than surprised and much more gratified to notice the backache disappearing gradually, until it finally stopped."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Boyce will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

A French View of America.

A French traveler, Victor Jacquemont, who visited the United States in the early part of the last century, thus explained why he found nothing interesting to say about American society: "Take Claude Lorraine, put him in a cab and drive him to the plain of Montrouge; set him down there and say to him: 'Make me a beautiful picture out of this.' He will send you to the right about, or, if you happen to have two gendarmes with you and can oblige him to paint he will never be able to find in the plain of Montrouge, and consequently to represent, anything but a straight line with here and there a windmill or a public house by way of variety. American society is in its kind what the plain of Montrouge is, and I am no Claude."

Appreciation Comes Late.

Poe's "Bella," in the original manuscript, was the other day sold at auction in Philadelphia for $2,145. This was $2,100 more than Poe received for the manuscript and the publication rights half a century ago.

Sensible Housekeepers will use Defiance Starch, not alone because they get one-third more for the same money, but also because of superior quality.

An advertiser paid $5,000 for the privilege of painting the name of his product on a big chimney in lower New York, where it could be seen from the North river ferryboats.

Don't you know that Defiance Starch besides being absolutely superior to any other, is put up 16 ounces in package and sells at same price as 12-ounce packages of other kinds?

At a public meeting held in Bury, England, it was decided to raise a memorial to the memory of John Kay, the inventor of the fly shuttle, who was born there in 1704.

Hundreds of dealers say the extra quantity and superior quality of Defiance Starch is fast taking place of all other brands. Others say they cannot sell any other starch.

There is no road to success but through a clear, strong purpose. A purpose underlies character, culture, position, attainment of whatever sort. — T. T. Munger.

A little girl, hearing her mother observe to another lady that she was going into half mourning, inquired whether any of her relations were half dead.

Storekeepers report that the extra quantity, together with the superior quality of Defiance Starch makes it next to impossible to sell any other brand.

ENGLAND MAKES A PROTEST

Her Minister Instructed to Withdraw From Belgrade.

In the British House of Lords, Foreign Minister Lansdowne announced that the British Minister to Serbia had been instructed to withdraw from Belgrade for some time, on the arrival there of King Peter, and in the meanwhile to do nothing which could be construed as a recognition of the new government. Lord Lansdowne expressed indignation at the crimes at Belgrade and said he thought it was not desirable that Sir George Bonham, the British Minister, should be in that city when the new regime was inaugurated.

The Foreign Minister added that no proposal had been received for concerted action toward Serbia by the powers, but the British government had no intention of maintaining ordinary relations with the persons concerned in the massacres.

The government yielded to none in the abhorrence of events which had lately disgraced the capital of Serbia, and that abhorrence had not been diminished by later intelligence which had reached the Foreign Office. It would be no exaggeration to say that it would be hard to find a parallel for the outrages even in the annals of States which made no pretense to be included among the civilized communities.

Lord Lansdowne said the government had ascertained that France, Germany and Italy were maintaining an attitude toward Serbia similar to that of Great Britain, while Russia and Austria were prepared to recognize the new regime, although Russia appeared to have claimed that proper punishment should be inflicted. He thought that Great Britain could not usefully propose to the other powers concerted measures of a punitive character against the authors of the outrages. He had telegraphed to the British Ministers at Belgrade June 15 not to recognize the provisional government, whose freedom from complicity in the acts of "that frightful night" had not been established, nor do anything necessitating Great Britain "recognizing the authorities who may be upset in the succession to the late dynasty."

Modern Society Criticized.

In delivering the Founders' day address at the commencement exercises in a school at Lawrenceville, N. J., Bishop Potter, of New York, had this to say among other things: "We are getting to be in such a hurry in America that the ordinary civilities are disappearing out of our education and our life. When you have dismissed good manners out of society you have dismissed that beneficent and kindly instinct toward your fellowman of which good manners ought always to be the expression. No one who is conscious of the social and industrial situation can be unconscious of the fact that the classes have drifted away from the masses. And it is surprising how large a proportion of them you find disposed to the belief that in order to harmonize the difference the use of force is the only remedy."

