POLICE SEARCH FOR CATTLE-MAN

Nebraska Rancher Visits Chicago and Disposes of His Live Stock.

RELATIVES FEAR HE IS KILLED

Believe That Highwayman in the Emporium Is Get Dere Whose Husband Was Murdered the Young Man—Suffers Uncle of Victim.

Chicago dispatch: Fatal Knockout, 25 years old, a ranchman from Wood Lake, Neb., left Chicago on a train Chicago since Oct. 10 under peculiar circumstances and the police have reported the case to the police of the country. Parents started out requested that a search be made for the young man. Knockout is believed to have had a large sum of money with him, and, the police say, the proceeds of the sale of several carloads of cattle at the stock yards, and the theory advanced by relatives and friends is that he was the victim of highwaymen who in their eagerness to get the money may have committed murder.

Knockout recently lived in Chicago and his grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Knockout, on Fern ave., in Thirty-third street. Mark Knockout, a brother of the missing man, lives at the same address and he reported the case to the police.

Gives Notice of His Coming.

Some time ago John Bloomfield, an uncle of Knockout, living at Park Ridge, Ill., received a letter from the missing man in which he said he was about to leave the ranch near Wood Lake and dispose of carloads of cattle. Mr. Bloomfield was informed in the letter that his nephew proposed to be in Chicago on Oct. 10 and that he would visit him and show him disposed of the stock at the yards.

Since that time nothing has been heard of young Knockout, although it is said that the cattle he sold revealed the fact he arrived in Chicago on the date mentioned and sold the cattle, for which he received a large sum of money. Knockout, however, has failed to write or communicate with any of his relatives and no trace of him has been found since his arrival in the city can be found.

Relatives Afraid to Probe.

Relatives admitted that the police had been notified of his disappearance, although they were averse to talking about the case. They were inclined to the belief that the young man after receiving the money had left Callen in with strangers and "whooped" and perhaps murdered. It was also said that he may have returned to the ranch without calling at the home of his relatives, although this is not believed.

Capt. Chacy, who received the report, has taken a personal interest in the case and will several detectives will make an effort to find some trace of Knockout. He agrees the theory of robbery and foul play and believes that for reasons of his own the young man failed to visit the home of his relatives.

THUS JONAH KNOWS

WHAT ONE OF THE SEX DESCRIBED TO HER GREAT JOY.

"A Dr Long Finds That the Indescribable Pains of Rheumatism Can Be Quickly Relieved by Blood.

Mrs. M. M. De Long, of No. 160 West Broadway, Council Bluffs, Iowa, found herself suddenly attacked by rheumatism in the winter of 1895. The disease fastened on her ankles so badly that she could not walk, and the suffering and pain were intense. Her husband, a prominent druggist, was then in the city of Omaha, and when Jonah suffered extreme pain in the joints of any size, like, knees, hips, wrists and elbows, he would say: "Jonah, you will be no better, I began to reflect that rheumatism was a disease of the blood, and that if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so good for the blood they must be good for rheumatism and worth a trial.

"I was in bed half the time, suffering so much pain that ended it described to one who has never had the disease. The inflammation was accompanied by a set of joints. When it was in my foot I could not walk, when it was in my elbows and wrists I could not even feed myself. Altogether I was in bed and suffered in this way for weeks before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They did me more good than all the doctors I had experienced relief and after I had taken six boxes I was entirely well. To make sure I continued the pills for some time after I found relief and then stopped altogether. For several years I was free from pain, but was then from myself, but I have recommended them to others as a perfect remedy."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills furnish the blood with all the elements that are lacking in the food, and restore the strong muscles and nerves capable of bearing the ills that flesh is heir to upon them. They really make new blood and thus reach all diseases arising from disorders of the blood or nerves, such as anaemia, neuralgia, rheumatism, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance and nervousness, weakness in either and all forms of weakness, both male or female. They are sold by all druggists.

TALK ON ADVERTISING

By C. W. Post to Publishers at Banquet at Battle Creek.

The sunshine that makes business grow grows advertising.

Growing a business nowadays is like growing an apple-tree. You may select good seed, plant in good soil, water and work with it, but you cannot make sure product. Still another and most powerful, energetic and effective factor is necessary—God's help. You must have sunshine and rain to fill out the last kind of apples in the farm? Can you expect to grow a successful business unless nowadays mingled the sunshine of publicity in the columns of newspapers.

