

Lake Zurich Wins Baseball Game by Track Meet Score

Lake Zurich Pirates chalked up the second league victory Sunday afternoon when they easily defeated Arlington Heights 23 to 1, on the local diamond. Arlington's pitchers proved ineffective against the slugging Pirates, who made twenty-three hits, six of them for extra bases.

The game played Decoration Day on the home lot was won by Lake Zurich 12-1 from Wheeling. Frank and Meyer were the batteries for Lake Zurich and Ward and Elbers for the visitors.

The Emancipation Proclamation closing words of the emancipation proclamation were written by Samuel P. Chase of Cincinnati. At his suggestion, Lincoln added the following: "and upon the act, sincerely believed to be an act of justice warranted by the Constitution upon ample grounds, I invoke the consideration and judgment of all mankind, and the gracious favor of Almighty God."

Early Prima Donnas According to John Tasker Howard's book, "Our American Music," there had been nothing in American history to compare with the furor that Jenny Lind created in the 1850s and first concert given at Castle Garden, New York City, on September 11, 1850. There were other famous singers, Maria Serravallo, daughter of the Emperor Garcia who gave New York its first taste of Italian opera, had been in this country with her father in 1825 and had stayed two years when she died of cholera. Earlier even Henriette Sonntag had made a great success in opera and a sensation in concert. She was in America when Longfellow was here, and she went to Mexico City in 1854, where she died of cholera. Cary Boy R From Pool Guards

Youth Is Seized With Cramps at Deep End of Pool Elmer Rund, 12, Responds to Treatment; Unconscious Many Hours

A drowning at North Park swimming pool was averted Wednesday by effective life saving work and first aid treatment administered to Elmer Rund, 12 year old Cary school boy, who was seized with cramps and sank to the bottom of the pool in nine feet of water. The accident occurred at 2 p. m. while nearly 60 boys and girls of the Cary school were swimming in the pool. The boy had eaten nine sandwiches for lunch shortly before he went in swimming. He was pulling himself along the side wall of the pool when it was believed he was seized with cramps, let go of the side and sank without being able to call for help. Some of the children missed him and called the life guards who found him lying on the bottom of the pool. Dick Drover brought him to the surface and with the aid of James Palmburg, hoisted him out of the water. The guards applied first aid treatment to the unconscious lad while a doctor and Roy Williams, along with his resuscitator and inhalator were called. The resuscitator was applied for a few seconds and then the oxygen inhalator was used until natural respiration was restored. The boy was taken to the Barrington General hospital and kept there until Thursday afternoon. He was unconscious most of the night but regained partial consciousness Thursday. He was still unable to recall details of the accident after Thursday afternoon or to tell whether he had been seized with cramps or had become exhausted while holding to the side of the pool.

The first aid treatment administered by the life guards immediately after the boy was removed from the pool was to great extent responsible for the successful results, according to Dr. B. P. Greber, who was called to the pool. The subsequent treatment with the resuscitator and inhalator were also essential. While Cary school children were holding an annual picnic at North Park Wednesday as one of the activities connected with the end of the school year, Elmer Rund is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rund of Cary.

Fewer Books, More Readers Is Problem for Many Libraries

The rate of increase in the use of public libraries in Illinois has been four times as great as that of population increase during the last ten years, according to a report received from the Illinois library extension division, made public today by Violet W. Burdige, local librarian. While the demand for books has been mounting steadily until last year, expenditures for books have been drastically reduced since circulating roughly 45 per cent of the 21,000,000 books borrowed during the year, the Chicago public library, a book by E. L. Duffus entitled "Starving Libraries." The number of books borrowed from this library is dropping at the rate of 100,000 volumes a month, and 46 per cent of its reference questions go unanswered, according to Carl E. Boden, librarian. Relative to the Barrington Public Library, statistics show that in 1923 circulation in the month of May, 1923, was 2161. In 1934, it was 1240. This decided drop is due to the lack of funds to purchase new books and to the employment of so many people. The critical condition of many libraries in the state, has been
