

MAJESTIC.

Cecilia Lofton, the most distinguished of all the impersonators, will be the headliners at the Majestic Theatre, Chicago, next week. Returning to this country from England last fall after a long absence, Miss Lofton opened her tour at the Majestic and soon demonstrated that her art had matured and ripened during her long absence. Lew Sully the famous minstrel man will present an entirely new act which he calls "Words and Music." Harry Richardson and Bessie Kyle, two exceptional comedians will appear in a sketch called "A Regular Club Fellow." Callahan & S. George's sketch, "The Old Neighborhood" is one that invariably scores a hit with the public. P. O'Malley Jennings and Katherine Nelson will appear in a comedy singing and talking sketch, called "A Little Bit of England." Cook & Lorenz, comedians of the broad and convulsing sort, will undoubtedly repeat the success which they have frequently made in the past. The Three Gladstones are Holland gymnasts who have recently finished a tour of England and are now making their initial visit to this country. Miss Gladstone is known in England as "The Lady Sandow" and is capable of some remarkable feats. The Four Vanis distinguished wire experts will also feature in this most entertaining program.

Happy Thought! Why Not Oranges? Abby, the bluest girl of the family, was seated at the breakfast table one morning. As usual, eggs were served. Either she was not hungry or she had grown tired of the inevitable bill of fare, for very earnestly and soberly she remarked, "I do wish hens would lay something besides eggs."—Touth's Companion.

Where Better Employed? Store Proprietor (hiring a new clerk):—"You know how to work a cash register?" "Yes, sir; I was one of the first to set on to it. I can work anything from a taxicab to a rum slot, but they watch you closer nowadays."—Saltire.

Reader and Entertainer.

Will appear at the Methodist Episcopal church on Monday evening, May 30, at eight o'clock.

Honk! Honk! They are going by—seventy-five thousand of them—a procession thousands of miles long and all new Fords. Don't watch them go by. You'll join the army of the matchless Ford—if you but bring yourself to understand the true economy of this wonderful car.

All Fords are Model T's—all alike except the bodies. The two passenger runabout costs $500—the five passenger touring car $600—the delivery car $700—the town car $900—f. o. b. Detroit, completely equipped. Get latest catalogue from D. C. Schroeder, Barrington or direct from Detroit factory.

TRAP IS EASY TO CONSTRUCT

Excellent for Extermination of Rats, Also to Catch Rabbits and Other Animals.

By J. W. GRIFFIN.
Get the trap over a barrel that is partly filled with water; fasten the trigger down so that they will not fall and let the rats run through the trap for several nights—then pull out the nail that holds the door, and you will catch every rat that has visited the trap.

Two boards ten inches wide and two feet long are used for the sides; one board two feet long and one foot wide for the top; two boards ten inches wide and one foot and six inches in length for the bottom or falling doors.

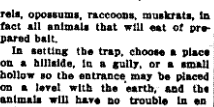

The falling doors should have thin fastenings on the top side from where the pivots enter the sides to the end next to the bait; this will prevent the sharp edge clinging to the board and climbing back when the doors fall.

The description by letter is as follows: A, bait; B, E, on the dotted lines, shows the position of the falling doors when the game enters the lower part of the trap; C, the entrance to the trap; D, the nails that serve as pivots for the falling doors.

E, E, nail-holes in which are the nails that hold the trap-unset while the game are getting used to it. The bottom part of the trap—that which retains the game after trapping—should be made of hardwood or should be lined with roofing iron or tin.

The bait should be suspended with a small wire and should hang within two or three inches of the floor, or falling doors.

If the trap is neatly made and fitted out—so that all parts work well, there is not the least possibility about as to the game it will catch (besides the rats one wishes to exterminate), such as rabbits, squirrels, opossums, raccoons, muskrats, in fact all animals that will eat of prepared bait.

PREPARATION OF CELERY BED
Plant Does Best in Moist, Mucky Soil and in Situations Where Water Supply is Abundant.

Sow celery in March, or beginning of April in rows in fine, rich soil, and, if dry enough, press the soil firmly with a roller or the back of the spade. Keep the seed bed well watered, as celery germinates very slowly. Transplant from June to August.

Celery does best in a moist, mucky soil, and in situations where plenty of water is abundant in the soil. It can be planted in single or double rows, earthing up as it grows two or three times, and in doing this, care should be taken not to let the earth get into the heart of the plant.

When severe cold weather comes, take up and transplant seedlings in a bed close together, and cover gradually with leaves, hay or straw, as necessary to prevent freezing.

GARDEN and FARM NOTES

Weeds along the fence are fine harbors for insects.

Long, straight garden rows make cultivation easier.

Asparagus should not be cut the first season at all.

Poultry droppings make fine fertilizer for the onion bed.

A plant of rhubarb once well established is good indefinitely.

The market price of commercial foods is no indication of their real value.

Clean all home-grown seed and grain, so only the largest seed can be used.

Rhubarb or pieplant is one of the perennials that should be in every garden.

Any time in the year is the right time to begin planning for an asparagus plot.

Lettuce and cabbage plants in the coldframes must be given air every mild day.

Sweet corn is a very profitable crop. One reason for this is because it is so easily handled.

The silo is now a necessity, and for you to compete with the man who has one you must have one, too.

It is always best to order the vegetable seeds early to insure prompt delivery and to get such variety as is wanted.

Full plowing usually produces a better corn crop than shallow plowing, the ground being mellowed by the frost and rain.

Every grain dealer, banker and business man should be sure to have every man possible to insure himself in the best every one of their seed corn.