This Postum plant is a good illustration of that fact. It seems but a short time ago when I put a few men to work in the cornfree house of one barn you have seen to-day, where we grown which produces coffee. The seed thus planted, less than 9 years ago, was a new kind of seed seed and it was not altogether certain how the people would like the sprouts. We did our work thoroughly and plenty of it. We knew we had a good thing and we thought we might say that if what you manufacture are merit, and if you back a trade mark which you sell on its merits to purchase, even if the article is stamped, which depends on that conclusion would be a fatal mistake, for there are always hungry men on the lookout to steal your article if you give it a chance. Then you have a foundation to build upon that will not slip out from under you. The building grows higher. There are other important reasons to believe that a poor article can be advertised into a success. It cannot and any one who tries the experiment will get his pay for his experience. Critically examine your business and see whether or not that has been years on the market and

In ancient days newspaper advertising consisted largely of boasting, as well but a necessary evil, and the boasting was the easy way as carefully as possible, so that the reader would not suspect it. The paper was trying to make a little money for boasting purposes of announcements. A paper run that way today would fail.

The most successful exponents of the new line of doing business with ink and paper are using every possible means to make their announcements attractive and sought after by the readers.

It is safe to say that thousands of dollars are spent annually in the line of photographic page, but the pages contain nothing of business. Pictures of stockings, skirts, hats, gloves, pianos, bicycles and the like do the business.

DENEEN AND STRINGER

AGREE THAT THE CONSTITUTION AL AMENDMENT SHOULD BE ADOPTED.

Republican Governorship and Independent Senatorship Candidates Favor It.

The people of Illinois may be sure of "one thing" concerning the constitutional amendment which is to be voted for at the November election. There are, no politics in the measure and the possibility of it working to the disadvantage of any other section of the state. Both the electors are assured of on the authorities of the land by all the leading men of the state of all political parties. Both the candidates for governor and senator, as often by Charles S. Deneen and Lawrence B. Stringer, the Republican and Democratic candidates for governor.

Both these candidates have served in the Legislature. They were members of the lower house together when the present law was passed. Both are now a member of the state senate. It is largely from this experience that they are convinced that the amendment is a good one and worthy the affirmative votes of the electors at the election in order that Chicago has an inadequate charter and that every section of the Legislature sees many bills introduced which are intended to patch out the present charter, but which are not this general charter so as to meet the city's requirements.

Often this legislation has been time-consuming and that the city encumbered and representatives from the city have had to spend much time in getting bills from other quarters. But even this has been a small matter as the representatives from the country districts have been willing to have Chicago need so much—as never quite satisfied with the charter. Chicago has become Chicago never has had the kind of home rule in municipal legislation the governmental system which is necessary to the welfare of the city. The township law, the revenue law, as well as many amendments and additions that have been attached to the Cullom-Shallenberger act since 1875 have made it impossible for them all Chicago needs a new charter. It was to meet this that up in charter powers (in authority of the state) to deal with the city and with other cities of the first class. The new charter will give the citizens of all parties throughout the state the right to vote for a charter is rightfully due the city, and are urging the people to vote for the amendment, which will empower the Legislature to grant it.

What the Legislature Said! thinks about it is in the hands of the people. Their resolution to submit the amendment to the electors of the state is a guide for it and only 2 against it, while in the senate there was not a single dissenting vote.

And if parties have since endorsed the action of their legislators.

"Take my word for it," says Mr. Deneen, "the state can safely vote to ratify the amendment. It is the only way to get a charter that is adequate for the city."

"Whether you vote for me or not," said Mr. Stringer, in a recent speech at South Chicago, "vote for the amendment, for if the Barns note and will do much good."

IN ENGLANDS COTTON MILLS.

Workers Appear Dull and Ennui Lift in Interminable Strike.

England's greatest industry is the cotton industry, and its chief locality is the district of Lancashire, with its huge mills where every one, woman and child, must daily toil. Often the whole family is employed, and the world's cotton output has not been more than a population. Even if there is a shortage of cotton and the poor people of Lancashire are worked for short hours, barely earning enough to support life. At such a time, however, was necessary to keep the price of cotton from rising and thus bringing on a greater evil—financial panic. The crisis it said was by several since the cotton famine during the civil war in this country.

England hopes by furthering in the cultivation of the industries of cotton in her African colonies, to be able to avert a similar crisis in the future. How most the welfare of her people depends on this is shown by at a glance into ten of her busy cotton districts and towns in the north. The winding frames with their in suggestive splutter and bobbins of cotton and the never ceasing whirr of the winding is especially noticeable. The looms in the factories force an unpleasing contrast to the deserted air of the cotton factories. Where our laborers are bright and cheerful, these have lost all active intellect, these have dull, heavy countenances, and it is hard to think they could look so farther than each day's grinding round in the cotton mill.
