Telephone on Thanksgiving Day

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home!
A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there
Which, seek through the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere."

Home, home, sweet, sweet home,
There's no place like home."

Bell Long Distance Lines carry home the loving thought in the cheery tones of the absent one thus adding individuality and warmth to the holiday greeting.

BARRINGTON CENTER
Miss Myra Loomis and Mary Corbett spent Monday in Elgin.

C. A. Loomis has been hauling clover on the Ed Wing farm. During the damp weather he has been using his gasoline traction engine plowing for Mr. Wing.

August Sunderlady and sons are doing good work with their shaver and sixteen horse power gasoline engine.

The A. E. Loomis auction sale, held last Thursday, was well patronized.

Fire Set by Mirror.
A piece of mirror that had been thrown away set fire to some grass in the yard of J. B. Crow and the fire crept up and caught in his house. The mirror had been broken in moving and the glass was all taken out and dumped with a pile of tin cans, old shoes and similar junk in a low place about 70 feet from the house. One piece of the mirror was exposed so that it caught the rays of the sun—Cincinnati Enquirer.

When Sea Feeds Land.
Seaweed at one time thought valueless, is a wonderful fertilizer. Tons of it are collected in carts at low tide by the Cornish farmers and around the coast of England.

After being dried in heaps, it is spread on the land. There its nutritive properties of hydrogen and potash, in which it is very rich, are absorbed into the soil, and produce wonderful crops. New potatoes from Jersey, and spring cabbages from Cornwall, are raised with seaweed fertilizer. The sea also furnishes food for the land in other ways.

The despised starfish, in many places known as five-fingers, are eagerly sought and carried away in tons from the coast to fertilize the fields further inland. Small fish, too, useless for human food, are sold by the million as manure. Rich in phosphates, a primary element in land fertilizers, they are good for almost any kind of root crops.

Midnight Inspirations.
Many eminent men have done some of their most famous work in bed. Indeed, no small part of the world's literary treasures have been produced between the sheets by physically indolent although mentally active men of genius.

Longfellow's "Wreck of the Hesperus" came to him as he was sitting by his bedside on the night after a violent storm. He went to bed, but could not sleep; the Hesperus would not be denied, and so he lay the verses flowed on without let or hindrance until the poem was completed. Wordsworth used to go to bed after his morning walk, and while breakfasting there, dictate the lines he had composed while walking.

One at least of Rossini's operas was composed in bed—Manchester Evening News.

Snake Cleared the House.
Evicted by a snake, the occupants of a house at Bessy, Iverness, Scotland, suffered an unwelcome surprise the other day. The snake escaped from a traveling manager and found his way into the house. This so terrified the occupants that they left the building until some men killed the reptile. A mason had to dislodge two large stones in the foundations to reach the snake's hiding place.
