THE WIND-UP.

Next Tuesday the question of who is to occupy the chief executive's chair will be settled for the next four years. The Review has been a strongly advocating William Howard Taft because it believes in the man and in the principles and policies for which he stands. During these weeks we have had little or nothing to say regarding the Democratic party and its nominee, because there is little to say. We hope that enough voters will remain true to the Republican party to re-elect Mr. Taft because we do not think a change in the administration would bring about any beneficial results, and it is possible that it would be harmful as has been the case in the past. We do not think however, that the election of Woodrow Wilson would be the calamity that the Progressives and some of the Republicans would have us believe. About the only policy in which the Republican and Democratic parties have seriously disagreed in recent years has been the tariff question. The Republicans contending for a protective tariff while the democrats advocate a tariff for revenue only.

The platform of the three leading parties, Republican, Democratic and Progressive, are about alike in many respects. All advocate conservation of the country's natural resources, improvement of inter-sectional waterways, protection of lands along the Mississippi from overflow, further reclamation of arid lands and development of the resources of Alaska, the parcels post, extension of civil service regulations and publicity of campaign expenses. And all promise downward revision of the tariff. The Republican party promised tariff revision downward four years ago, and IT HAS KEPT ITS PROMISE. The Payne law substantially reduced the Dingley tariff. The duty actually paid on goods imported is over 20 per cent less under the latter than under the former law. Without a doubt the tariff can stand further revision, and will receive further revision if Taft is returned, but don't swallow the campaign lies that the Republican party forgot its pledge. It is recorded that Roosevelt himself has said: "The Payne tariff bill is the best we have ever had."

Another bone of contention between the Progressive party and the other two parties is the recall of judicial decisions—"an appeal from the umpire to the bleachers." We cannot expect courts to be infallible, but let us reform them, not destroy them. The recall of judicial decisions means to go through a campaign and hold an election to see whether a judge elected right in a given case. It is an incentive to mob rule. Can any thinking man vote for a party which advocates such measures?

The progressive party has one more argument; that is: "The old parties are too rotten." If the Republican party is so corrupt why was Roosevelt willing to accept the nomination at its hands?

Before you vote put aside all partisan feeling, go off in a corner alone, where you can face the issues of campaign fairly, freed of the hurrah and glamour cast over them by the political speaker, and make your decision upon the actual principles involved. Think of Roosevelt's seven years at the helm, and what he accomplished; Taft's four years and what he has accomplished; the Republican party's more than 50 years of control and what it has accomplished. Do this and let your decision be influenced by nothing but the actual facts and we have no fear of what that decision will be.

THE TRUTH ABOUT.

What a terrible condition of things would prevail if national independence were completely destroyed! Personal and national honor would be completely destroyed.

WILLIAM H. TAFT

be divided into hostile camps to the paralysis of all social, business and other life. Fortunately the broader and more catholic view that people now take makes such a condition utterly impossible. The world has traveled far since Mr. Pickwick was moved to indignation by witnessing his own lawyer and that of Mrs. Bardell laughing and joking together following the professional dispute they had just had at the memorable trial.

That feeling of Pickwick accurately expressed the sentiment that then prevailed, and even today a few narrow and unscrupulous people have the idea that political enmity must also mean personal enmity. But the telegrams of sympathy and best wishes sent Colonel Roosevelt by his political rivals are a pleasing reminder that we are living in a day when it is well nigh universally admitted that political or religious differences are no ground for personal differences, nor need lessen the esteem and friendship that one man may have for another.

But this very fact should impel political speakers and the press to moderate the tone of their utterances. In the present campaign there has been with some speakers and papers far too much invective, and the effect is mischievous. Less calling of names and more argument would be more acceptable. It is well always to keep in mind that honesty of conviction and patriotism is not the monopoly of any one man or party.

THEY SAY THAT

The higher the flight the harder the fall.

Opportunity knocks but once at a man's door—but if he can't accept, one is enough.

A friend in need is no curiosity.

The self-made man is often a bum carpenter.

The man who merely makes blue prints is an ineffective dreamer—the man who merely lays brick is a drudge.

