Sun Shines Thursday
For 1st Time in Seven Days—Three Gloomy Weeks
Barrington welcomed the sun today, fully half of the population going out for walks during the sunny hours between 2 and 4 p. m. According to statisticians, there has been no sunshine for seven days prior to this, but most persons agree that the amount of sunshine preceding those days was too small to be worth mentioning. Since January 1, the sun had been only three hours and 30 minutes out this morning.

Special Group and Trustees Meet to Plan New Project
Legion Reports 60 Men Still Unemployed; More CWA Work Asked
An additional group of people who had been added to the CWA list was submitted to the CWA board last evening by the village board last week designed to put between 20 and 30 more men to work on local public works.
