

Illinois Breeders Send Many Entries to Livestock Show

Chicago Stock Yards Scene of Event November 27 to December 4

Increase of both exhibitors and exhibits over last year are registered from Illinois for the 1937 International live stock exposition, the management reports.

The show will be held in the International amphitheatre at the Chicago stock yards November 27 to December 4. Of the many Illinois purebred sheep breeders who will exhibit here this year, the largest show stocks have been entered by J. D. A. Green, of Oakland; Duesinger Brothers, Taylorville; Milling Farm, Barrington; and Anchorage Farm, Barrington.

Pomeroy Farm, also at Barrington, will exhibit in the swine classes. Other large entries from the state in this division of the show include C. O. Anderson and Sons, of Jacksonville; G. L. Burgess and Sons, Bensenville; Frank, Morton; Otto Holle, Decatur; Frank E. Sherer, Joy; Charles Orrell, Caladonia; Jim Meyer, Aurora; Joe Hubby, Chatsworth; Cooke Valley Farms, Eldred; Martin Johnson, and Sons, Alledo; Simon C. Moon, Towanda; and E. A. Cudahy's Sugar Grove Farm, Aurora.

Of the seven Illinois exhibitors of purebred Shorthorn cattle, the largest entries have been received from Arnold Brothers, of Sterling; Edolly Farms, Wilson; and Mathers Brothers, of Mason City. Milk-bred Shorthorn herds have been listed by John Thomas Adkins, of Prentice, exhibitor of the grand champion bull of his breed here last year; Brington Brothers, Cameron; Kingsdale Farm, Victoria; and A. W. Koble and Sons, Lisle.

Twenty-two Illinois breeders of Aberdeen-Angus cattle have made nominations for the contests of this breed. The largest showings will be made by A. A. Armstrong, of Tuscola; Robert W. Crump, White Heath; L. B. Henry, Charleston; and J. Garrett Tolan, Pleasant Plains. One of Mr. Tolan's entries at the 1936 International was the grand champion Aberdeen-Angus female.

Among the Hereford cattle exhibits will be a show herd of 13 animals from J. C. Andras and Sons, Manchester, and 12 head from Percy Meredith, Maple Park. T. P. Olson, of Altona, who showed the grand champion Red Polled bull at the 1936 exposition, has listed a herd of 16 animals for the competitions of this breed this year; and Mark Fruin, El Paso, and Hugh K. Pope, Yorkville, will be represented in the same contest.

Two full show herds of Polled Shorthorn cattle have been entered by the Leeson Stock Farm, Hoopston, and by Carl M. Johnson, DeKalb.

Sugar Grove Farm, exhibitor of the grand champion Belgian mare at the International exposition last year, will also show 11 head of this breed this year. Other Belgian breeders of the state who have listed entries are H. C. Horneman, Danville, and Dominick De Schipper and Son, Chicago. Of the 13 Illinois Percheron horse breeders who have listed entries, the largest number will be shown by William R. Skidmore, of McHenry, and by R. O. Flanery, Kansas, whose entries last year included the grand champion Percheron mare.

Buffalo horses will also be shown by Mr. Skidmore and by Dr. N. Sprout Hooney, of Glen Ellyn; Shire horses by G. Babson, of DeKalb, and George J. Stoll and Sons, of Chestnut.

The University of Illinois, Urbana, will be extensively represented in the competitions for fat cattle, sheep, and swine in which they have won numerous blue ribbons and championships here in past years.

Cures for Ailing Plants Outlined

The Master Gardener This is an excellent time to take stock of your house plants. And it is they do not measure up so well — if this one looks droopy and that one is tall and spindly, and another has scant foliage and is at a standstill, then ask yourself these questions:

1—Do I see it that my plants secure fresh, pure air every day? This is accomplished by airing the room thoroughly daily, being careful to open a window or door, however, that will not allow a direct draft to blow on the plants.

2—Is the temperature too high? This is unhealthful for your family as well as your plants. A temperature above 70 degrees is not conducive to good plant growth.

3—Am I using some means of maintaining a moist, humid atmosphere? If you do not have steam heat, place open vessels of water about the house. Or use the new water mats below your pots. Or another method is to place the pots on a bed of pebbles or sand so that water will be evaporating at all times about the pots, yet the pebbles or sand will raise the pots above water level so the pots do not stand in the water.

4—Am I feeding my plants, and in doing so, giving them a complete balanced diet? It is most necessary that you give your plants a complete balanced plant food, since the small amount of plant food originally in the soil soon becomes exhausted. Buy a complete balanced plant food and feed in accordance with the directions on the package.

5—Do I keep my plants free of dust and grime? Keep the foliage clean. The leaf is the plant's breathing apparatus and the pores must not be stopped up. With the smooth fleshy leaved plants this can be accomplished by wiping with a damp cloth. Other plants such as ferns and geraniums, can be lightly sprayed with water frequently. Pick off all dead and damaged leaves and buds.

Lemons Source of Electricity Experiments have demonstrated that a lemon is a source of electricity. "Spades" of copper and aluminum were inserted in a lemon and attached to instruments, and the fruit yielded a current of about one-half volt, and 0.002 ampere. The strength of the current varied in other lemons. A curator of electricity and communications at the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, estimated, taking into consideration the internal resistance of the lemons and other factors, it would require 800 lemons to light a two and one-half watt flashlight bulb.—Popu-
