

NEW LEADERS NAMED

Republican National Committee Is Reorganized.

DROP SEVERAL "OLD GUARD"

Rosewater, Mulvany, Vorys of Ohio and Penrose Are Among Those Who Are Displaced—Frank B. Kellogg of Minnesota Also Loses Out.

Chicago, June 19.—National committee members were elected by the staffs delegations to the national Republican convention, progressives being chosen in every case where the Roosevelt men are in control. Thirteen members of the old committee were re-elected. Several members of the old guard who were prominent in the contest during last week fell by the wayside, as predicted. Roy O. West succeeds Frank O. Lowden in Illinois. Victor Rosewater was thoroughly steamrolled by the Nebraska delegation. Harry S. New retired voluntarily in Indiana. David W. Mulvany of Kansas gave way to William Allen White. Arthur L. Vorys of Ohio stepped down and out. Walter P. Brown taking his place. Senator Howe Penrose of Pennsylvania was thrown outside of the trenches by William Flinn.

Bay State Men Fall to Argue. The Massachusetts delegation made another attempt today to agree on an organization, the result being that the delegates from the Bay state marched to the convention at the Coliseum hopefully divided. There are 18 Taft and 18 Roosevelt men in the delegation.

The Roosevelt delegates were willing to concede Taft the national nomination if some one other than Senator Murray Crane was selected. The Taft delegates decided on Clifford Gallagher for committeeman and asserted that there was not sufficient time in which to modify the Roosevelt men of their choice. Charles S. Hays was selected for national committeeman by the Roosevelt men.

Frank B. Kellogg loses. Charles Nagel, a member of President Taft's cabinet from Missouri, Thomas K. Niedringhaus succeeding him in Minnesota. Frank B. Kellogg is succeeded by L. A. Carroll, a newspaper publisher of Ancker. Though Kellogg fought valiantly for the Roosevelt forces all through the sessions of the national committee.

ASKS CASH FOR DELEGATES

Mayor Gayner of New York Requests Southern Delegation for Requesting Monetary Help.

New York, June 19.—Mayor Gayner received a message purporting to be a telegram from a southern Democrat, who said he had charge of an entire district delegation from a southern state to the national convention at Baltimore, complaining that some of the rural delegates did not have sufficient funds to get to the convention.

The message appeared to answer at least one of the many inquiries that have been made.

TAFT MEN WIN FIRST ROUND IN OPENING FIGHT

Senator Root Is Chosen as Temporary Chairman of Republican Convention.

WINS OVER GOV. MCGOVERN

President's Supporters Muster 558 Votes Against 502 for Colonel Roosevelt—Chairman Rosewater Rules Against Governor Hadley in Contest Over Disputed Delegates.

Chicago, June 19.—The Republican national convention opened the second day's session at 11 o'clock this morning. The delegates all showed the effects of the struggle of the day before and the opposing factions were just as determined to continue the fight to the end. The first business was the consideration of a motion made by Governor Hadley at the close of yesterday's session that the list of delegates prepared by the Roosevelt organization, containing the names of 89 delegates which the national committee had decided against, be submitted for the temporary roll submitted to the convention by the national committee.

It was this same motion, made by Governor Hadley, which had precipitated the motion out of order on the convention was called to order Tuesday. At that time Chairman Rosewater had ruled the motion out of order on the ground that no business could properly come before the convention until the organization was effected.

Senator Root was elected as temporary chairman of the Republican national convention this Tuesday afternoon on a roll call by individual delegates. His selection was a victory for the Taft forces, as he was the choice of the national committee.

McGovern to 9 for Root as temporary chairman. California voted 24 for McGovern to 2 for Root, defeating Governor Johnson's plan for a solid pro-Roosevelt delegation.

The nine Illinois delegates who voted for Root were Robert D. Clark, Peoria; Charles J. Hoppel, William J. Cook, Daniel A. Campbell, Fred W. Upham, Chicago; Harry E. Brown, Geneseo; Clarence Snelvy, Canton; Len Small of Kankakee and Edward Miller, East St. Louis.

