LA NEW PARTY

Under the heading "Enter: The Constitution Party," David Lawrence, editor of the non-partisan United States News suggests a new two party line-up of political faith in the country.

His idea, briefly, a constitution-democratic party and a socialist-democratic party, would include one party of middle class citizens who want their country to remain under the old constitutional law; with strong state and local community rights and limited federal control, and opposed to it a second party of citizens believing in an increased central control of government in harmony with the practices of the present socialist administration.

It would involve a breaking up of the democratic party into two units and a complete liquidation of the old republican party. Mr. Lawrence believes the republican party has been a mis-fit alignment of metropolitan East and agricultural Middle West since the war and also since that time has been slowly dying. He points out that because neither side could, by breaking loose from the other, align itself with the traditionally anti-republican South, the chances for the G.O.P. to revive as the major political organization are decidedly remote.

Under the definite course of President Roosevelt, the democratic party is itself beginning to show signs of crumbling. Mr. Lawrence states:

"For when the country wishes to register its protests against some of the injustices that come out of the 'new deal, especially the hardships which may befall the working classes and the small business men as a consequence of our unrestrained spending, and unsound currency policies, there must be some day another democratic leadership—not a republican dynasty—to take over the task of steering the nation out of chaotic inflation and worthless paper money."

"Oddly enough the issues point naturally to the re-birth of a Jeffersonian party. The Roosevelt group has put on the statute books a series of laws which while acceptable as temporary measures are now to be made permanent at the request of the president himself, and in these measures we see the vanishing of the states absorbed by the federal bureaucracy."

"From a popular standpoint, the constitution democratic party would have the support of vast numbers of people who believe that individual initiative should not be squelched, who recognize federal bureaucracy as the precursor of a disintegrating republic and who wish to see the American dollar returned to a basis on which the government will pledge a metallic reserve in redemption of its paper money."

"Such a party, I have outlined should be financed not by the capitals of industry or finance but by the five-dollar contributions of small business men and property owners throughout the country, the people who own their own homes, the masses who toil with their hands and the millions of persons, like school teachers, state and city employees and the personnel of public institutions of various kinds whose fixed incomes soon will become woefully inadequate to meet living costs at the price level ascends. And above all it should appeal to the farmers of America whose right to till their soil is about to be taken from them in a program of government coercion."

TOO MANY LAWSUITS

Except for one lavish type of expenditure which has taken many thousands of dollars of tax money, Barrington has not been burdened with an expensive village government.

The cost of operating the police department, water department, street lights, library, fire department, etc., has been comparatively low for several years.

But the cost of keeping the village prominently represented in court has been unduly expensive. Many thousands of dollars in court fees and attorneys fees have been charged against the village which, in three years has been engaged in no less than ten major law suits.

This is no condemnation of any single attorney or group of attorneys. However, we believe this excessive lawyer expense can be eliminated from future budgets of the village by a wise and conservative administration of affairs by the village trustees.

THE "HIGH SPOT" OF 1933

During the period from June to August the United States as a whole had the best business spurt in the past two years.

What caused it? Prices of wheat and other farm products were advancing sharply.

When did the improvement begin to taper off? Almost immediately following the resumption of the downturn in farm prices.

What does the United States need for business recovery? Prices for farm products that mean profits for the farmers.—Journal, Decatur, Iowa.

No man can tell what the future may bring forth, and small opportunities are often the beginning of great enterprises.

Bring down taxes, adapt them to the ability of the business and the individual to pay—and watch recovery go into high gear.

WHAT this river after rushing tempestuously for fourteen miles, empties into a lake that has no known outlet. Yet a mile below the river suddenly reappears as a trickle of water that soon grows into a river again. This river is known as the Maligne. It is located in Jasper National Park, Alberta, and it provides what experts have described as the finest spotted trout fishing in North America.

Then plan with her. Don't be satisfied until you can answer these questions: Why is the child falling behind? What must be done first to make up the falling? How much more work can you see a way clear for him to accomplish? Can you make a schedule of work that will enable the child to complete his work within the time and allow him some time for review and reorganization?

Check Up Now

Check up on your school child's work. Study his latest report card. If there are signs that he is failing in a subject, if any of his marks are falling off, look into the matter at once. Talk first to the child and remember that your attitude on this is of first importance.

If you take the tone that the child has neglected his work and disgraced himself you won't get very far. Go to the child gently. Ask him where he thinks the trouble is and when he says, "Ah, she never gives me a chance," don't tie up on him and end the conference in a tense situation. Listen. Keep on listening. Let him say all he has to say about his work and question him further. By and by he will begin to disclose something of his difficulty and that is what you need.

After you have talked to the boy go to the teacher. Once more you must go about your task tactfully and in the spirit of helpfulness. The teacher is your partner, your working partner, and unless she is with you strongly you are not going to succeed. Tell the teacher you want to do all you can to keep the child progressing steadily and ask her what you can do.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

The Roosevelt administration had two major worries on its hands during the past week—protests against the cancellation of the air mail contracts and appeals for continuance of the CWA. As it has done in all previous cases where strong opposition to its announced policies has developed, the administration remained steadfast in its course. It was unyielding in its determination to have the air carry the air mail until some arrangement can be worked out for getting the work done by private contract and to wind up the activities of the CWA by May 1.

Under study now by a committee of cabinet members is a plan for ordering the development of the resources of the United States that carries with it the deep interest of President Roosevelt. He is firmly convinced that an ambitious nation plan, carefully followed over several years, can make of the United States a much better place in which to live.

St. Paul Five

Defeats Salem in Playoff 23 to 14 for Cage Honors

Methodist Beats Baptists 28-22 in Preliminary Game Monday Night

St. Paul won the Barrington cage league championship by defeating Salem 23 to 14 in a playoff game last Monday night. A playoff was necessary to decide the championship as the two teams tied for first place at the end of the regular schedule. A near-capacity crowd of 500 persons jammed the local gym to watch the two quartets fight for the coveted trophy which is to be awarded to the team that wins the second game. The game was close during the first half, the score being tied 6 all at the intermission. But St. Paul, led by Wilhelm, who tipped in points, was easily the best team in the second half. St. Paul played a cool, self-controlled, aggressive game. Salem seemed disorganized and especially after Bill Grabber and Gieske went out on fouls. Wilhelm and Wolf were the stars for St. Paul. Wilhelm scored 17 of their team's 23 points. Bill Grabber scored a hat-trick game for Salem before going out on fouls.

Methodists Win
In a preliminary game with nothing at stake, the Methodists beat the Baptists 28 to 22. The losers led 10-9 at the half but Allen Johnson's points in the second half spelled defeat for the Baptists.
The league has decided to hold a tournament which will start on Monday night, Feb. 26. St. Paul and the Baptists will open activities at 7:45 p. m., and the Methodists and Salem will clash in the second game. The cage league championship trophy will be presented to St. Paul between games Monday night.
