COMMENCEMENT WEEK

The senior class began their graduation week last Saturday evening, June 15, when a delightful evening of friendship and amusement known as the Faculty reception was spent at the home of Prof. and Mrs. E. S. Smith. A number of interesting games were indulged in by teachers and class members and much credit is due those who planned the delightful evening's entertainment. The dining room was prettily decorated in purple and white ribbons and a beautiful center-piece of white roses surrounded by candles. Pretty little trunks filled with candy were given as favors and the following menu served:

Chicken Jelly Sandwiches
Grape Juice Water

Fruit Salad Purple Ice Cream
Macaroni Lady Fingers

On Sunday evening, June 16, at the Salem church the annual sermon to the graduating class was given by the Rev. Buente of the Zion church who spoke from the text: "If ye know these things happy are ye if ye do them"—John 13:17. The musical program consisted of the annual march led by Miss Violet Ullrich; a piano duet by Misses Almida and Frances Plagge; a beautiful vocal solo "Conscience and Heart Me" by Mrs. Charles Thies; and a vocal selection by the Symphony Four.

Class night was on Tuesday and drew a large and interested audience. Every musical number was good and very pleasing to hear. The opening address was given by the popular class president, Homer Plagge, who thought he was the only boy was their "lone star" as was expressed in the class poem read by Miss Leah Meyer, the class poet. Miss Ruth Catlow served the refreshments. The class history of each graduate for the future was given by Miss Mabel Kampert, a paper full of witicism and anecdotes of their class life. The class with Miss Josephine Catlow showed much thought and care and created much laughter and applause.

Smith in the name of the class presented the school with a beautiful trophy finished statue of Washington, Howard Harnden, president of the Junior class, representing the school, accepted the gift and gave a very interesting response.
