GUINEA MEAT IS DELICIOUS

When Matured Bird Cannot Be Excused by Any Chicken for a Pot Roast or Pie.

You have heard of guinea fowl, but did you ever taste one? If you like the delicious flavor of wild game, especially the prairie chicken, you are sure to enjoy a meal of guinea fowl. When young the guinea is most tender and more juicy than the prairie chicken, and is far superior to any other bird as a broiler or a fry. When matured they cannot be excelled by any chicken for a pot roast or pie. Their flesh is rather dark, but fine grained and very tender, with an exquisite gamey flavor. The eggs, while rather small, have a rich taste that most persons like. There is an ever-increasing demand for guinea in the larger cities for restaurant trade. There's profit in raising them.

Guineas are not so serviceable as hens when raised in close confinement, but if allowed the run of the farm they will practically raise themselves, with hardly any expense to their owners, and will return a profit in both eggs and meat. The guinea is naturally a wild bird, and will usually range in the wildest part of the country, so that it is usually difficult to find its nest. If guinea and turkey eggs are set together in the same nest, the guinea and half turkeys, when given to the brood hen, the guinea will remain with the other birds and will not be nearly so wild as when kept alone. The feed for young turkeys. After three weeks they may be put on free range, feeding three times a day, with plenty of fresh water. They do not scratch like other fowls, and therefore are safe to have in the garden.

HANDY HOPPER FOR POULTRY

Implement May Be Made of Galvanized Iron or Wood, and Prevents Waste of Feed.

A handsome hopper for preventing hens from wasting their food may be made of galvanized iron or wood, as shown in the illustration. The hopper is hung about the lower box which may be emptied back into the hopper when desired.

Poultry Hopper.

POULTRY NOTES

Watch the hens for superfluous fat. The poultry business is not all profits. Be generous with fresh air and water and sunshine. Lettuce is particularly well liked by chicks because of its tenderness. It is easier to keep the house quarters clean than it is to fight disease. If cabbage is fed in too large quantities, the eggs may partake of its flavor. Don't put off buying your breeding stock for the poultry yard till next spring. Green food is one of the essentials for healthy fowls and for satisfactory egg production. Have the hen yard border on the garden, so that the vegetables can be easily transferred. The fact of the business is, the average farm stock produces about 150 eggs per hen each year. The problem of getting green food for poultry in the winter is much more pressing than in summer. Once a month paint the roosts with coal oil, using a broad paint brush, and pour a little into any cracks about the ends of perches. Provide plenty of dry earth and coal ashes where the hens may dust themselves, and there is little danger of body lice in a clean house. The hen has in the scratching shed is the one that drops the eggs in your market basket during the winter months when eggs are highest. Place a shallow pan with a little kerosene in it where the hens have to walk through it in entering their night quarters, and miles are not apt to give trouble.

Evolution of Chuzzlewit. The selection of a title was always one of Dickens' first anxieties when he was selecting a new book. The now familiar name of Chuzzlewit went through a curious process of evolution. First it was Sweetestden, then Sweetestley, then Sweetestly. None of these would do. The Sweetest then became Chuzzle, and there was a new series of Chuzzlesto, Chuzzleby, Chuzzlewit, and finally Chuzzlewit—How Dickens Found His Names.

Iconoclasts. Now they say the game of golf originated in Holland. Oh, go on with the cruel work of despoliation. The ducal sack has already been awarded to Germany and probably an Italian will be along directly and claim the haggis while a Greek walks off with the kilts. —New York Evening Telegram.

Choice of Two Evils. The Hellfire in tears—"My husband was so ardent in his love-making, I thought he adored me." Her Friend—"My dear, a man can put considerable fervor into his wooing when it's a case of marriage or work."
