To Start Issuing Court Summonses on Property Taxes

September 15 Deadline for Real Estate; Justices to Take Action

Persons in Cuba township owing delinquent real estate and personal property taxes this week were the object of attention from the tax collection department established by the Lake county board of supervisors.

Notices on delinquent real estate taxes were placed in the mail Saturday with the stipulation that arrangements must be made for payment by September 15 or enforcement proceedings would be instituted.

With the passing of the deadline of paying delinquent personal property taxes on Friday, August 19, letters were sent to all owners of the taxes in the various townships ordering them to start issuing summonses for hearing in justice courts.

J. J. Claude and E. Gross, Cuba town justices, reported they would start this week to issue the summonses. They reported this would be done in sufficient numbers each time to cover a full court day.

Payment of delinquent taxes before court action is taken will save the property owner additional costs. The collection procedure is the same for both delinquent personal and real estate taxes. After the summonses are issued the cases will be heard in court and judgments asked. Executions will then be filed.

The property named in the judgment will be taken over by the Lake county sheriff's office for sale. Already a number of real estates has been made by Allen J. Nelson, Lake county treasurer. One hundred lots in a Fox Lake subdivision were sold for $200, adding $100,000 to the county treasury. He has been paid in delinquent real estate taxes since April and approximately $25,000 has been collected on delinquent personal property taxes in the county.

Mr. Claude estimated between 40 and 50 per cent of personal property tax delinquents in Cuba township have made payment. The majority of these are real estates situated in the village of Barrington.

The Lake county tax collection department is not alone concentrating on real estate and personal property tax delinquents, but is investigating will entered for probate in the Lake county circuit court. A number are being scrutinized to determine if all taxes are being paid before the estate is closed.

Several Village and Country Real Estate Transactions Are Reported

Building Permit Is Denied by Trustees at Public Hearing

A petition for a permit to remodel a structure for residential purposes was denied L. N. Morse, 610 Division street, at a public hearing held in the village hall Monday night. The motion to deny the petition was made by Trustee John H. Blanke and seconded by Trustee John Deeschler.

Mr. Morse presented a petition signed by residents in the neighborhood opposing the remodeling. But the proposal was opposed by Stanley Haffner, James Haffner and A. E. Bateman, also residing near the Morse property. Trustees Blanke and Carroll, who live in the neighborhood, entered objection.

The zoning ordinance was discussed by James Haffner, and after interpreting restrictions, the board voted to deny the permit. At present Mr. Morse is engaged in raising and selling chickens and his request for a permit was based on a plan to remodel his chicken building into living quarters.

Other business which appeared before the village board with the petition was the proposed dwelling, spoke to the board and acknowledged that the zoning ordinance did not permit a change. He felt that it would be an improvement because Mr. Morse would discontinue raising chickens, which had been the basis of a number of complaints to village officials as a nuisance, he added.

Several important real estate deals undertaken or completed during the last week include sales of both rural and village property in the Barrington district.

Mr. Fochelch, while under contract to purchase the property before the village board with the petition that Ella between Franklin and Chestnut be re-zoned to permit use as business property. He desired to remodel the house into a funeral home, he explained.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Schreiber have purchased the Charles Brinlinger house at 228 West Russell street as reported briefly in Frank's last week. The house is of seven rooms and two baths. It was purchased from Mrs. Charles Brinlinger. This is one of the most desirable homes in the city having been built only a little more than a year ago.

A definite date for appearance here was made Tuesday by James "Jimmy" Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, during a discussion with L. J. Miller, Barrington's number one Sox fan. The date was made by Mr. Dykes following the game Tuesday afternoon at which Mr. Miller and H. Schreiber and son Bobby were present.

The Sox manager had promised Mr. Miller earlier in the season that he would make an attempt to come to Barrington and meet his supporters. Although his time is occupied by many engagements, he assured him he would make every effort to be present.

County Officers Propose Statute For Lake Safety

A measure to restrict the number of passengers in rented row boats and to require that such boats be equipped with life preservers will be brought before the general assembly at its next session as the result of work done by the legislative committee of the Illinois County Officers association.

This committee, including H. D. Kelsey of Cuba township and John Thomas of Waukegan and other members, drafted the measure at a meeting in Peoria last Thursday and Friday. The committee has assurance that the plan will be placed on the call at the next session.

Because of the large number of lakes and resorts in Lake and McHenry counties, passage of this proposed bill would be of vital importance to these counties. Most of the persons drowned in northeastern Illinois this summer were riding in rented rowboats which upset. In several cases the boats were overloaded.

The committee also prepared a measure which would result in a more equitable distribution of the sales tax receipts among counties of the state.

The woman could be heard laughing as she tried to dodge the water. A moment later she had tumbled from the boat. Her companion, seeing her struggles, jumped in after her. Both went down. Other boats on the lake at the shore were rushed to the scene. The bodies were recovered and volunteer firemen and a physician worked for two hours with a pulmotor in an effort to revive them. A pulmotor from Barrington was rushed there by ambulance to assist.

A double inquest was conducted by Dr. John L. Taylor, Lake county coroner, with jury verdict of accidental death. The bodies were removed to Chicago for burial.

While the two fatalities at Wauconda killed the county's total to 23 as compared to 13 for all of 1936, Keller Wallace, of East Chicago Ind., narrowly escaped drowning in Lake Michigan at Dunes Park Sunday afternoon. He was swept into the waves in an effort to save two girls who became terrified when they evidently stepped into deep holes, Wallace was pulled ashore by Joseph Schaefer, 9424 S. Justine avenue, Chicago.

Artificial respiration was successfully applied.

The last scout will then swim 50 yards to the finish line. Winners will be determined by time and according to number of errors.

H. H. Calkins, chairman of the executive council, and John L. Bell, president of the Northwest Suburban council, have issued an invitation to the general public to attend the camp and witness the various activities and stunts. The camporee will start the fall and winter scouting campaign.