McGovern received six of Georgia's 28 votes. Idaho, North's state, was the first on the roll call that had untruncated delegates listed. It was that column swung to McGovern.

Speeches Bring Fireworks. Nominating speeches for the temporary chairmanship candidates brought most of the fireworks after 2 p. m. The nomination of Senator Elihu Root for temporary chairman by the national committee was seconded by Job B. Hedges of New York at 1:46 p. m. A great Root demonstration followed.

LOOKED FOR LEADERSHIP

Some of the Men Who Are More Than Ordinarily Prominent in the Party. Chicago, June 19.—In view of the great interest in the impending national convention a special interest attaches to the personalities of the prominent leaders that loomed up in the contest for the nomination.

HARD FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

It's hard enough to keep house if in perfect health, but a woman weak and suffering with an aching back has a heavy burden. Any woman in this condition has cause to suspect kidney trouble, especially if the kidney action seems disordered.

"When Your Back Is Lame, Remember the Name—DOAN'S. Dr. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Accounted For. "Why are there so many men in this jail?" asked the philanthropic reformer. "I guess," answered the guide, "it's chiefly because they can't get out."

JOSEPH M. DIXON. The chief factorem in the Roosevelt movement, Senator Joseph M. Dixon, was four years ago conducting the speakers' bureau for the party. Senator Dixon is a native of North Carolina whose residence in Montana has not eliminated his southern traits. He is smooth shaven and dark, impressive and earnest and, needless to add, widely acquainted and well informed.

WILLIAM MURRAY CRANE. Within the national committee's sessions of the convention, Tag leader was Senator William Murray Crane. The senator is great food for the cartoonists and caricaturists. He is long and slender, soft of voice and lithe of movement, and with elongated face, a tuft of brown hair like a top-knot and a faint moustache, visible only at close range. Senator Crane's system is to work through others who are prompt, preferring not to assert himself in verbal bouts or spectacular demonstrations. He impresses one as a man who knows what he is trying to do and expects those who are cooperating with him to that end to do his bidding without waiting time in asking questions.

Another stout Taft man has been Harry S. New, conspicuous by reason of the sugar loaf, straight nose and black felt hat he wears on all occasions. Colonel New was chairman of the national committee for four years this year was in charge of convention arrangements, which is a job of the size of a mountain range. Colonel New is a man of few words and not given to speculating, but he has quick decision, and when he talks people are distinctly understood. He is also a blue-eyed blond and a tireless worker, who keeps at it early and late.

WILLIAM E. BORAH. Senator William E. Borah of Idaho is of medium height, broad shoulders and heavy-set, with a shock of thick brown hair, altogether not unlike a smooth plow in appearance. Borah usually, with party-coloured mouth, but with a strong jaw that comes down with a thud when he asserts himself.

FRANK B. KELLOGG. Frank B. Kellogg is popularly known as the "Trust Buster." Mr. Kellogg has a strong jaw, and has the facial features. His carefully combed gray hair against his pale eyes and fresh complexion alone make him a distinctly boyish appearance. In demeanor he is serious, but lapsing frequently into an spiteful thoughtful style. He has a great deal of talking, leaning forward and pointing with his finger rimmed round eye-glasses folded back, which pop open when he makes a more vigorous gesture.

A great querulist is Francis Henry, San Francisco lawyer, who is of an entirely different type. He is a shrewd looking, smoothly dressed, long-nosed, large-mouthed, bespectacled individual. He gives the impression of wearing a constant smirk, which, however, is natural and not artificial.

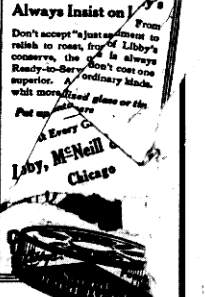

WILLIAM B. MCKINLEY. Preiding over the Taft headquarters was Congressman William B. McKinley, a quiet, mountainous, bald-headed, middle-aged man, really boyish in manner. Your ears ago he was in a quandary with the Roosevelt campaign associates and which he has carried around the world.

stands supreme. The tasty dishes one can make with it are almost numberless. Let's see if there's creamed dried beef, and—but just try it. Then you'll know!