New Yorkers and Liberty Bell.

Those who accompanied the liberty bell from Philadelphia to Boston say that there was less demonstration over the precious relic at New York than in any other place along the route. As one of the party puts it: "The bell passed through the metropolises like a consignment of structural iron. Requests were received from nearly every town and city between Boston and Philadelphia to allow the people to see the relic, but no such request came from New York. So it happened that while 10,000 baseball dervishes gathered at the bulletin boards no single person in New York did honor to the symbol of American freedom."

LEADERS IN SOCIETY FEUD.

Daughters of Mayor Johnson and Senator Hanna Rivals.

Miss Bessie Johnson, whose father, Tom Johnson, is mayor of Cleveland, is to marry John L. Dudley, Jr., a New Yorker. The announcement of the engagement was made on the day Mark Hanna's daughter married Mr. McCormick. Miss Bessie is a dashing girl, as full of energy and novel ideas as is her father. She had a feud with Miss Hanna dating from school days and contended with her for leadership of the younger set in Cleveland society. Mutual friends tried frequently to draw the rival girls together and plumed themselves when both became interested in a charitable function, but all the tact of the friends was useless, for on the evening of the affair the rivals only spoke to each other informally and drew their adherents into far corners, each party refusing to join the other. Miss Hanna's quieter tastes limited her following to those who are moved by the springs of social ambition. Miss Johnson's love and understanding of amusement easily gave her the lead in the race. Tom L. Johnson is probably as wealthy as Mark Hanna and the father of J. L. Dudley, Jr., is a millionaire.

CARDINAL VAUGHAN IS DEAD.

English Catholic Prelate Expires After Lingering Illness.

The Very Rev. Herbert Vaughan, cardinal and archbishop of Westminster, died in London, England, June 20.

The death of Cardinal Vaughan removes from the stage of life one of the most imposing figures in the Roman Catholic world.

Last year it was rumored that Cardinal Vaughan was one of the favorite candidates for the papal chair. He was saintly in life, wholly without enemies, a deep thinker, an accomplished scholar, with the gift of an affable and elegant pen, and an eloquent speaker. His presence, which was strikingly handsome and imposing, earned for him the description, "The handsomest man in London."

Herbert Alfred Vaughan, the eldest son of one of the oldest Roman Catholic families in England, was born in

The Late Cardinal Vaughan.

Gloucester in 1832. He had actually been gazetted to a commission in the guards when he decided to adopt the vocation of a priest.

The great life work of Dr. Vaughan, almost from the day of his ordination to a long time after he was raised to the episcopate, was an enduring monument in the Foreign Missionary College at Mill Hill.

He was eminent both as a preacher and controversialist and was a frequent contributor to the Tablet and the Dublin Review, of both of which he was proprietor. The most conspicuous external monument of his labors at Westminster is the vast new cathedral which dominates all its neighborhood. Bishop Bourne, who is now bishop of Southwark, is likely to succeed him.

POWDER KILLS BERWYN WOMAN

Friction in Reducing Caked Material Causes an Explosion.

BODY IS FEARFULLY BURNED

Flesh is Charred From Her Head to Her Waist—Twelve-Year-Old Son is Overcome by the Calamity to His Mother.

Chicago special: Ninety pounds of flashlight powder in the basement of a residence at Berwyn exploded and caused the death of Mrs. Mary Wilson, wrecked the house and created a panic among the children of the Irving school on adjoining property.

Mrs. Wilson, in whose residence the explosion occurred, was burned from her head to her waist and her flesh charred. She lived until evening, retaining consciousness long enough to explain the disaster, and died at the residence of a neighbor.

Windows Are Broken. The force of the explosion was so great that the floor above the basement was bulged upwards several inches, while a piano in the room was thrown to one side and toppled over. The walls of the basement were forced outward, and every window in the house was broken. Many windows in the Irving school and in James S. Keeler's residence also were broken.

Mrs. Wilson lived at Thirty-fifth street and Irving avenue and was working in the basement forming the powder into cones ready for a supply house in Chicago. She had almost completed her task when the explosion occurred.

