Stopping the Paper.
"I've stopped my paper, yes, I have; I didn't like to do it. But the editor got to smart and I allow he'll rue it. I am a man as pays my debts and I won't be insulted. So when an editor gets smart I want to be consulted. I took his paper seven years, and he helped him all I could, sir, and when it comes to dunnin' me, I didn't think he would, sir; but that he did, and you can bet it made me hot as thunder. Says I, I'll stop that sheet. I will if the cussed thing goes under! I hunted up the measly whelp, and for his cunnin' paper I paid them seven years and quit! Yes, sir, I've stopped his paper!"

MERITS YOUR ATTENDANCE.

An Exceptionally Fine Musical Program Tuesday Evening.
On Tuesday evening of next week, May the 1st, Prof. Julius Stackman, who has been conducting two singing classes in Barrington during the past six weeks, will close his work by giving a fine chorus concert. In another part of this paper the program appears in full (subject to slight changes). Prof. Stackman has done good, honest and hard work, and the entire membership of his classes speak in the highest terms of him as an instructor of vocal music. The proceeds of his concert will go towards rental of church, janitor hire, etc. Every one should attend and hear this fine program.

Insurance That Insures.

President Kremer, president of the German American insurance company at San Francisco, sends the following message:
"We are enabled to assure our agents that every liability of this company at San Francisco will be promptly met leaving us with a very large surplus fund and the business of the company will be continued without change."

The great Chicago fire of 1871 burned three square miles of territory, left 100,000 people homeless, destroyed $165,000,000 worth of property and ruined 100 insurance companies. The San Francisco disaster has devastated 10 square miles, destroyed the homes of 120,000 to 200,000 people and ruined property valued at upwards of three hundred millions of dollars.

A comparison of these catastrophes and their results cannot fail to impress upon you the great strength of the German American which enables it to take care of its losses, however large they may be, and still retain a large and well-invested surplus for the protection of its policy-holders everywhere.
Miles T. Lamey is the resident agent of this company in this village and solicits your business.

Put a Bull Behind the Bars

We call especial attention to the hinge joint at each intersection of stay with main bars. This is the essential of every good wire fence. Unless the stay has a hinge joint the fence cannot receive pressure from contact and right itself. All rigid stay fences have been unsatisfactory and disappointing, as they crush down and when once down, remain so.

AMERICAN FENCE

Is made with a hinge joint, by which the maximum of elasticity is secured and the fence if properly stretched, remains in place indefinitely. With the hinge joint, no amount of strain on the bars can effect the connection of stay and bar, while the opposite is true of all rigid stay fences.

L. F. SCHROEDER

Barrington, Ill., sells this celebrated fence, as well as hardware of every description.
