

CLOSING SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Barrington Public Schools Grant a Ten Weeks' Vacation to 325 Pupils.

Three hundred and twenty-five pupils of the Barrington Public Schools this afternoon commence a ten weeks' well-earned vacation.

Prof. Banta, who succeeded Prof. F. E. Smith three years ago, and who relinquishes his position to accept a more lucrative one with a Chicago financial institution, leaves a record of which he may justly feel proud.

The first thing he did on his arrival three years ago was to push the agitation begun by Prof. Smith for a new school building, and he pushed it along to a successful finish, and was largely instrumental in planning the building.

Over $500 was raised by the pupils in the past year by entertainments given and originated under his supervision. This sum was utilized to good advantage—purchasing a piano, paying for the tinting and purchasing thirty good pictures.

During Prof. Banta's guidance Music and Drawing were added to the course of study, and the two year's high school course was extended to four years. The high school attendance has been doubled.

In addition to this the Professor has been instrumental in having published in pamphlet form the first "Course of Study and Rules and Regulations" of the Barrington School.

Many people believe that the life of a principal is one continual round of pleasure and ease, but it is just the reverse. In order to be successful much mental work is required, and generally it is done while others sleep.

In this case Prof. Banta has proven that he certainly worked conscientiously and hard for the good of the school, and worked while others slept the sleep of the just. We are sorry to see him leave, but we wish him success wherever he may go.

DIED ON TUESDAY MORNING

Mrs. L. D. Castle, an Old Pioneer, of Barrington, Passes Away.

Mrs. L. D. Castle passed away Sunday at 11:30 o'clock after suffering for ten or fifteen years.

Mrs. Castle was born in Buchland, Mass., March 29, 1831, and at the time of death was 75 years 2 months and 18 days of age.

She has been a continuous resident of this community for the past eighteen years, and her friends included every one she came in contact with.

She was united in marriage to L. D. Castle in Waukegan, June 1, 1852.

Eight children blessed the union, two of whom died in infancy. The children who survive her are Miss Eva Castle of this city, Percy V., Charles S. and Perley D., of Austin; Mrs. Lottie Coltrin of Austin, and Ben Castle of Arlington Heights.

The funeral was held Tuesday, Rev. T. E. Ream officiating. Interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

ENTERTAINS MANY FRIENDS

E. F. Blocks Gives His Daughter and Friends Some Wholesome Advice.

Miss Sadie Blocks gave a birthday party at the home of her parents Saturday evening in honor of her 18th year. It was a party out of the ordinary in many ways. Only young ladies were invited, and those who attended numbered twenty-one, but five boys at a late hour got desperate, and raised courage enough to invade the premises, holding to the coat tails of each other, Police Magistrate Arnett Lines, the leader, firmly holding on to Mr. Blocks, the father. After refreshments, Mr. Lines gave an interesting talk which was highly appreciated and historical.

"Progressive Peanuts," and music furnished amusement for the young ladies during the evening, and the decorations were pink and white roses. Miss Blocks also presented her lady guests with a photo of herself.

Mr. Blocks father of the hostess, read the following wholesome advice to his daughter and her guests:

"Now girls, you are here to celebrate the eighteenth birthday of one of your friends. One with whom you have passed through all of the trials of childhood, and this day is the stepping stone from childhood to the full state of womanhood.

"There are many thoughts which come to us to-day as we remember the past years of Sadie's life—the terrible childhood troubles that have beset her path, the days when to her it seemed that life had more burdens than she could bear, but they all went by and she came again into childhood's sunshine, after weeping out her grief, held close in Mama's arms.

"And girls, let me say now that when trouble comes at any stage of life, there is no place to go, no friend there to such perfect sympathy, and such wise advice, as you will get by taking Mama in your confidence, and telling her all.

"Yes, fathers are good things to have around, for they pay bills, buy clothes, and I presume you all know what a brother heir, but most always he is a 'good fellow' and tries his level best to do for you all he can; you could hardly expect me to say nothing about the good traits in a father because you know I am very proud of my girls, and have just cause to be.

"Sadie's eighteenth birthday! Why, do you know, it don't seem but a minute since I used to take her in my arms and try to get her to go to sleep so that mama could get something to feed me with. And, as I would try to hush her little cries, I would think, may be, I would break her in pieces—she was so tiny. But those days are all passed and gone and Sadie is just as liable to be the one (if at home) to be getting things ready to feed her 'daddy' with, and keep him good natured, as Mama was in those by-gone days. I am quite proud of my appetite, too.

"I do not doubt that many girls, when they are going to school, and feel they are being treated badly, because mama and papa insist that there must be no excuses for missing a day at school, and the studies are hard, and the days seem endless, work unceasing and dry, that the thought comes, "Just you wait until I am eighteen, I will do as I please then, for I will be of age and my own boss." But when that day comes, and you reach that eighteenth birthday, for there many of you who feel the same resentment, that you tried to make yourselves believe you felt in those troublesome days? I will answer the question by saying, no. For each one of you feel in these after years, that nothing could have done you so much good, and you thank us for being so very anxious for your welfare.

"The reason for this is because of the widened experience, and the coming in contact with the world, and then you fully realize and know what it means to be able to meet the world on an equal footing and know that the early school discipline, which you felt was so hard, only can place you where you enjoy so much to be—that is, in a position of social equality.