Friction Causes Explosion. The powder had become caked from dampness and Mrs. Wilson was rubbing it vigorously between her hands to reduce it, and this friction, it is believed, caused the powder to explode.

There were three explosions, which filled the basement so full of smoke it was with difficulty that Mrs. Wilson was reached. She was found lying on the floor near where she had been working. After she had been carried from the place the fire department was summoned and the flames which followed the last explosion were soon extinguished.

Son is Prostrated. Mrs. Wilson had a dry goods store in the suburb and she also earned money by forming these flashlight powder cones. She was 45 years old and had three sons, the oldest 19 years, Hoyt, 12 years old, the youngest, death so affected by his mother's death that he was prostrated and physicians are attending him. He was in the Irving school at the time of the explosion.

THOSE SEA-HORSE SHIRTS.

How Haberdasher Succeeded in Selling Atrocious Patterns.

Women invaded a haberdasher's shop in Broadway the other day, demanding the refunding of money for highly colored shirts that husbands or brothers had purchased. The shop is next door to a barroom noted for its "old-fashioned cocktails." Said one woman: "Robert came home with flushed face and unsteady gait the other night. Under his arm he had a bundle of shirts. They were a sight, with huge stripes and checks, and one had the most absurd sea horses in apple green. I said nothing until Robert recovered. Then I told him I should return them. He approved feebly, so I went there. I think there must have been seventeen other women demanding money for sea-horse shirts. While I was waiting for my $6 I heard one woman whisper: 'They got it next door. That's where they make those famous cocktails.' Then her companion said: 'A good idea to sell those atrocious shirts next door to that kind of place. Naturally, a man buys anything at such a time.'"—New York Press.

A Cure for Dropsy. Sedgwick, Ark., June 22d.—Mr. W. S. Taylor of this place says: "My little boy had Dropsy. Two doctors—the best in this part of the country—told me he would never get better, and to have seen him anyone else would have said they were right. His feet and limbs were swollen so that he could not walk nor put on his shoes.

"When the doctors told me he would surely die, I stopped giving him their medicine and began giving him Dodd's Kidney Pills. I gave him three pills a day and at the end of eight days the swelling was all gone, but as I wanted to be sure, I kept on with the pills for some time, gradually reducing the quantity, till finally I stopped altogether.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills certainly saved my child's life. Before using them he was a helpless invalid in his mother's arms from morning till night. Now he is a healthy, happy child, running and dancing and singing. I can never express our gratitude.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills entirely cured our boy after everybody, doctors and all, had given him up to die."

Born in Michigan, Mrs. Chamberlain has spent the last eight years in the West. Her husband has been coaching her in the work for years, but some of the most remarkable swings she invented herself.

A LARGE CROP THREATENED.

Senator Depew's Resolve to Bury All His Chestnuts.

Senator Chauncey M. Depew was in rare good humor the other morning as he met a friend. After the customary greetings had been exchanged and the health of each had been duly inquired into and satisfactory replies received the senator said: "This is Arbor day, you know, and I must hurry along."

"What difference does that make, senator?" replied the friend. "Are you due to make any Arbor day addresses?"

"Oh! You didn't know of the custom about this day that I inaugurated several years ago, did you?"

"No, what is it?" asked the friend. "Well, I will tell you in confidence, and I don't want 'Abe' Gruber to find it out, either," said the Senator, as he dropped his voice to a whisper and continued: "I have made it a practice for three years now to go to the country every Arbor day and plant all of my chestnuts."

There was a happy look on Mr. Depew's face as he separated from his friend.—New York Times.

Lest the village board forget we call attention for the 117th time to the condition of some of the sidewalks on the north side of the village. A great big damage suit will face the village authorities one of these fine days. Can the village afford to pay such bills? Has the village the power to repair the walks? The law says that it has. It has repeatedly threatened to do so. Why don't the authorities carry out the provisions of the ordinance? That question is more easily asked than answered.

WEDDED AT NOON.

Myrtle J. Comstock Becomes the Wife of Alfred W. Abbott.

