Convict Flees Posse Near Crystal Lake

John Burris, an escaped convict from the honor farm at Michigan City, Ind., successfully eluded efforts of a searching posse organized by Sheriff Henry Nulle of McHenry county after he fled to avoid arrest on the Tim Collins farm at Crystal Lake Saturday.

Sheriff Nulle had learned Burris was working on the Collins farm and went there to take him into custody. When he asked for the man at the farm he was told Burris was in the barn milking. The sheriff then saw Burris slip through a rear door and disappear into a cornfield.

Although a posse was organized immediately, all efforts to locate the escaped convict failed. It was learned that Burris had served two years of a 1 to 20 year term at Michigan City before his escape. He started work on the Collins farm the Monday previous but was believed also to have been employed on other McHenry county farms.
