NO MORE 'TVA'S'?

Recent reports from Washington observers are that the bill to create seven more regional federal hydro-electric projects of the TVA order will probably not come to a vote this session.

If these reports are correct, the congress of the United States is to be congratulated. Few bills introduced in recent years have less economic or social justification, or could do more potential harm to industry, taxpayers and all our citizens.

The current attack on the private utility industry is as unreasonable as it is vindictive. For a third of a century, power rates have steadily declined, and today the average family's electric bill is less than its tobacco bill.

A joint committee report last week prescribing methods for plugging loopholes to fill income tax evaders and evaders proposed consideration on subject of legislation on this subject, demanded by the president in a special message two months ago.

WHEN 111,000 AMERICANS DIED

A generation has passed since the sinking of the Titanic, yet that great disaster is still well remembered. Fifteen hundred persons died.

The Johnstown flood will never be forgotten—the world was aghast when the death toll of 2209 was tabulated.

The World War was the most sanguinary conflict in history. In it, 50,000 Americans lost their lives, and they are still mourned.

The recent Texas school explosion, which killed 294 children, brought universal sympathy and horror.

Yet last year 111,000 Americans met accidental death—more than twice as many as were killed in the great war—and it caused hardly a ripple in the flow of news.

Among men, heart disease is the only thing which kills more men than accidents. Such plagues as cancer, tuberculosis, pneumonia—plagues which are being fought by all the resources of science—are down the list.

Practically every accident is preventable—and this is especially true of the motor car, greatest of all the great killers. Care, competence, courtesy—these make up the accident prevention triumvirate. It's up to you—to all of us.

LAW OF DIMINISHING RETURNS

The old fallacy of "soaking the rich" to finance government activities is nowhere more thoroughly exploded than in the record of the surtax of incomes for the years 1916 to 1929 inclusive, when surtax rates on incomes rose from 15 to 65 per cent.

Today the peak surtax rate is 75 per cent, and "surprise" is voiced by government officials at the "disappointing" results of income tax returns.

Some day public officials will realize that there is one "law" that cannot be repealed or legislated out of existence; the law of diminishing returns.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN WASHINGTON

(Courtesy The United States News)

Before it is off with the old session, congress talks of getting on with the farm problem, seemingly dormant for several months, was knocking again last week at the lawmakers' doors on capitol hill.

With cotton prices falling, southern solons sought renewal of 12 cent cotton loans. President Roosevelt met them with firm refusal unless general crop controls, such as were provided under the invalidated AAA, are revived to check overproduction that drives prices down.

With no such legislative in shape for immediate action, agitation for a special session in October to pass it began. Forty senators added their signatures to a petition for such a session.

Meanwhile as legislative wheels turned subterranean, grinding away at major bills on the white house's "preferred list," adjournment date for the present regular congress session slipped uncertainly onward toward September.

Definite legislative progress was made, however. The senate, after insisting upon sundry restrictive amendments, passed and sent to the house the $700,000,000 Wagner-Steagall housing bill, to deal with the slum clearance problem.

A joint committee report last week prescribing methods for plugging loopholes to fill income tax evaders and evaders proposed consideration on subject of legislation on this subject, demanded by the president in a special message two months ago.

With leaders hoping to avoid a recurrence of controversy such as was roused by the supreme court enlargement bill, the senate, as the week ended, took up the effect procedural reforms in the interior federal courts.

Attorney General Cummings reported to Mr. Roosevelt, in response to executive request for a formal opinion, that the president can legally make such an appointment any time he chooses, regardless of whether the senate is in session to ratify it.

But Senator Vandenberg (Rep.) of Michigan, challenged the propriety of a recess appointment by introducing a resolution seeking to put the senate on record against an appointment being his place on the supreme bench without having first obtained senatorial confirmation. Presidential supporters argued that the Vandenberg resolution was an attempted infringement of executive prerogatives, and it was not brought to a vote.

Meanwhile Senator Borah (Rep.) of Idaho, raised the contention that no vacancy on the court exists for the president to fill, because under a retirement law recently passed by congress Justice Van De Venter "retired" and did not "resign," and hence, if he chooses, can return at any time to serve again on the bench.

Across the Pacific last week continued to be focused anxious attention of the state department on the Sino-Japanese imbroglio. Continuing officially not to recognize the situation as a state of war, which would require application of the 1937 neutrality act by presidential proclamation, with practical discriminatory consequences against China, the department kept close tabs on developments.

In the senate there was demand by Senator Lewis (Dem) of Illinois, for withdrawal of American troops now stationed in China, lest chance clashes with Japanese soldiers might lead to embarrassing incident likely to entangle the United States in the troubles of the Orient.

Toward economic disarmament, booming in China and in Spain, the navy department moved further this month, announcing that authorization for building two more battleships and two more cruisers will be sought next year.

Toward economic disarmament, the state department moved with proclamation of a new commercial treaty with Russia, under which the war for the first time grant the U. S. S. R. most-favored-nation treatment.

But toward granting United States loan possessions less favored treatment congress moved, with passage of a sugar quota law, restricting importations of refined sugar from Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. At the white house, however, loomed prospect of a presidential veto if the senate concurs in this legislation.