A very pretty home wedding occurred last Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Comstock, on West Main street. The contracting parties were Mr. Alfred W. Abbott of Hoopston and Miss Myrtle J. Comstock of this city. Promptly at 12 o'clock, while the whistles were sounding the noon hour, Miss Alta Powers, presiding at the piano, began Mendelssohn's Wedding March, and the bride and groom responded promptly, and coming from opposite directions met in the center of the room and marched unattended to the altar. They stood beneath a large white bell, which was wound about with ribbon and smilax. The ceremony was performed by J. Charles Garth, pastor of the Baptist church, and when the words were spoken which made them husband and wife a shower of rose leaves began falling gently about them, descending from the bell. Immediately after the ceremony all present sat down to a sumptuous wedding feast, at which the bride presided in a charming manner. Only the near relatives of the contracting parties were present to witness the ceremony, but invitations were sent to friends to be present at a reception to be held at the home from 4 till 8 p. m. A large number responded to congratulate the happy young couple.

The bride is well known to us all. She is one of our most popular young ladies, and she will make bright the home to which she is going. The groom, Mr. Abbott, is also well known and highly respected. He holds an excellent position as bookkeeper in the office of a large manufacturing company at Hoopston.

Mr. and Mrs. Abbott will spend several days visiting different places of interest, after which they will take up their home at Hoopston, where a beautiful little house is being built for them.

The wedding gifts were numerous and costly, and plainly show the high esteem in which the bride and groom are held.

The best wishes of all their friends attend them as they go forth from us. May their path through life be strewn with roses.

Those present from out of town to witness the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Abbott, and Miss Mabelle Abbott, Vinton, Iowa; Mrs. W. S. Kennedy, Hoopston, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Miller, Rockford, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Schindler, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. D. A. Smith, Dudley and Bess Smith, Irving Park, Ill.; Mrs. R. H. Crabtree, Irving Park.

Surveying for a Site.

The Bowman Dairy company had a number of surveyors here yesterday laying lines on the tract of land south of the Chicago & Northwestern railroad tracks near the Electric Light plant, where the Bowman company may erect a milk-bottling and condensing plant; if matters can be satisfactorily arranged.

There is no question but what the Bowman company will locate here; there is no question but what the bonus asked for will be raised. The only matter now to be arranged is that of location.

Our people should get together and aid the company in any way it may ask. Don't place obstacles in the way of any enterprise that will prove of benefit to the business interests of the village. We need the proposed plant.

Don't tie a rag around it and let it go at that. For burns, cuts or sores of any kind apply Cole's Carbolisalve. It will stop the pain and heal quicker than any thing on earth. There is no remedy known that equals it for piles, ulcers, tetter, eczema and all itching, torturing skin diseases. Get Cole's. It's guaranteed. 25 and 50 cents. Sold by all druggists.

Three different tent shows—circus, trained animals and minstrel entertainment, have passed us by during the month past because grounds could not be secured on which to spread their canvas. The village folk have not missed anything by the non-appearance of the entertainers.

Bert Henderson, brakeman on the Kenosha division, was badly injured at Alden station, Saturday evening, June 13, by being caught between a cattle chute and the side of a car. His back was badly crushed but not broken as was reported. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, Chicago, where an operation was performed. It is said his chance for recovery is good.

"Never too late to mend" may apply to some things, but if your horse has a cut, a gall or a sore of any kind, the quicker you apply Cole's Veterinary Carbolisalve the better. It cures quickly and never leaves a scar. Guaranteed. 50-cent and $1.00 cans. Sold by all druggists.

A reporter of the Chicago City Press association assigned on the Cary robbery, struck this village at 7:05 Wednesday evening. All stores were closed and not a quartet of humans were visible; a death-like stillness hung like a pall over all. The reporter said "I never would have thought that the closing of that foundry would have so completely paralyzed business in Barrington." He was informed that a camp meeting was the cause of the suspension of business. "What was said he said. Look out for an article in the Chicago papers which will read like Tennyson's Deserted Village. No wonder.

The little village of Cary Station is booming. Business was never so flourishing. A milk bottling plant lately located there and started the boom. Wednesday the village had a regular, up-to-date bank robbery and the village received many columns of free advertising in the metropolitan papers and visits from prominent sleuths. It beats all how luck will favor an enterprising community.

