BILL OF RIGHTS OR —?

A warning of a dangerous encroachment on the liberties guaranteed every citizen in this country in the cherished Bill of Rights of the constitution was sounded by Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, in an address delivered at a special meeting of the California Newspaper Publishers' association recently.

"From the day the National Industrial Recovery act was signed by President Roosevelt to the present hour, General Johnson has been fighting to control the press and substitute NRA-made opinion for public opinion," he charged.

At the outset of his talk, Dean Ackerman, who was an active newspaperman for more than twenty years before assuming his present post, stated that his remarks were to be in direct reply to utterances made by the national recovery administrator in an address recently delivered in Chicago.

Asserting that in his Chicago talk General Johnson made statements which are historically and factually incorrect and which clearly reveal his intention to substitute government-made opinion for public opinion, Dean Ackerman warned that "freedom of opinion has become as important an issue today as the freedom of the press was one year ago, and every citizen who cherishes his liberties must decide between the Bill of Rights and government by executive order, the twin brother of martial law."

Dean Ackerman stated it as axiomatic that public opinion must not be servile to government, but General Johnson is opposed to that principle, he said, adding: "He has opposed it ever since he became national recovery administrator and his latest address is a direct challenge to the press to lead the fight for freedom of opinion."

Recalling how the first draft of the NRA newspaper code contained a provision for the licensing of the press, Dean Ackerman said that General Johnson had expected by this means to "control the press and suppress public opinion, but the fight of the newspaper publishers of the United States for the freedom of the press in the daily newspaper code outside the law of its opportunity to establish a dictatorship by law."

SERVICE CLUBS

The Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and similar organizations exert a powerful influence in erecting those standards of citizenship which guarantee to every man the opportunity to develop his God given talents in accordance with his ability and resourcefulness. Their creeds are simple and constructive, containing no platitudinous generalities, but embodying the plain objective of serving, building and spreading the gospel of the underlying principles of American independence—the pursuit of happiness. The materials with which they build are not limited to any particular line of endeavor, but are as varied as circumstance, place and time suggest opportunities for concrete and constructive effort for the common good.

A great cardinal principle of these clubs, in maintaining their service to humanity, is a belief in the fundamental fact that behind every finished product there must be the human heart, the human mind and the human hand, and that only in so far as these human agencies are trained and developed, given breadth of vision and courage, can any worth while building be accomplished. Their record of achievement is open for all the world to see, and it is abounding in the high purpose of upbuilding human character, relief of suffering humanity and a constructive attitude toward every worthy problem, local, state and national. At the recent Florida district Lions convention in Miami a well merited tribute was paid to these service clubs for the beneficent work they have accomplished by Fred H. Davis, chief justice of the supreme court of Florida, who said: "Service clubs, such as the Lions, Kiwanis, and Rotary have prospered and grown great in America, because they have evidenced the scope of human relationships, fostered good will. We've left us no opportunity for the spread of hatred in this country and I feel the chief responsibility for this happy condition may be laid to the service clubs of the nation."—Topic, Mount Dora, Fla.

EDITORIAL SHORTS

Presumably President Roosevelt took himself away for a nice rest and vacation. But the truth is, according to the best informed sources that he had some serious thinking to do and there was no better place to do it than aboard a battleship where no one dared to disturb him. That was the reason not even his secretaries, who are long-standing friends, went along. Rudolph Forster, chief clerk of the white house for years and years, can go for days without speaking unless spoken to, and enjoy it.

Here's the world's biggest gambler, the American farmer! He gambles with the weather, with the soil, with grasshoppers, with army worms, with grubs, and a score of other offshoots of the plagues of ancient Egypt. Every spring he takes a chance—a desperate chance. If he wins, as he does occasionally, he comes off with a big stake; if he loses, which he does more frequently, he has a chance to try again. Happily, he is a good loser, else the world would starve.—Gazette, Mitchell, S. D.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

(Courtesy The United States News)

President Roosevelt, confronted with many pressing problems, has in a full and busy week at his desk in the white house. Most of his time was devoted to conferences with his advisers, examining himself with what has been going on in the many government departments and agencies during his six weeks' absence from the capitol. Few decisions were announced; none of any of the major problems which have been laid on the president's doorstep.

Much attention was devoted by the president to the problem presented by the NRA. That organization has completed its work of code making and its task now is entirely one of administration. Several plans have been laid before the president providing for a change in the set-up in the NRA organization so as to provide more efficient administration and a greater measure of compliance with the codes. Some of these plans involve an entire change in policy. Discussion of these plans were continued for several days and were given a prominent place on the program of the executive council at a meeting scheduled to be held early this week.

