Carving of Animals Found on Rocks Give Rise to Belief that Libyan Desert Once Fertile

Carvings of animals found on rocks give rise to the belief that the Libyan desert in Africa was once a fertile region. The figures are supposed to be thousands of years old and among the representations is one thought by a professor of the University of Florence to be that of the Mauretanium bull, mentioned in the most ancient human records as even then being extinct. The peoples inhabiting that region are thought to have lived by the hunt, and that the figures carved on the rocks were part of their religious rites.

New Projects Approved in Cuba and in Barrington

Women Will Have Jobs on School, Library Renovating Soon

A CWS program (Civil Works Service) to be put into operation and women to work has been approved by the Cubans. The CWS program for Barrington township has been approved and a CWS project for the Barrington school has been approved in Chicago, to form the latest development of Civil Works employment programs in this community.

The CWS program, worked out by the Cubans in the CWS program, was approved by the township board and Mrs. E. M. Wainman will give a group of women jobs cleaning up and possibly the Barrington school and public library in Barrington township.

The CWS project approved included building up of streets in all subdivisions where it is needed, trimming of trees and binding library books and other work. Notice of approval of this work will be given to the CWS office at the village office, Thursday.

Some projects for improving the Barrington school have been approved by the school board and Superintendent E. S. Smith. But for some time these and many other approved projects throughout the country, have been held up. One of the main features of the plan is repair and extension of the boiler room and remodeling of the office. The project is to complete a total of $12,000 worth of work.

Work at the village hall is progressing rapidly. Herman Kubman, village trustee, working on the project stated, "The brick walls for the new addition are almost completed but it will require about one and one-half more days of work to finish the brick laying and then work will be started on the roof of the building. The second story floor for the addition will be started on Monday. Concrete footings for the construction work inside the hall were poured Thursday and facilities for the old wall in the building will be removed by the end of the week. For the old wall will be started in a short time."

On Tuesday of next week the men will start to knock out part of the east wall of the building where two doors must be put in for use by the village fire trucks which are to be housed by the remodeling. The work on the present plans. The new planing at the disposal plant has been completed and it is planned to have more landscaping done at the plant if it can be worked in.
