All set? Listen: HERE'S THE ENGINEERING MUST STORY OF THE YEAR!

Featuring the DYNAFLEX ENGINE and TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING — In the Most Modern Chassis in the World

YOU won't drive a hundred yards in a new Buick without realizing that something marvelously new and different is happening here. It's something that happens in no other car, in no other engine. Speeding through the intake manifold, the fuel charge hurricanes into the cylinder at something like 250 miles an hour. Leaping to meet it is the piston, with a unique device called a Turbulator built into its face. Then occurs something more than high compression—literally cyclotomic—swirling gasoline vapor is compacted about the spark plug. The spark sets off a fist-size hurricane—and gasoline gives up more performance than it ever gave up in a commercial engine before! This livelier, smarter power might seem enough for engineers to lavish on a car in a single year. But matching DYNAFLEX power in importance is Buick TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING and its arduous ride. Take a Buick over a railroad crossing—around a curve—over bumps. There's no clank and chatter, no tail-swing or roll; you cover rough going with the silk-smoothness of a panther on the prowl.
