Newspaper Men Preparing For Two Conventions.

TO MOVE ON CHICAGO SOON

Then They Must Make Quick Jump to Baltimore—How Tickets Are Assigned and Quarters Provided for the Correspondents.

By GEORGE CLINTON.
Washington—Moving day is imminent in Washington. Very soon scores of members of congress and campaign managers of three Republican candidates and hundreds of persons who are to be merely onlookers will take trains, regular and special, to move on Chicago for the great Republican national convention.

While the Republican convention is at its height other scores of congressmen and campaign managers of at least four Democratic candidates and four onlookers that are numbered among the hosts of Chicago sportsmen will move on Baltimore. The convention this year are regarded by everybody in Washington as certain to be of unusual interest. The demand for tickets in Baltimore has been greater than ever before and the committee men are being put to it not simply to meet the demand, but to discover ways and means of declining demands so diplomatically as not to give offense. It is a case of being asked to put at least a hundred people in one hole and this is the thing which not even the sagacious and resourceful national committee men of the two parties are able to do.

Army of Correspondents.

Congressmen, political managers and onlookers will not be the only ones to leave Washington for the Chicago event. At least 100 newspaper correspondents will desert the galleries of congress and many others to go to the Lake city, to report not only the convention itself, but the behind-the-scenes preliminaries. There will be 100 newspapers.

Prior to the conventions, the national committee men of both parties are extremely busy men, but there are others who have to work also. The correspondents in Washington here what is called a standing committee whose duties it is to regulate the press galleries, to decide who is entitled to admission and who is not, to investigate in the rare cases where some correspondent is charged with unprofessional conduct and to do many other things in the way of "regulation and good government."

Mr. Albert's Large Task.

The chairman of the standing committee of correspondents is Charles S. Albert. To Mr. Albert have come the applications from all the managing editors of the daily papers of the country asking for assignments of seats on the press platforms of the two conventions. It is also the duty of the chairman to confer with the other members of the standing committee and to determine whether or not the demands of the different newspapers have been out of keeping with the real news necessities in the case. It is rather a difficult and delicate job to determine just how many seats the newspapers are entitled to. When all the applications are in, the requests for newspaper seats are turned over to the standing committee.

The chairman of the national committee on the management of the two conventions, and the seats are assigned.

In the house press gallery setting as its representative in the convention, the thirty years at his post of duty. He is Charles H. Mann, a Marylander, directly from the ranks of the Washington service, but a veteran of the convention service.

In the senate press gallery as superintendent in charge, young Albert is extraordinarily active. He has been traveling back and forth between Baltimore and Washington several times a week ever since the Democratic national committee men had in Baltimore as the place for the convention. It is not too much to say that Mr. Albert probably knows just up with some of the men who have designed each individual correspondent. It has been one of his duties to see to it that the writers have places to sit and that they are provided with themselves, or to distant, instant speed.

Department Press Agents Assigned.

Members of the house rules committee recently have been investigating the office of the press agents for the departments of government. In many of the departments men are employed to get out information concerning the office of the government. Much of this material is sent in Washington correspondence and a good deal of it is used in the news columns which are of great value to the government.

The charges have been made that some of the press agents should be sent to the front lines to get out the news from actual battle. It is not too much to say that the press agents should be sent to the front lines to get out the news from actual battle.

out in finished articles and what was intended, so it is assumed, to hamper the investigation which was being made into recent inspection.

Publicity That Has Value.

The government has benefited very much by its attempts to employ proper publicity, and it is to be expected that writers on behalf of the government service have overstepped the bounds of propriety they have unquestionably done a blow to publicity of the right kind. Take the case of education, for instance. It furnishes and has been furnishing for some time interesting material concerning educational affairs all over the country, and the trend of education in other countries. In the main it is wholesome stuff and frequently it has not only real educational value, but real news value. The stepping up of this sort of educational publicity probably would not only be an injury to the government, but a distinct aid to educators all over the country who take a deep interest in their profession and all that pertains to it. Of course the publicity matter referred to does not include the regular publication of the departments. There has been no hint of an intention to interfere with their work.

Not long ago there was established by congress what was called a bureau of mines. The officers of this bureau were engaged in the work of showing the material furnished by the public interest in the minerals of the country through. Frequently these articles have been accompanied by illustrations made from photographs of actual accident and life-saving scenes.

The state department also has a bureau of mines, and it is to be expected that in the work of showing the material furnished by the public interest in the minerals of the country through. # SCENES AND INCIDENTS AMONG DELEGATES

Everybody during the course of an interview always thinks to say that every one is doing his best to get the most out of the convention.

How do you expect to pull your time, Mr. X, said one of the delegates attending the convention?

And the interviewed usually tries to make up his mind to say that his time was only put up to Mr. X. Mr. X, said the man who was asked, "I have not yet made up my mind as to what to do about it."

The first thing I mean to do is to straighten up the room. I thought I'd try to make it look as if a woman were here. You see, I was in a hotel room when I was in the city. I was in a hotel room when I was in the city. I was in a hotel room when I was in the city.

The Experience of Two Girls Here Relieved For The Benefit of Others.

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 18 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of distress and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief.

After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DONHAM, 21 Exchange St., Rochester, N.Y.

St. Louis, Mo.—"I suffered from headache, backache and very irregular menstruation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I was free from all my troubles. I am now 61 years old, but I have better health than for two or three years ago."—Mrs. J.