You'll never learn to swim sitting on the bank watching the other fellows—peel off your coat and jump in.

It is a fortunate wife who can deal with her husband honestly instead of diplomatically.

The recipe for perpetual ignorance is: be satisfied with your opinions and content with your knowledge.

You should remember when you are right you can afford to keep your temper and when you are wrong you can't afford to lose it.

Arlington Heights Review: Niels Juul, the Republican congressional candidate in this district, has been making a thorough canvass of this district and hopes to cover the entire territory, but is handicapped by sickness in his family, so that he may not get all around. Whether you will hear from him or not, you will hear from him at his post of duty in the national congress. He is a man of force enough to make himself felt wherever he is.

Harvard Independent: In behalf of President Taft it is simply absurd of the American people, in order second thought and in the clear, wide light of what he has already accomplished "Judge this man by his record."

JUUL FOR CONGRESS

Senator Niels Juul of Chicago is the Republican candidate for representative in congress from the seventh congressional district, which comprises the townships of Barrington, Palatine, Wheeling, Elmhurst, Schaumburg, Elk Grove, Moline and Leyden, and part of the city of Chicago. He served four consecutive terms as state senator from the twenty-third district, and during this time made a record as an official, and proved that he is eminently worthy of the confidence and support of the voters.

While today many are talking progressive politics, Niels Juul's record as a senator is that of a progressive in action. He has been a really responsible for some of the recent most important state tax, reform and constructive legislation.

Regarding Mr. Juul the Northwest News says: "There is no better argument in favor of a man who is aspiring to political honors, than his past record in his political career. Senator Niels Juul, who is seeking the nomination as a member of congress from the seventh congressional district is a man who so faithfully has served as a senator for four consecutive terms, and who frankly states that 'if my record as a senator warrants your vote for me for congress, I am at your service, on this condition alone, do I seek your support.' No representative of any of our Chicago districts has been responsible for more real constructive legislation, more real reform legislation, the people than has our Senator Juul. Mr. Juul, besides being a man who attained success as a business man, is a lawyer of acknowledged ability.

A vote for Niels Juul for representative in congress is a vote for progressive Republican principles and continued prosperity.—Advertisement.

A Log on the Track of the fast express means serious trouble ahead if not removed, so does loss of appetite. It means lack of vitality, loss of strength and nerve weakness. If appetite fails, take Electric Bitters quickly to overcome the cause by toning up the stomach and curing the indigestion. Michael Heimbauer of Lincoln, Nebraska, had been sick over three years, but six bottles of Electric Bitters put him on his feet again. They have helped thousands. They give pure blood, strong nerves, good digestion. Only 50 cents at Barrington Pharmacy.

AMBITION TAKES HARLAN READ

THE MANAGER MUST UNDERSTAND LITTLE THINGS—BUT DO BIG ONES.

Organization is the big work of the modern commercial world.

The elimination of expense through machinery, departmental organization and the ability to make a single pattern produce 10,000 articles with a pattern expense for one are reducing costs and multiplying labor power.

The manager of any great enterprise must be able to select men and women and put them at work where they belong.

He cannot often do this successfully without a complete knowledge of the details of their work, but when he has assigned labor and delegated responsibility he must let the matter drop and let them do their own business.

Many an otherwise capable manager has put his business in the hands of the receiver because he was unwilling to let men and women go ahead and do what they were hired to do, and need up his day feeling around the ship ping room while big things were being neglected in the office.

And, on the other hand, the sheriff has closed up thousands of establishments because the manager spent three-quarters of his time adding columns in the cash book.

The success of the business manager depends upon his being able to do the other fellow's work—and not doing it.

To earn the confidence and trust of minor employes—if there are such things as minor employes—it is first necessary to place confidence and trust in them; and the wise manager is the one who knows how to spend his own time doing things that he cannot have others to do for him.

Polliticians are not always strictly honest. We know of one man who saved the state nearly two millions and he is the Honorable Blum—yes, Blum is the name. He is the state treasurer, and because he was so faithful and honest when he was treasury he saved a very little more by ought to be elected on November 5. Be sure and place an X in front of his name. He is in all odd and even and it is best man for the place on any ticket.—Adv.
