Cut Shows Barrington Portable Gasoline Engine with Screen Water Cooling Tank

The Barrington Portable Gasoline Engine is mounted on heavy, substantial steel trucks. They are especially built and balanced for portable engine work and will stand perfectly stationary on a level floor without blocking when running at full speed and under load. The materials used in their manufacture are the best that money will buy. Equipped with friction clutch pulley, screen-cooling water tank with circulating pump, gasoline tank, speed lever, battery complete, magneto and all necessary accessories. The engine is fitted with a volume or throttling governor; this governor is a centrifugal high speed governor, being run two revolutions to one revolution of the engine, thereby maintaining a regulation that will govern on less than one hundredth part of an inch; and we guarantee the speed of this engine to be as regular as any steam engine ever built. Can be changed from 125 revolutions to 400 revolutions while running. Ask your neighbors about them.

This Engine has Been On the Market for Nearly Ten Years and Over 200 Are In Use

CURT THEATRE

During the hot weather in Chicago, while all the playhouses are suffering, and all the people are rushing to the parks and lake resorts, the Curt theatre finds its capacity entirely too small to accommodate the thousands of playgoers who are eager to see and enjoy "Fine Feathers," the melodramatic drama by Eugene Walter, which H. H. France is presenting at that playhouse with an all-star cast. It is a page taken from real life, with characters who with whom you and I are familiar, and served in a manner that brings forth wonder, applause and suspense from the audience. Chicago critics who are usually conservative in their reviews of a play, in this case threw caustic and superlatives and adjectives which showed that the play impressed them as no other had done for years. Aside from its dramatic skill, its brilliant dialogue and its gripping situations, "Fine Feathers" appeals to the public because the theme with which it deals is familiar to everyone.

There is no home in America that has not at one time or another been confronted by some problem which Bob Reynolds and his wife—in the play—have to face. The increased cost of standing living—the feminine desire for pretty clothes—the double standard of morals which appeals to modern business—all these are part of "Fine Feathers" and they make it beyond a doubt the biggest drama of the century.

Matinees are given Wednesday and Saturday, and a special one on labor day.

The Trials of a Traveller.
"I am a traveling salesman," writes E. E. Young, E. Berkshire, Vt., "and was often troubled with constipation and indigestion till I began to use Dr. King's New Life Pills, which I have found an excellent remedy." For all stomach, liver or kidney troubles they are unequalled. Only 50c at Barrington Pharmacy.