"And you will all forgive a father who is in a sense a losing a child—that there is to be a parting, or anything so terrible, but this eighteenth milestone is an age at which civilization through its wise laws, proclaim a daughter to be of full age to choose, and to do for herself as she deems fit, and in this behalf, what I am about to say to Sadie, may be well taken heed by all of you.

"Sadie, while you have reached the age and state of full and perfect womanhood, with all of its many trials its joys and sorrows, and I may say that it is the wish of mama and I that no great trial, or sorrow may ever come near you, we ask that you bear in mind, that because you are eighteen years old, and are what is commonly called, "your own boss."

"And you will all forgive a father who guided you to that woman's state, there is the same devotion to be given to you — you are still the beloved daughter of your parents, and above and beyond all is the solicitude, for your well being and happiness; and that this home is still your home, and a place where you will receive the same sweet, pure, and perfect counsel, in all of life's problems so long as it may please God to give us the strength to maintain it.

"In all of life's most serious problems, in all of the important steps to be taken, ever trust your mother's instinct and counsel, and your's will be a life of example, well to be followed. There can be no greater mistake in a girl's life than the one of forgetting to make mother confident in all things, and in so doing, losing the greatest privilege, in a girl's life, "a mother's advice and counsel." And now, thanking you for your kind and earnest attention, let springs of pleasure burst forth again, and carry you through this life on an untroubled tide to its close."

HIGH-CLASS DANCES.

William Bicknese's Pavilion at Lake Zurich Proves to be Conducted in a Popular Manner.

Wm. Bicknese's new pavilion at Lake Zurich is one of the finest to be found anywhere. The location is an ideal one, while the building itself is large, and contains every convenience. Perfect order is maintained, and the patronage given the past two dances prestiges success to the venture. Mr. Bicknese has commenced a series of amusements that ought to meet the hearty approval and co-operation of every Lake Zurich citizen, for it will help all of them. A high-class dance, such as Mr. Bicknese has given the past two weeks, is to be commended and not criticized.

Misses Anna Krueger and Henning and Messrs. Wichman and Donora, of Barrington, were driving on our streets Sunday.

Misses Vashli Lambert and Elvora Arps attended the alumni banquet of the Chicago Normal school Saturday at Normal Park.

Ewald Clausius played his first engagement with the Wauconda orchestra last Saturday night. He will play there every Saturday night during the summer.

Miss Evelyn Clark, of Bronson, Michigan, arrived Monday to spend her vacation with her friend, Miss Elvora Arps.

Misses Cora Jaenke and Marie Ernst, of Barrington, attended the ball game and picnic Sunday as the guests of Elvora and Pline Arps.

Mrs. Johnson, of West Pullman, is spending some time at the home of Mrs. Eleanor Gibbs. Miss Mae spent Sunday out here.

Mrs. Charlie Dean went to Kankakee Monday and got her son Charlie. He is attending school there. He will spend his vacation at home.

Mrs. Reynolds entertained her brother, Mr. Chantrill, wife and daughter, of Chicago, at her home Sunday.

Mrs. C. H. Patten is attending the exercises of commencement week of Harvard this week. Paul is one of the graduates.

Quite a number of out of town people attended the graduation exercises last Friday night. Among them were: Fred Kampert, wife and daughter; R. D. Welts, Miss Amanda Kampert, and J. I. Sears and wife and W. N. Sears, of Barrington.

Our ball team played against the National Biscuit Co., of Chicago, Sunday, and were defeated by a score of 17-13. The game was a good clean game and highly enjoyed by all present. Our boys played a good game. Come out and see what they can do. They want the support of the people.

Three graduated from our High school last Friday night. They were Misses Cora Schroeder and Rose Kampert, of Barrington, and Robert Schultz. The exercises were held at the Methodist church. The class entered to the march played by the Suburban orchestra, taking their places on the platform, which was decorated with palms and white peonies, green and white being the class colors. At the back of them was the motto on a half moon with a star below. The motto was "Via Limine," meaning "At the threshold."

The orations delivered by the graduates were fine and showed that a good deal of thought and time had been spent on them. The delivery was very good too. "Athletics as a Power," given by Robert Schultz, showed that athletics had done for the young people. It takes too much time and space to tell about each, as they all deserve so much credit. "Ethical Influences of a High School," was given by Cora Schroeder, and "The Novel of To-Day," by Rose Kampert. The address by the president of the board, R. L. Peck, was full of suggestions, not alone for the graduates, but all others as well.

The church was beautifully decorated with green and white.

Following was the program:

Orchestra.
Oration—"Athletics as a Power," Robert Schultz.
Orchestra.

Oration—"Ethical Influences of a High School," Cora Schroeder.
Orchestra.

Oration—"The Novel of To-Day," Rose Kampert.
Orchestra.

Miss Blanche Schierling entertained the aunts and cousins of Miss Mae Salton to a "kitchen shower" at her home Tuesday afternoon and then invited the leap year girls and bachelor girls in the evening. The afternoon and evening were spent in games and singing. Miss Rose Kueblen won first prize in throwing a heart over a stick and Miss Pauline Clausius won the beauty. Light refreshments were served, after which games were indulged in again and the girls did not return to their homes until in the early hours of the morning. They left wishing Mae a very happy future.

Prof. Sears' pupils will give a concert in the M. E. church Thursday evening, June 28th. Four concerts will be given—one at 10:30 a. m., 1:15 p. m., 3:30 p. m. and 8:15 p. m. The 8:15 concert will be the best of all.
