Wheeler when he was offreen years old, because he was one of her neph-ews.

At the age of nineteen he entered college, and three years later he graduated as a lawyer. He was taking a rest and looking around previous to setting up for himself when Aunt Hannah discovered something that made her shiver in horror. She had heard so complaints of the young man's conduct while he was at college, and no policeman had ever appeared at the house to warm her that Ray, was whooping it up when away from her motherly influence.

The young man had a caller one evening in the person of an old classmate. They smoked and talked. They talked about straight false, upper cuts, right hand swings and other things belonging to the Greek language. The door of the room was open, and Aunt Hannah heard them. Later they ascended to the garret. She crept part way up the narrow status and saw and heard. She saw then offer around he big room in fercest fashion and also make use of terms she had never heard before, not even in connection with state prisons and ward caucuses. "We had the mitts on for a few rounds, to keep in practice."

"Mitts? Mitts?"

"Boxing sloves, you know."

"Ah! You learned this at college, did you? While I supposed you were putting in all your thine at your studies you were fact and the studies and the your studies you were fact at work second of graduating a lawyer, I have, it seems, added to the unbuse of loafers who pound each other about for money."

"Comes' now, unit." protested the young man, "but boxing is a part of the grimasium work af every college."

"If I had known that they trained young must be prize fighters you would never have gone to ordere. Never invite that or any once boxing man way to be prize in the prize fighting business must stop right here. If there is not you would not feel worse. This prize fighting business must stop right here. If there is any more of it I shall alter up will in favor of those nephews who are gent to downstairs to be cremated in the furnance, and the visitor did not call signin. What did hapipen was that Ray Wheeler attended the searcet symmasium instead. It was an almost datly thing with him to keep up his boxing practice, and Aunt Hannah would have been none the wiser but for a talebearer. "Yes, but you see"—
"And that if there was any more of it I should change my will? If you learned that at college you must have learned you should have an advantage of the condition of the college you do. I had built up great hopes around you, and to have them shattered in a uniment is something hard to bear."
"But, aunty, if only you would let me explain," replied the young man. "One needs to be a fough because be known how to box. It is tanght to see a fough because be known how to box. Grain alcohol could be used in great quantities in this country if the In-ternal revenue duty were reduced. It would drive wood alcohol out of the market and would be the fuel used be-neath thousands of small engines, where the more dangerous and more expensive gasoline is now used. The Germans use potato alcohol to a large extent for such purposes, and it would effect an immense saving if it could be thus used here. There is a bill to this end now before congress, but Standard Oil is accused of fighting it in order to keep up the price of kerosene oil.

The first planting of cotton seed in the colonies was in the Carolinas in the year 1021, when seeds were planted as year 1021, when seeds were planted as years that in 1643 "men fell to the manufacture of cotton, whereof we have great stores from Barbados." In 1739-it was cultivated in the gardens along Chesapeake bay, especially in the vicinity of Baltimore, and at the opening of the Revolution it was a garden plant in New Jersey and New York, but its real value seems to have been almost unknown to the planters until about 1750.

The Chameleon.

The American chameleon, a small lizard, inhabits various parts of the southern United States. The little animal has the remarkable habit of quickly and completely changing its colors, varying from brown to yellow and pale green. Its food consists of lissects. The little animal is perfectly harmless to higher forms of life, is often kept as a pet and has been worn attached to a chain as an ornament. The toes are provided with adhesive pads, which enable the lizard to run upon smooth, vertical surfaces.

The idea that life insurance moneys are trust funds, to be guarded as safely and carefully in every way as those deposited in savings banks, is the proper basis for all insurance legislation. Now that the ground is cleared, legislators should switch on to that basis

"Ob, do," she called out, "come in! Mary Ann and I are so tired of watering Carlyle?" The lady entered and was escorted to the litting garden at the back of the house. There—"It was a hot day—at the great two devoted women had been taking turns in deluging the flagstones around him by means of a large watering pot. He was very particular that not a drop should touch his sacred person, which no doubt doubled the difficulty of the operation. The same authority relates that Mrs. Carlyle had a dog which showed. But it would come in whith drive here trace is the creature, yet he had to be cleaned somehow. Finally there was an arrangement made with a local luminers, and she washed him every week, sending him home in a basket with the clean clothes.