Demands from business for government financial aid—even for the federal deficit loans to industry—have slackened so much that Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the reconstruction finance corporation, says conditions are trending upward. Others say that particularly where the new direct loans to industry are concerned, it is rigid government requirements rather than better times which is keeping down the loans. Less than 12 per cent of the $580,000,000 which congress appropriated for direct loans to industry has been put in use two months after the appropriation was made.

In the meantime the NRA has become the storm center of criticism both from inside and outside the government. From within complaints are being made by labor and industry that the NRA is not using its power to see that provisions of the codes are complied with. From within the national labor relations board complaints come that NRA is not operating in its efforts to enforce

The Untruthful Ones

Little children have some difficulty keeping fact and fantasy apart. To them they are very close. They look about alike to the eyes of childhood because their eyes have not functioned in the world of reality. It is not hard to know that sort of untruth and to set it right. The difficult part is that which appears to be rather continuous to appear on through adolescence.

When an adolescent tells you any kind of a story to lead you in a direction that renders him safe, when he lies to you in cold deliberation, you have the right to give him no attention. First, try to find what the lies are for. What does he want to do? That he knows he should not, or perhaps that he cannot do, or perhaps that he is trying to get away from and what is he trying to get to? If you can get to the bottom of that you may be able to do something for him, or her.

Many times these adolescent children are in the grip of sex urges that they know nothing about. The little instructions they have received is not enough to carry them through the terrific onslaught of feeling, sensation, what they know as love, and they beset them. In their endeavor to maintain themselves in any degree of comfort they make mistakes that lead out of them as they are because they are afraid to tell the truth. There is no use in telling them to tell you the truth and you will blame them. They are ashamed, afraid, articulate.

When you find yourself in such a fix as this, you must go to the specialist. Find the one who knows adolescent children. Try to find a specialist who is serving in a hospital or clinic where such young persons are treated. Tell him or her the story and put your afflicted child under treatment. Lies are indications of a ected in a slackening in both emergency expenditures and the grand total of all expenditures. During the week the government spent on all activities only $99,000,000. Previous weeks have seen the total over the $100,000,000 mark. Almost all the decline in weekly spending was due to the shift of emergency money for relief. Ordinary expenses continued last week, as in the week before, to run a shade over normal. Total net emergency expenditures for the week were $55,000,000. Of this sum the largest single lump was $24,000,000 paid out by the Public Works Administration. The PWPA had been averaging about this total week by week.

Survey Under Way to Determine Extent of Drouth Relief Needs
Steps to obtain immediate help necessary for nine drouth affected northern counties comprising the main Illinois dairy section have been taken at the request of Governor Henry Horner by Walter W. McLaughlin, director of the state department of agriculture, who yesterday issued a preliminary to a comprehensive survey of state and federal agencies to consider the problem.

The survey is being made by Will DuParc, Ed. Kane, DeKalb, Boone, McHenry, Winnebago and Cook counties to determine whether that area should receive primary drouth relief rather than secondary, as now classified. Primary classification would obtain for dairymen of the section being surveyed immediate loans from the Federal Farm Credit Administration for the feeding and care of cattle because of the feed shortage. Pike, Brown, and Adams county dairymen were placed under the primary classification, Mr. McLaughlin announced.

Pounce on Storm for Victory Over Elgin Parksidies

Rudy Berg Has Perfect Day at Bat: Two Games With Gary Sundry

Let by Gussie Altenberg who pounced on a homer with the bases loaded in the first inning, the boys won the deciding game of the state game series from the Elgin Parksidies Sunday, by a 6-3 score. Gussie Altenberg, the home diamond local slugger, "pounced" their way to ample revenge and their second win over the storm. Parkside hurler who had them out earlier in the season.

Gussie Altenberg who was on the mound for the Bears, really won his own game in the initial game with his home run clout that counted four runs. Gussie was pitched for 11 hits but he kept them out. Three of the Elgin runs were traceable to local error.

Elgin Threatens in Eighth
The Parksidies threatened in the eighth when they scored three runs to come within one run of the Bears. The tying run was on third but the next batter was out on a muffed play to end the uprising. Gussie refuted the side effect in the ninth. Rudy Berg was tops at the plate with a perfect hit at bat. He walked one and hit three singles.

The Bears will treat the fans to a double header, their second of the season Sunday, when they play Elgin in a pair of games at the local ballpark. Charlie and Gussie, two of the versatile Altenberg clan, will probably draw the pitching assignment for the Bears.

Deeply weakened lineup of the Bears regulars, Kasch, Wichman and George on the sidelines, K. Berg has been playing fine ball ball, winning consistently. Andy Djanis, prominent Cary catcher and former Barrington player, will umpire.
