WET OR DRY?

Local Option Question Next to Come Before Barrington Voters—Clerkship Contest Also Creates Interest.

The last of the spring primary elections and elections in the village election which is to be held next Tuesday at the village hall, and the interest of local politicians is centered wholly about this contest. A specimen of the ballot to be voted at this election is published in this issue so that all may become familiar with it. The outgoing trustees are entirely without opposition in their campaign for reelection, but Walter Lagaschille, the present clerk, who was nominated for reelection to that office at the primary election, has for an opponent Joseph D. Robertson.

"Wet or dry" is the question interesting most voters however. The town has not been dry for years. It was first voted dry in 1908 by a majority of 22 votes. In 1910, the next time the question was or could have been voted upon, the drys had an increase over their previous majority of 42 votes. This year settles the question for the next two years and both factions are very desirous of winning.

It is generally conceded that the village will remain "dry."

This Year's Seed Corn.
Much has been said this spring about the low rate of germination of seed corn in this and many other of the principal corn growing states. The condition is said to be serious. Superintendent Fred Kivocher, a leading farmer of this vicinity, recently sent a sample of his seed corn to the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., for testing. That which had been sown in the basement tested 96 per cent, a most excellent average and one that is seldom equaled. Corn left in an open building tested only 48 per cent. Corn sown by William Grace tested 80 per cent. All of this corn was of the white and yellow dent variety.

A government bulletin says: "It is important this year that every one should be sure of the quality of seed he is planting. Single ear specimens should be made in all cases where ear seed is to be used for seed. When it is necessary to use shelled corn of which single ear tests have not previously been made, the ears should be carefully mixed and a uniform sample tested for germination, and the rate of planting regulated on the basis of the germination tests so there will be a sufficient number of live kernels planted in each hill to give a full stand."

Rain Spoils Rally.
A party of Republican candidates for Cook county and state offices arrived here on a special train at half past three o'clock last Saturday afternoon and made short calls at the depot to the Republican voters of this locality. The order of the rally was dampened considerably by a spring shower that arrived about the same time the candidates did and lasted during their stay. Their audience was rather small on this account. Governor Deneen, who was to have been one of the party was obliged to remain at his home in Springfield on account of illness, but was well represented by a man from that city, Lewis Hiniker, candidate for state's attorney; Matthew Mills, candidate for board of review; Peter Hoffman, candidate for reelection to the office of coroner; Fred B. Ross, candidate for representative in the general assembly; and other well known candidates and politicians composed the party.
