ABOUT THE VISITOR AND VISITED

Mrs. John Frey visited her son, Ben, at Cary Saturday.

Miss Lena Wagner returned recently to her home in Chicago after spending a week at the Edward Wiseman home.

Mrs. Anholis of Wisconsin has been a visitor at the home of her mother, Mrs. Bernard Gieske of Grove avenue, several days the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wolf moved last Friday from the Schulz home on North Hawley street to Mrs. Sen's home on South Hawley street.

Mrs. Gus Dierling of Dundee, who has been staying with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Flegley Junior, returned to her home Tuesday, but will come back to her daughter's in a few days.

Clyde Carr, a former employee of the Electric Bitter who is now operating a linotype machine at Albion, Michigan, visited friends in this village Sunday. His brother, Floyd, who is back an operator, has accepted a position at Plymouth, Wisconsin, and left from his home in Wauconda for that place Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Iverson, who have made their home at Wauwatosa, Wisconsin, expect to reside in Florida in the future. They arrived here Tuesday and Mr. Iverson departed yesterday for Tampa, Florida, near which place he has purchased a fruit farm. Mrs. Iverson is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. M. Fletcher.

Mrs. John Meyer of Station street visited with her daughter, Mrs. Frank Harrower, in Chicago several days the past week.

Miss Jennie McElroy and Hallie Lines returned Monday evening from Selby, Wisconsin, where they had visited for several days.

Professing Optimism.

A very good remedy for anybody's pessimism is being able to pay his bills.—New York Times.

Uncle Pennsylvania Says:

Waiting a green coat in the woods ain't no fun. The hunters don't seem to know that deer don't wear green coats.

Of the Wife.

Operator—"Number please?" Subscriber—"I was talking with my husband and now I don't hear him any more. You must of pushed him off de wire."—Hudson News.

Banishment Note.

A tested treatment that has been found excellent for ridding a house of beetles and cockroaches is made as follows:—Procure half a pound of Indian meal and half a pound of borax and pound them well together until they are well mixed. Place a handful on paper in convenient places where the beetles will soon find it.

No Chance to Hold a Goat-Getting.

Some time ago a Mexican stepped into a Herrington grocery store and was very wrathly when he discovered that some other Mexican had been eating the Herrington Sun. "Why don't you get his goat?" suggested the grocer. "He got no goat," replied the Mexican. "He not even got a dog."

Little Doubt About It.

Married a month, a young man told the magistrates that his wife had done the following things: "Torn up the ring, marriage-certificates, pawned the ring, married another man, she followed him to court, he added, but he managed to dodge her. The Clerk: "You took her for better or worse, and you seem to have got the worse."

Child Training.

It is not fair to a small child for the parents or nurse to be careless about the little things that develop thoughtfulness, self-reliance and self-control in a child. Self-control is a characteristic absolutely essential to manhood or womanhood, and it is not learned in a day. It is the result of patient teaching and training through all the long years of babyhood and childhood.

Two Apologies.

An American editor advertises for his missing hat: "The gentleman who inadvertently took our new beaver, and left an inferior article in its stead, will do us infinite kindness by returning ours. He shall receive our warmest thanks and two apologies—an apology for the trouble we have given him, and the 'apology for a hat' he has left us."—London Telegraph.

Improved Baby Room.

The principle of the double-bladed plane has been applied to safety razors, so that the operator shaves with two blades at the same time.

Apology.

Clubber—"How, sir, you admit that the card you have just taken out of the handkerchief is the queen of clubs, yet the card you chose and accurately tied there—namely, the ace of spades—was a new picture from this hat." "I said 'Volunteer'—So sorry—my mistake."—Punch.

Truly a Mean Man.

"That was the meanest crook I ever ran across," said the police officer in a community where graft prevails. "What has he done?" "He got me to fix up an iron-clad system of 'protection' for him and his gang, and then robbed the savings bank where I put my rake-off."