A farmer near here came to town to do some shopping. On the way back the thought came to him that he had forgotten something. He took out his note book and went over every item, checked it off and saw that he had purchased everything he intended. As he drove on he could not put aside the thought that he had forgotten something. He again took out his note book and checked every item but found no mistake. When he arrived home and drove up to the house his daughter came out to meet him and in surprise asked, "Why, where is mother?"

Members of Barrington Lodge, 856 I. O. O. F. will enjoy a Patriotic program next Thursday evening. It will be a continuous performance from the time of the opening overture to the last act—when the goat will attempt to loop the loop. There is considerable talent among members of the chain gang, and even if it is now "the good old summer time," the boys will usher in the nation's birthday in an appropriate manner—with music and song.

ROYALLY WELCOMED.

The Local W. R. C. Entertains Sisters From Wauconda and Palatine.

Among the many organizations of a social and fraternal nature in this village there is one that certainly keeps up interest among its members by making each and every meeting something more than a mere routine of a business session.

The W. R. C. is always to the front in matters of sociability and entertainment.

When the corps gathers in session a pleasing program is sure to be rendered before the session closes, and not only are those present regaled with music and literary selections, but refreshments are served. That is the way to appeal to the members.

Wednesday the local corps had a house full of guests, who came from Palatine and Wauconda. Over 100 women assembled in the Post hall, and although it was an Adamless Eden the occasion proved very enjoyable.

The program consisted of readings, recitations and musical numbers by local members and the visitors. At the close tempting refreshments were served, which included everything that female appetite most craves.

The visitors:
Palatine Corps—Elinora Arps, Lily Schirding, Eleanor Gibbs, Mary Vogt, Henrietta Schirding, Bessie Sefton, Lydia Hicks, Emma Malthiel, Caroline Osl, Betsy Fenton, Amenda Masser, Mrs. T. B. Horton of Nebraska, Minnie Sawyer, Cora Schultz, Rose Converse, Alma Arps, Mary Miller, Elode Baldwin, Edna Heise, Telpha Converse, Mamie Anderman, Mae Gibbs, Minnie Olms, Blanche Yan, Rose Gibbs, Anna Stroker, Blanche Sciffirding, Bertha Stroker, Jennie Hart, Persis Young.

Wauconda Corps—Anna Cooke, Edith Clark, Ruth Smith, Sadie Burdick, Lillah Golding, Mrs. Wm. Plabb, Anna Golding, Ida Darrell, Alice Basely, Adaline Prouty, Laura Harris, Mrs. Geo. M. Jepson, Katharine Gilbert, Mary Harris.

Earned Certificates.

J. I. Sears closed his 14th year of musical instruction in this village and neighboring towns, during the week past, closing concerts being given here at Palatine, Nunda and Arlington Heights. The examinations were held June 8. The following Barrington pupils were awarded certificates:

In the graded course, Verne Hawley, Esther Lageschulte, Maud Meyer, Eighth Grade—elementary, Grace Freeman and Beulah Otis. The enrollment in all grades for the years 1902-1903 was 108.

Sears' school of Music is an institution of which the people of Barrington may justly feel proud.

George H. Comstock says he never had more solid enjoyment than when the young folks surrounded his home and serenaded his daughter Myrtle on the occasion of her marriage. Mr. Comstock says he never heard sweeter music extracted from crude instruments than that rendered by the kid aggregation. Some people object to serenading parties, but the way Mr. Comstock treated that bunch shows he likes noise and lots of it.

Notice.

Patrons of Barrington Steam Laundry should send in work not later than Tuesday to insure delivery for July 4.

During the week past the business houses have closed at 6:30 p. m. "to allow employees to attend services at the camp grounds." It seems but a few of the employees took advantage of the opportunity offered. A number of complaints were heard from out of the village folks who were disappointed in securing supplies. The early closing movement is all right as regards dry goods stores and offices but should not apply to drug stores or markets.

The reports from Odessa that Jews in southern Russia are buying arms suggests interesting possibilities. The Jews are so numerous and so well concentrated in some parts of Russia that if they organize to fight for their rights they might at least compel the Russian government to treat them with respect. At all events their condition could not be much worse than it is at present.
