DRAGGED TO HIS DEATH

Fred Smith, Residing Near Waucoda, the Victim of Runaway Three Year Old Colt.

Animal Becomes Unmanageable and Drags Body Over a Long Distance—Found by Wife.

A most terrible death was meted out to Fred Smith, a tenant on the Fletcher farm near Waucoda, last Friday forenoon. The man came to his death while leading a three year old colt about the barnyard. When found his body was badly bruised and had been dragged a long distance into an adjoining field. The strap of the colt's halter was found knotted about the victim's hand.

Mr. Smith had been confined to the house for sometime by illness, and on Friday forenoon went out to the barn to see his stock, leaving his favorite colt out for exercise. His absence from the house was not noticed until noon, when the hired man, who had been absent, returned and inquired of Mrs. Smith as to the whereabouts of his employer. Search was at once begun and after looking about the barn and other buildings they went out toward the pasture yard. They heard a dog barking which attracted their attention to the field nearby a mile away. They saw the dog and colt there and started to investigate.

They noted the ground showed that something heavy had been dragged along and following the trail brought them to where the dog stood guard by the side of the dead body of its master. The victim's face was badly battered, showing the marks of the colt's heels, and bruised almost beyond recognition.

Coroner Taylor was summoned and the inquest held Saturday. The jury returned a verdict of death by accident.

Mr. Smith was 40 years of age and leaves beside the wife five children, the oldest being ten years old and the youngest one year.

Will Assume Office January 9th.
Charles S. Deneen will be inaugurated governor of Illinois Monday, Jan. 9. Mr. Deneen's friends are planning to make his inauguration memorable in the history of the state, as he is the first republican of Chicago to be elected governor of Illinois.

Since 1818 only two Chicago men have sat in the executive chair at Springfield. John L. Beveridge of Cook county was elected lieutenant governor in 1872 and became governor when Richard J. Oglesby was elected to the senate. John P. Altgeld of Chicago was elected governor in 1892 as a democrat.

The Significance of Christmas.
The Chicago Daily News some days ago displayed an amusing cartoon relative to Christmas giving wherein an American father appeared with a lengthy bill to be settled by himself for presents given by his family to another and friends. He is placing it with national bills likely to be presented to this session of congress and appealing to "Uncle Joe" Cannon, speaker of the House, for jurisdiction against the custom of gift presenting.

Underlying the humor of the picture is seen a fact worthy of consideration—the extent to which Christmas giving is being carried and increasing each year is going beyond all reason.

The old sentiment of thinking of the giver and not the gift, is about banished, and the obligations incurred by receiving must be settled by presenting, until the growing list each year of individuals to be remembered is such a tax on the family funds and time and nerves that the holiday season end is pervaded with relief.

The spirit welcomes all classes not in need, but who dares to stand the criticism hurled at one who refuses to remember others materially at Christmas time.

Children used to be pleased with a few trifles, today they look for many and expensive things. The question is "Whether are we drifting and where is the end?"

A Frightened Horse.
Ranning like mad down the street dumping the occupants, or a hundred other accidents, are every day occurrences. It behooves every body to have a reliable Salve and there's none so good as Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Burns, Cuts, Sores, Eczema and Piles, disappear quickly under its drug Store.

FIGHT FOR A BABY BOY

Dr. Dalton and Wife Separate But Their Troubles Continue and the Law is Invoked.

The Wife Leaves Her Steeple, Wis., Home, Takes Baby Boy and Hides Him Here.

Is marriage a failure? Dr. Charles C. Dalton of Stitzer, Wis., formerly of Barrington, has tried the experiment for over two years and says there is doubt but trouble in married life. His wife Alina, also a medical practitioner, has indulged deeply in the matrimonial business and after three trials says that marriage (no matter what kind of a man you get) is a gigantic failure.

The Daltons are engaged in a domestic imbroglio and they are not the only characters in the play, a number of Barrington people also being star performers. There are suits, habeas corpus writs, court orders, lawyers, deputy sheriffs, a kidnapped baby boy and a prominent Barrington merchant and his wife supporting the principals in this domestic drama.

Dr. Dalton and his wife came to this village early last spring, opened offices in the Lageschulte block and began the practice of their profession. They formerly resided at South Chicago. They were students at the same medical college and soon after graduating from the institution were married. That was over three years ago. All was not serene in the Dalton household from the start. Matters were "hatched up" and they got along in an endeavor to do the best they could through misadventure. The wife admitted a former matrimonial alliance. A son was born to them and from that day, over a year ago, the wife, so Dr. Dalton alleges, has formed an aversion to him and the child.

A month or so ago Dr. Dalton decided to leave Barrington and located at Stitzer, Grant county, Wis. Mrs. Dalton and boy followed there. Two weeks ago there was a domestic misunderstanding. The husband discovered that his wife had been wedded before she plighted her troth to him, that she had children living in the east, whom, the doctor says, she water color year old boy or girl. All exhibits must bear name and age of exhibitor. No one can compete for prize drawing or painting who has had training by special teacher outside of school. All articles exhibited must be given to the school to be sold there during the afternoon and evening.

The Study Club.
The Study Club met at the residence of Rev. F. H. Lapham on Monday evening. The book on Japan was finished by the members, and a debate upon the following question was most ably given: "Which will add to the greater progress of the world, if it should win, Japan or Russia?" The part of Japan was taken by Mr. Harry Mock, and that of Russia by Mr. Geo. Lytle. The judges were Mr. J. E. Heise, Mrs. Ada McIntosh and Miss Grace Freeman, who decided in favor of Japan. After the program Mrs. Lapham, dressed in the costume of a Chinese bride, presided as guest with a Japanese cherry-blossom as a souvenir of the evening's program. Bonbons were served and a most enjoyable evening spent by those present. After a few weeks the class will take up a trip to the Holy Land under the leadership of Rev. F. H. Lapham.

They know how to punish crime in Iowa. A man who bilked a bank for $250,000 was sent to jail for three months; another man who embezzled $25,000 was given thirty months in the penitentiary. A man a village marshal caught a poor devil stealing a dollar and the district judge soaked the fellow for ten years. Those Iowa people know what to do with a thief alright.