Clever Idea of Collector. Here is a rare specimen of business humor received the other day by a London firm. It ran: 'Our cashier left unconscious at his desk this morning. Up to this time, we have been unable to get a word out of him except your names. May we say to him, with a view to his immediate recovery, that we have your check, as we think that is what he has on his mind.'

AVOID AND GLAD Because Mother looked so Well After Quitting Coffee

As Ohio woman was almost distressed with coffee dyspepsia and heart trouble. Like thousands of others, the drug-coffee-in-coffee was slowly but steadily undermining her nervous system and interfering with natural digestion of food.

'For 30 years,' she writes, 'I have used coffee. Have always been sick—had heart trouble and dyspepsia with ulcers in stomach and mouth and bad, sometimes, headaches. I was distressed and could hardly eat a thing for a week.'

'I could not sleep for nervousness, and when I would doze at night I'd break up coffee and my heart would trouble me. It was like poison to me. I was thin—only weighed 125 lbs., when I had coffee and began to use Postum.'

'From the first day that I began drinking Postum, my stomach stopped. I could eat as much as anyone and, after the first month, I had lost my friends they would ask me what was making me so fat and looking so well.'

'Nowadays, before I could answer a question, one of the children or my husband would say, "Why, that's just the way you're going for!" They were all so proud of me that they...

Marjorie would have no doubt been in...

Nebraska would have been a nice place for a honeymoon, but the four hundred miles were a dreary length for the couple...

They did together as they walked along an eternal wall, but not a word was said...

'We've got to quarrel again, my dear,' Marjorie groaned to Marjorie.

A little excitement bestirred them as they realized that they were once again...

'What a pity that we left our things in the car,' Marjorie sighed. 'I don't know how I can find them.'

'About a year of my life, I guess,' Marjorie said. 'You must send him a telegram of apology and ask him to read his meter.'

'But how can I telegraph him? I don't know his name, or his number, or his company, or anything.'

'Well, he doesn't know our names either,' Marjorie said. 'And then they forgot him temporarily for the more immediate need of clothes.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name,' Marjorie said. 'I'm not going to marry you until I don't know your name.'

'The Mallorys' Mrs. Temple looked at the answer, and then she said...

'My dear, I've been married for twenty years, and I've never seen anything like this before.'

'The woman was so concerned about the matter,' Mrs. Mallory said. 'I don't know what to do.'

'I don't know what to do,' Mrs. Mallory said. 'I don't know what to do.'

'NEITHER HAYSEED NOR ANGEL' But there need be little question...

'Across the line on the Kansas side where the study of the high school girls took her monthly report...

'I don't know what to do,' Mrs. Mallory said. 'I don't know what to do.'

'I don't know what to do,' Mrs. Mallory said. 'I don't know what to do.'

Insects of the granary are much more easily kept out than put out.
 All places where grain or any of its products are stored should, above all things, be kept clean—not merely apparently clean, but actually so. Cracks in the walls and floors, for example, may seem to be clean when swept over, but may really be filled with dust of grain and similar debris and thus become a breeding place for a number of granary insects. Storage rooms and bins should, in fact, be so constructed as to be free from cracks, the walls, floor and ceiling smooth and everything solid and snug. No rubbish of any kind should be allowed to accumulate either in the building or on the adjacent premises. Everything should be done also to keep insects out of the storehouse. Grain should be brought in from the field as soon as possible, since the longer it is exposed after ripening the more likely it is to become infested by the Angoumois grain weevil, the rice-weevil and some other species. If found infested when brought in from the field, it should at once be fumigated with carbon bisulfide in a room especially constructed for the purpose in the management of mills, elevators, etc., second-hand machinery and the like should be carefully inspected or better, regularly fumigated.

