

Several Cases of Serious Illness Reported Locally

Several Barrington residents have been seriously ill during recent weeks. Mrs. Henry Hobbs, 400 Grove avenue, has been under special care for four weeks. Her condition has not been any worse during the past few days. She is in an Elgin hospital.

Charles Knauer, W. Northwest highway, who has been ill for nearly five months, was in a critical condition on two occasions during the last week. It was necessary to use an oxygen inhalator in his case. Mr. Knauer has been suffering from after-effects of pneumonia.

T. E. "Doc" Davis, 90 Linden avenue, is recovering from an attack of pneumonia. He was on a business trip to Louisville, Ky., when he became ill last Saturday. On Thursday of this week he was reported to be getting along satisfactorily. Mr. Davis is in the legal department of Jewel Tea Co., Inc.

W. R. Winteringham of Dundee has almost recovered from his recent attack of pneumonia and will soon be back at The Review office in Barrington.

J. A. McLeister, 627 Grove avenue, has been in poor health for several weeks. Mr. McLeister was confined to his bed for several days but has been in active charge of the care for the last week.

Representatives of Jewel Tea Employees Hold Meeting Here

A four day conference of members of the national council of employees' representatives of Jewel Tea Co. ended Thursday afternoon of last week.

The representatives were from Camden, N. J., Youngstown and Toledo, O., Danville, Ill., Jacksonville, Fla., Madison, Wis., Pasadena, Calif., Wichita, Kan., Sioux City, Ia., and Chicago.

Business sessions lasted for three days. On Sunday the representatives attended the Cubs-Giants game in Chicago and went on a sight-seeing trip through the fair grounds. During the last half day of their visit, the men were shown through the Jewel plant.

Local Men Arrested for Failure to Buy Motor Vehicle Taxes

Three local men were arrested during the last week and other arrests will be made within the next week on charges of failure to take out vehicle licenses for passenger motor cars. Ed Bauer was arrested, pleaded guilty, and paid a fine of $1 plus costs for driving without a local license. Tony Taylor and William Cuddy were given tickets to appear in court on the same charge. The number of automobiles owners who have purchased tags is greatly in excess of the number who purchased tags prior to May 21st last year. To date there are 110 truck owners and 748 owners of passenger cars and 748 owners of passenger cars have purchased tags. During the same period of time there are 74 owners of trucks and 556 owners of passenger cars had purchased tags. During the entire year 1933, 856 vehicle tags were sold to owners of passenger cars.

In addition to the motor vehicle tags sold, two owners of horses and four owners of motorcycles have taken out licenses.

Shellfish Yield Pearls; Usually in Pearl Oyster

Pearls are found in shells of various kinds, but usually in the pearl oyster. Oyster shells are lined with a smooth coating of mother pearl, or nacre. Layer by layer the oyster builds it up. When a foreign substance enters the oyster's tissue, the irritation stops the deposition of nacre, or perhaps several coats, so that it can do him legal damage. Collecting bags of pearl are taken from the oyster to be used as Jewels.

Of all the pearl fisheries, those near Cayuga are the greatest. Diving for pearls is a regular business, employing a great many workers. Each oyster boat usually has five divers. The divers are equipped with a smooth coating of mother pearl, or nacre. Layer by layer the oyster builds it up. When a foreign substance enters the oyster's tissue, the irritation stops the deposition of nacre, or perhaps several coats, so that it can do him legal damage. Collecting bags of pearl are taken from the oyster to be used as Jewels.

The dangers of such an occupation are not trivial. Sometimes the men are stung by jellyfish. Again they may stay down too long, overestimating their ability to go without breath, will be brought up dead.

A pearl diver's pay consists of one-third of the oysters he brings up. This he may hunt through them for the pearls and sell the pearls, make his wages. The day's catch on an oyster boat is taken to a rotting ground where the oysters lie in piles and are allowed to decay before the pearls are picked out.

The pearls that are gathered near Cayuga are of various shapes. They are sorted by being sifted through holes in little pans that look like ash trays.

Stainless Steel Rings Developed To Boom

Girls who caused the discovery of the secret of making stainless steel pliable started a trade boom in Sheffield, England. More than a thousand of pounds were spent trying to make stainless steel into ash trays, saucepans, window frames, ink stands, pen trays and a thousand and one domestic articles.

Every attempt failed because the workers could not get the secret of making the steel pliable and at the same time retain its stainless and rustless qualities.

One day a young stainless steel worker conceived the idea of making a steel ring for his girl. When finished, he looked like platinum.

Other girls saw the ring and demanded similar ones, and their boys had to work overtime to make rings. The secret of manipulating the steel was told to the owner of the firm, who carried out his own experiments.

From rings developed beer vats, doorsteps, steamship fittings, milk carriers, water taps and other domestic necessities.

Autumn Leaves Catch Light Rays

Autumn is not a time of death and sadness in the forest, observes a writer in the New York World-Telegram. The things that make a woodland walk melancholy in the fall to many sensitive folk do not lie in the yellow sunlight, garish foliage, sweet peacefulness of oil pastures clothed in hay-scented fern and bull thistles; in falling pale-gold leaves of tulip, birch and sassafras. They lie deep in the mysterious depths of the human heart, that storehouse of subconscious memories of glaciers grinding outside Neanderthal caves; of vestiges of emotions aroused in our superstitious neolithic ancestors by the approach of bitter cold, starvation and the terror of primitive vintners. It is the signal of the subconscious.

Leaves Catch Light Rays

The reason some trees grow to shade while others will die unless exposed to the direct rays of the sun is revealed by experts of the New York state college of forestry, Syracuse university, who point out that shade enduring trees, such as the hemlock, have a great many more leaves than light-loving trees like the pine. All trees need light, but the shade-enduring tree respires less compatibly of such leaf than others, making up the loss by putting out more leaves, each of which acts as a fly trap to catch the rays which filter through the taller trees of the forest.—Littlerary Digest.

Sound is usually defined as the sensation caused by stimulation of the auditory nerves and, according to this definition, there would be no sound unless there was an ear present to receive the sound vibrations. However, in physics sound is defined as the energy which occasions the sensation of hearing. Then, in a physical sense, sound would be present wherever there were sound waves regardless of whether it was actually heard or not.

Sacred Water of India Amritsar, India, owes its foundation to the sanctity which attaches to the site. According to Hindu mythology, it was there that Rama's army was restored to life after its destruction by his sons. In Gur Ram Das' days a cripple bathed, after being a crowd change from a jet black hue to the whiteness of a swan merely by dipping his wings in the magic waters, and was trapped into a vigorous man.
