

Club Speaker Urges Emotional Training for Young People

C. Christensen Says Youth Needs Religion for Stability

"The tendency now is to educate for mediocrity, not greatness," Carl A. Christensen, lecturer of the told members and guests of the Barrington Woman's club at its meeting in the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon.

He declared that there should be a line of training for statesmanship, training in emotional stability, less emphasis on intellectual success, a background of religion so that youth may meet its difficulties wholesomely. "Too often we destroy the vision and idealism of youth," he said.

Those qualities, hand in hand with the wisdom and maturity of old age could effect progress in political, economic and social life, he pointed out.

Unemployment, inability to marry because of financial insecurity, lack of religious influence and inadequate emotional training were listed by the speaker as reasons for the bitterness of many young people today.

Mr. Christensen touched upon work of the American Youth Congress, then cited instances of youth's contribution to government today, the result of "youth's ability to see the impossible as possible," thus effecting reforms in political spheres.

In conclusion, he appealed to women to take pride in their status as home makers "since youth today needs motherhood. We need women in government, business and professions, but most of all, we need mothers," he said.

"Now we reverence women with jobs but what we need is to reverence women who fulfill their unique destiny which is spiritual as well as physical motherhood."

The first half of the program consisted of delightful music by that talented Barrington couple, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Chapek II with Mr. Chapek's mother playing piano accompaniment for their whistling and violin numbers.

Mrs. Chapek whistled a variety of selections and Mr. Chapek played violin compositions of his own and of his father's as well as to several others. For his last solo, his wife accompanied him at the piano.

H. J. Lageschulte, 78 Sunday, Has Seen Community Grow From Handful of Houses

"All the stores are going to close March 14 on Henry Lageschulte's 78th birthday," the word was passed around a little more than 25 years ago.

"Henry is a good fellow, and I'd like to attend a celebration in his honor, but I can not afford to close up for a whole day," one local merchant objected.

"My customers won't like it. It may be we had better close an hour or two earlier than usual so his feelings won't be hurt, unless his birthday is on a busy day of the week like Saturday. By the way, what day is his birthday?"

There was a scramble for a calendar. This small group of business men had been told by H. J. Lageschulte, himself, one of the proprietors of Lageschulte and Hager, Inc., that the stores in town were going to close up on March 14, his 78th birthday. They looked for a calendar.

Mr. Lageschulte was right. They were going to close on his birthday—the day would be Sunday.

"That was 25 years ago. This year Mr. Lageschulte's birthday again fell on Sunday. He observed it quietly visiting with relatives and friends, and could not resist the temptation to have a party on local merchants 25 years earlier."

Mr. Lageschulte has had some interesting experiences in this town.

Three stores were located on the site of the Bank Tavern, the First National Bank and part of the National Tea Co. Will Howarth had the store where the Cottons Tea is located. One meat market in town was conducted by Mr. Jackson in the basement of his house on North Main.

"The Country is Lost" was the way a neighbor woman excitedly described the scene of the assassination. That statement and the general excitement which followed the tragedy made a deep impression on the youth of six years.

History reports that the statement expressed the feeling of many Northerners at the time.

Henry J. Lageschulte grew up in Barrington, lived here all his life, and has been an important figure in the business, religious and social life of the community. He married Miss Sophia Gellerman of Berlin. Her death occurred in 1930.

To Let Contract on Route 59 in April

Awarding of contract for route 59 is expected to be completed by the end of the month. The contract will come up in the April letting of contracts by the state highway department, H. D. Kelsor, supervisor of the town of Cuba, stated this week.

The roadway was graded and objectives installed last year. The job was halted during the winter to allow the deep freeze sufficient time to settle properly. When completed, the strip becomes part of the road that connects the middle center part of the state with the Grand Lake area.

School Holidays Classes of the public school will be dismissed Friday afternoon when the teachers attend a convention at New Trier high school in Winnetka. Easter holidays will be Good Friday and Easter Monday.

Woman's Club Votes Against Packing of Court Forty to Six

With a vote of 49 to 6, members of the Barrington Women's club expressed their disapproval of President Roosevelt's proposal to pack the supreme court, at the regular club meeting held in the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon.

Of this number, 36 were against retirement of supreme court judges of any specific age and 9 expressed themselves as being in favor of voluntary retirement by the judges.

Votes were cast at a short business session preceding the regular program upon request of the club president, Mrs. Lester Higgins, who read a message from the national federation president, stating that a national poll was being taken relative to the proposal to give the president power to add justices of his own choosing to the supreme court of the U. S.

In connection with the ballot, local club members were asked also to express their preference for a club luncheon in spring or fall, rather than in fall as in previous years: 14 in favor of a fall luncheon; 1 for reciprocity day every year; 14 for every two years; 5 for every 3 years; 2 for every 4 years.

Award Contract of $12,361 on School Project This Week

Contracts for heating, plumbing, ventilation and sewerage were awarded by the public school board by Nilson Brothers, 5320 Broadway, Chicago, receiving the jobs at a total price of $12,361.

The awarding of contracts came after original bids were opened and found too high for the financing program of the board. Items were removed from the bids and again sent out to the bidding firms, and the specifications first combined heating and ventilating in one bid and plumbing and sewerage in the second.

Nilson Brothers had entered bids on both and after re-letting, the lowest bid was $12,361. A composite of the first two low bids was $22,942, or a reduction in the final letting of $10,581 for items omitted.

In removing some items from the bids, the board decided to do the roughing-in work necessary on all floors. Finished plumbing for toilets on the first and third floors is to be installed. Laboratories were omitted from all except three rooms and heating units were also left out of 12 rooms.

When it is possible, the remaining work for completing the rooms will be done. As they are needed, the board contemplates doing the other rooms. At present the first and third floors are receiving the majority of work.

Awarding of contract for electrical work will be done sometime this week, Superintendent E. S. Hill stated. The bid were opened at a meeting this week.

Threaten to Close Alley; Order Fence Built for Safety

The street committee of the Barrington village board was instructed Monday night to prepare plans for placing a fence along the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks in the alley between Cook and Hough streets.

The safety council of the railroad had reported that the company was unwilling to guarantee the advisability of closing of the alley entirely, due to the safety hazard caused by cars and trucks going up too close to the rails in turning in and out.

The company agreed not to close off the alley if a guard fence is placed eight feet from the rails. The street committee was in conference Tuesday with the property owners who have agreed to furnish the materials with the village street crew doing the labor.

Fence is to be sunk at intervals and capped with guard rail on top. When completed, the fence will be painted.