The more important special measures which used alone or in combination may prevent infestation by granary pests, may be described as follows:

1. Small grain should be threshed and stored as soon after ripening as possible. Wheat should be harvested and threshed directly from the shock, if practicable, but if stacked, should not stand in the field longer than is absolutely necessary.
2. The place intended for the reception of a crop should be thoroughly cleaned out some time in advance, and if there is reason to suppose that it has contained granary pests, it should be fumigated with sulphur. Complete protection against weevils requires that rooms for grain should be made tight, with windows screened and doors close-fitting, and also that they should be cool and dry. With proper care and some additional expense, any such structure can be made gas tight and suitable for the fumigation of its contents with carbon bisulfide, but the need of thorough ventilation should not be left out of account.
3. If it were possible to dry grain from the field artificially at a temperature of 125 degrees F. for four or five hours, all insects would be killed and grain could then be stored in a thoroughly clean and tight place and safely left until needed for shipment or use. Corn which has been shelled dry and sacked is much safer than that left on the ear, whether with or without husks. Grain stored for seed should be dried artificially, since it not only keeps better and germinates more generally but it is also less liable to be eaten by such insects as devour the kernel.
4. Farmers, seedsmen and millers in buying grain should make sure that it is free from insects.

IN THESE DAYS OF DIVORCES

Really Nothing Remarkable in the Simple and Frank Explanation of the Small Boy.

We were walking down the street Sunday and we saw the most beautiful child sitting on the front steps of a pretty house, says Ted Robinson.
 His eyes were so big and blue, his curly hair so golden, his innocent smile so frank and inviting that we could not resist the temptation to enter into conversation with him.

"Well, son," we said in the idio-syncrasy of an adult usually addressing a child, "how old are you?"

"Four," lisped the infant. (He didn't really lip it, because you can't lip when you say four; but that's the way children are supposed to do.)

"Let that 'fist'!" (It would have been just as fine if he had been three, though, or five. More idiosyncrasy.) "And whose little boy are you?"

"Mamma's lit boy."

"Aren't you papa's little boy, too?"

"Nope."

"Why aren't you papa's little boy?"

"The deuce figure to mamma."

Then we went on our pleasant way.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Haslop of Wilton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had a dragging sensation across the chest that it was difficult to move.

After using 5
 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he had been afflicted and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Has-lop about this wonderful remedy.

Relation of Cattle to Population.

By HERBERT W. MUMFORD and LOUIS E. HALL,
 Professors of Animal Husbandry, University of Illinois.

The number of cattle in various countries in proportion to population is shown graphically in the diagram.
 Both beef, milk and draft cattle are represented in this diagram. It is impossible to differentiate sharply between special-purpose beef cattle and others, since milk and draft cattle are usually used ultimately as beef.

The large relative numbers of cattle in South American countries, Australia and Canada, are explained by the small population of these countries in proportion to their vast areas.
 In Denmark, on the other hand, is found a large number of cattle per capita together with a dense population, due to the systematic development of intensive dairying. The supply of cattle in the United States is greater in proportion to population than is that of most European countries in which agriculture is a leading industry. Excepting Denmark we have more than twice the number of cattle per capita found in any European country for which statistics are available. This in part explains the large export trade in beef cattle and beef and beef products, usually vegetarian, but which, in such countries, is not so common.

It has been asserted by some that as population increases more and more the investment in agriculture is gradually abandoned in order to render a larger proportion of the grain and vegetable products directly available for human food. It is also believed by many farmers that it is impossible, under normal conditions, to raise or feed cattle on land worth $100 to $200 per acre. Whether these statements are warranted may be determined in a general way by observing the number of cattle in proportion to population in various countries at different stages of their history.

Obviously a dense population and an intensive system of agriculture do not necessarily involve a decrease in the cattle-raising industry; but, on the other hand, it appears to increase.
 Only in Holland, where the cattle are chiefly of the dairy type, is a relative decrease noted, and this is so slight as to be considered insignificant. In general, the value of land increases more or less directly in proportion to the increase in population, from which it is apparent that cattle raising has not been less important in countries with high-priced land in the countries represented above.

Burned Lime Injures Soil.
 "Do you know the use of burned lime?"

The station does not advise at all the use of burnt lime, inasmuch as burnt lime has injurious effects upon the soil by burning out the organic matter present. Great quantities of ammoniacal manures are to be recommended to destroy the acidity and make conditions favorable for the growth of crops. It is not so devouring as you know.
